Would Repeal Bill On Excise Taxes

Says Present Tax Hinders Public Thrift

Rep. Rawson States That Government Should Aid Thrift by All Citizens

Representative George E. Rawson has filed with the Clerk of the House of Representatives, a bill to repeal the present excise tax on Savings Banks and Savings Departments of Trust companies.

At the present time these thrift institutions pay an excise tax of one-half of one percent annually upon their deposits, except those invested in bonds of the Federal government, the Commonwealth and its sub-divisions; mortgages on Massachusetts real estate; real estate acquired by foreclosure and held not more than five years; real estate used in its banking business, and share of stock in Massachusetts trust companies.

Representative Rawson's bill, if enacted, will permit the banks greater freedom on investment, with larger earnings for their depositors.

In filing this bill, it is Rawson's belief that government should do everything possible to assist and encourage the people's thrift. In so doing it will eventually reduce the number of those dependent upon public welfare and old age assistance. Payments of these items are a large factor in the increased cost of government.

"Encouragement of thrift lends tangible support to our American way of life," Representative Rawson stated. "It is a sound and practical method of inculcating and developing those traits of character which have built this Commonwealth and this nation," he concluded.

Summarizes Variable Poll Tax Bill

Muther Outlines Its Main Features

Says It Is Not A Brand New Tax But Extends Liability to Women

The bill recently filed by Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, to replace the present $2 poll tax on men with a poll tax on all inhabitants at a rate of 10 percent of the local tax rates on property has created such widespread interest that its main features and text are printed here.

"I have had so many inquiries about the details of this proposal in the few days since its filing that I take this means to answer the questions most frequently asked," stated Muther.

The proposed tax replaces the present poll tax. It is not a brand new tax. It extends the liability for poll taxes to women. All exemptions and abatements now applicable to the present poll tax on men are equally extended to women; for example, no one under 20 or over 70 would be liable for this tax.

Cities and towns would handle the estimating, bookkeeping and collecting in the same way as they now handle the present poll tax. The tax is a head tax. Payment

Vandalism Afoot

The recent act of some individuals in attempting to destroy the beautiful Christmas tree recently erected at Newton Centre is an act which should not be commended, even by those responsible for it.

In this season of Christmas, with all its festive decorations, this deliberate act calls for speedy punishment of those who perpetrated the deed. Fortunately, the damage done has been rectified but this does not excuse the act.

This wanton destruction was not the work of children. It was done by persons considerably older. Certainly they must feel proud of their act and their mentality. It is such as these that should be punished.

Whoever was responsible for the attempted destruction of this beautiful tree should know what decent people really think of them. If they did, they would, or should, feel utterly ashamed of themselves.

It is to be hoped that those who were responsible for this wanton act will be found and that a suitable punishment will be meted out to them. Less they do not deserve.

Truth All Powerful

The one thing that defeats communism propaganda is truth. That basic fact has been proven over and over again. Truth is a potent weapon, a weapon the tyrants of the Kremlin have no defense against.

That is the reason for the Crusade for Freedom. It is organized and run by private citizens to spread the truth of democracy through Radio Free Europe. What is Radio Free Europe?

Radio Free Europe, supported by the Crusade for Freedom, operates two powerful stations beamed directly to the enslaved behind the Iron Curtain. For eleven and a half hours every day, these hard-hitting stations, one in Frankfurt and the other in Munich, blast away at the Communists, their secret agents and informers. It discredits, contradicts and exposes the false Red propaganda.

Escapes from behind the Iron Curtain broadcast to their fellow countrymen, telling what's actually going on in the free world. The effectiveness of the relentless broadcasts are proven by letters to the stations smuggled out from behind the Iron Curtain.

Why should Massachusetts residents enroll in the Crusade for Freedom? Communism has enslaved 71,000,000 people. This same enslavement could happen to our community, our neighborhood, and our families unless the tyrants are stopped. Peace and freedom can not prevail as long as the world is half slave and half free.

To the world, your enrollment in the Crusade is evidence of your belief in peace and freedom. To the enslaved behind the Iron Curtain, your enrollment in the Crusade is evidence of your sympathy for them and a measure of hope for their ultimate liberation.

The campaign for the Crusade for Freedom is now being conducted in the Bay State. It seeks 965,000 enrollments and $151,375 in contributions.

The money will go directly to the construction of two more stations in Europe and one in Asia, which will be called Radio Free Asia.

The Night

No night, not even a winter night, is quite as dark and silent as it seems. Go out and accept the night on its own terms, even now, and it takes on new or long-forgotten meaning. Walk a country road and you can see as well as feel the winter night, light and alive, in its own proportions.

Starlight is strangely brilliant, once you accept it. The whole sky has its own glow, which silhouettes the trees and the hills. It comes to life on a slope of frost-bronzed grass. It is reflected from the frosty trunks of the birches. It is magnified in the roadside pond, ice-silvered to mirror sheen. It almost gleams from a rooftop, and it is reflected from a darkened window. It is a cold, distant light, yet it is light that marks a path through the woods and gives shape and form to the roadside walls and rocky banks.

And, though the insects are gone, the night is not silent. No fox may bark, no owl hoot, and yet the night is alive with sound and movement. The subtle movement and the infinitely varied voices of the wind. A leaf scuffs along the road. An oak tree, not yet completely naked, rustles crisply. The grasses sigh. There is the soft, intermittent whisper in the high tops of the elms. And the towering hemlocks murmur among themselves with a voice quite different from that of whispering pines.

You walk, and you see and you hear, and it is ancient knowledge re-remembered. No night is quite so dark as it seems, once you explore it; no night is without its familiar voices, once you are prepared to listen.

Speculation Rife as to Gov. Dever's Plans . .

Whether Governor Paul A. Dever will stand for reelection to a third term next year is a question that is intriguing politicians in both parties.

A recent report from Washington that J. Howard McGrath will resign as U. S. Attorney General and that Dever will be named to succeed him in President Truman's cabinet, has caused a rush of speculation in political circles.

But even before that dispatch hit the front pages of the Boston newspapers there were reports that Governor Dever might retire from office at the end of his present term and return to his law practice.

While all this comes under the heading of conjecture, with Mr. Dever having indicated that he will not make known his future political plans until next April, it poses a number of interesting possibilities.

It is widely assumed that Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin will return home and become a candidate for Governor if Dever decides that four years on Beacon Hill are all he wants. Actually, however, there is no assurance that Tobin will run next year if Dever doesn't.

How Governor Dever feels on the matter is not known. Earlier this year, persons close to him were convinced that he would not seek a third term and that he was rather anxious to get back to his law practice. Now they're not so sure, although there is a feeling that Dever may finally decide to withdraw to private life for two years and then challenge Senator Leverett Saltonstall in 1954.

Some of Mr. Dever's friends are understandably anxious to have him hold the Governorship for six years, if he can, and they undoubtedly will do their utmost to influence him in that direction. Dever, however, has a habit of making up his own mind, and under existing conditions wrestling with the State's problems for a four-year period imposes a heavy strain on any man.

Whether Secretary Tobin would return to the political wars as a candidate for the Governorship, if Mr. Dever withdraws to private life, might well depend on the plans of President Truman.

Aside from Vice President Barkley, Tobin is the most effective and colorful campaigner in the Presidential cabinet. If Truman himself runs again, Tobin probably would be disposed to remain with the man who gave him national recognition and to stump the nation for him.

There is also the possibility that Dever may decide to challenge Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and that Congressman John F. Kennedy might run for the Governorship.

Kennedy's recent speeches have all been pitched to international issues and to conditions in the Far East. He gives every indication that he intends to oppose Lodge, but he also has made it plain that he will not run against Dever in a Democratic primary and that he will tailor his plans to coincide with those of Dever.

Right now it's more certain that Kennedy will be a candidate for State-wide office next year than it is that either Dever or Tobin will be on the ballot.

President Truman, of course, may have something to say about who runs in Massachusetts for if he is a candidate he will want to have a strong Democrat ticket here. He might undertake to persuade Dever to run again, and failing in that he conceivably would request Tobin to quit the national scene to help strengthen the Democratic party in Massachusetts.

While the top Massachusetts Republicans aren't making any formal pronouncements, it seems clear that they are leaning more and more to State Senator Sumner G. Whittier as the G.O.P. candidate for Governor.

They will undertake to persuade former State Treasurer Laurence Curtis of the Back Bay to abandon his plans to run for the Governorship, and if he refuses to do so, they make make an active fight to land the nomination for Whittier.

Bay State to Test Taft-Eisenhower Strength

Massachusetts might well be one of the real battlegrounds in the skirmishing for the Republican nomination for President if the State Legislature had adopted a proposal that persons seeking election as delegates be required to run pledged to specific Presidential contenders.

Even with the weak and watery law under which the election of the convention delegates will be held next autumn, the Bay State may see a real test of G.O.P. sentiment for Senator Robert A. Taft and General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Supporters of Taft, who are planning a big reception for the Ohio man when he comes to Boston next Tuesday, are displaying mounting confidence.

While Eisenhower is widely acclaimed by the political seers as a potentially much more potent vote-getter than Taft, the fact is that "Mr. Republican" might defeat the General in a Presidential primary.

That is recognized by some of the men beating the drums for Taft, including Republican House Leader Charles Gibbons of Stoneham, Representative James C. Bayley of the Back Bay and George F. Oakes of Roslindale.

Eisenhower is considered to be very strong among the liberal Republicans and the independent voters, and Taft's greatest strength probably will be found in the Old Guard and the so-called hard core of the G.O.P.

It is the members of the Old Guard who do most of the voting in a pre-primary Presidential election, where the turnout usually is very small, and if there were a direct choice between Taft and Eisenhower, we suspect that Taft would fare very well.

The personalities of the men bidding for election as delegates will, of course, be a major factor here in Massachusetts.

Men like Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Leverett Saltonstall, Congressman Christian Herter, former Governor Robert F. Bradford and Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., unquestionably could achieve election as delegates, no matter whose cause they espoused.

State Representative Christian A. Herter, Jr., of Newton, son of the Congressman, who is really spearheading the Eisenhower campaign in Massachusetts, also is one of the most promising young men in the Republican party and is responsible for the manner in which so many young men and women are rallying for "Ike."

But Senator Taft probably could cut sharply into the Massachusetts convention vote if he chooses to enter a full slate of candidates for delegates in this State.

There is a disposition on the part of many voters to mark crosses beside the names of candidates who are formally pledged, and if the supporters of Taft are officially pledged to him while the Eisenhower backers are unpledged, the Taft group would have a decided advantage.

Despite the fact that the State's most popular Republicans are lining up with Eisenhower, there is no reason whatever to believe that a showdown fight here would be any runaway for the General.

When Football Player Jan Janssen killed a rabbit which had strayed onto the playing field in Panningen, The Netherlands, police charged him with hunting without a license.

Earl Martin, 22, was fined $13 in Atlanta for stealing a comic book, the name of which was: "Crime Does Not Pay!"

An assistant district attorney in Oklahoma City asked Jack Woody if he knew of any reason why he could not serve as an impartial juror in the trial of a suspected bootlegger. "Well, yes, I believe I do," said Woody. "I'm just a part-time mechanic; I'm a full-time wholesale bootlegger."

Judge W. W. Sheahan of Lemoore, Calif., fined himself $200 for drunken driving.

While making a quick getaway from a store he had robbed in Manhattan, William Clark hopped into a car which already had a passenger, Patrolman Michael Fox, who was trailing Clark.

A runaway bulldozer in Miami plowed driverless across a block-long fence, downed five trees and smashed 20 feet of wire at Carl Gulbrandsen's home, smashed 15 yards of fence, ripped up 30 feet of water pipe, downed five clothesline poles and several grapefruit and apple trees at Mrs. Goldie Spur's home, crashed through Frank Nowell's chicken house before coming to a halt in his garage.

What Shall We Eat . . . After a Day of Shopping

These are the shopping days when we leave home in the morning to spend hours in the stores. It's good to arrive home to serve a dinner that doesn't take too much preparation. We have in mind Chicken Pie which can be prepared in just a few minutes after you get in; or you can get the masculine side of the family to complete this dish and pop it into the oven.

Why not put together the chicken mixture and have it ready to heat. Then pour into a casserole. Apply the biscuit topping and bake. Use your own familiar, fast recipe for biscuit topping, or better still just whip up a topping from a prepared biscuit mix to which you add nutritious milk. Here's the recipe and happy shopping!

CHICKEN PIE
1-2 cup chicken stock, cold
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk, scalded
1 cup drained canned peas
2 1/2 cups chicken, cut in large pieces
1 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Combine chicken stock and flour and blend; gradually add the milk while stirring and cook until smooth and thickened. Combine with chicken, celery, peas and seasonings and turn into a 1 1/2 quart buttered casserole. Roll out a cover from biscuit mix; cut holes in top to allow steam to escape. Place on top of filled casserole. Crimp or flute edge of dough. Bake as directed for biscuit topping. Makes 6 servings.

Breakfast

Cream of Wheat
Cinnamon Toast

Playground for Underwood School Under Discussion at Meeting

The regular meeting of the Officers and Executive Committee of the Newton Improvement Association was held at the Hunnewell Club Wednesday evening. President William Powers presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Dora Balos, Chairman of the Library Committee reported that arrangements were nearly complete for hosts and hostesses to serve at the Dedication Ceremony covering the new addition to the main library. As this represents one of several definite improvements in Newton Corner, the Improvement Association will take an active part. This will constitute the December Open Meeting and everyone is cordially invited.

There was quite a discussion in regard to the lack of a suitable playground at Underwood School. President Powers referred this matter to the Playground Committee, who will check into the matter and report at a later meeting.

Paul S. Rich reported that the money for the new paving in Newton Corner was available and that he expected that the work would be done by April 1st.

Mr. Rich also spoke of the possibility of developing a playground at Hunnewell Hill and President Powers asked the Playground Committee to cooperate in checking into this right away. Mr. Rich said that he felt that a playground in this section was very desirable in order to take care of the smaller children and avoid their having to cross dangerous street intersections.

Mr. Harold Wooster, Chairman of the Program Committee reported that his Committee had met and was suggesting the following Program for public Open Meetings this winter.

December 20 — Dedication of the new addition to the main library.

January Meeting — Discussion of physical improvements in Newton Corner. This would include reports from the various Committees on matters on which the Improvement Association is already working. Those attending would also be asked to give suggestions on new plans or new improvements which should receive the attention of the Improvement Association.

March Meeting—A general subject, "Good Citizenship." This might be considered from the angle of promoting good citizenship among the younger people as well as grown-ups. An outstanding speaker will be secured, who can discuss opportunities and the development of possible Programs for improving citizenship; and everyone present will be invited to express their views and take part in a discussion. It is felt that an Improvement Association should not only be interested in physical improvements but also in a program which has for its purpose the building of better citizens.

April Meeting—The Annual Meeting with reports of all existing Committees and the election of officers.

All of the above Meetings will be public meetings and everyone will be welcome to attend and bring their suggestions. They are invited to take part in the discussion regardless of whether they are at present members of the Improvement Association or not.

This report of the Program Committee was unanimously adopted. The members of the Program Committee are:

Chairman, Mr. Harold Wooster; Members, Mr. Earl W. Douglas, Miss Elizabeth Tobey, Mr. Guy Baker, Mr. Morris Adler, Mr. Sydney Marston, and Ex-officio members, Mr. William Powers and Mr. E. J. Pease.

Joseph E. O'Connell of Newton is the grandfather of Ellen Mary Cunningham, born Nov. 19, at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Brighton, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Cunningham of 77 Kirkstall road, their second child, first daughter.

The ceremony took place at the Second Church, in West Newton. Dr. R. Clyde Yarbrough officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony. A reception followed in the church parish house. The bride carried a white prayer book, with an orchid and stephanotis. A Juliet cap of rosepoint held in place her finger tip nylon veil.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Garrard Bennett, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Bridesmaids were: Miss Donna Bewley, of Lockport, N. Y., Miss Margaret Marsh, Drexel Hill, Penn., Miss Ann Shepard, West Newton, and Mrs. L. Harrison, Thayer, Cambridge, Mass. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore bengalene gowns. ## Dolls, Dressed by 70-Year-Old Grandmother, Are Displayed

Fourteen dolls, dressed by a 70-year-old grandmother for the Toy Lending Library, a home service project of the Unitarian Service Committee being successfully carried out at Hale House, 12 Davis street, Boston, made a novel after-service display Sunday noon in the rear of a station wagon in the driveway of the West Newton Unitarian Church.

Rev. John Ogden Fisher, minister of the First Unitarian Society in Newton, called the attention of parishioners to the volunteer work of Mrs. J. H. Totman, 11 Ridgway Terrace, Newton Highlands, and to the dolls, which were brought to the church at his request by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Totman before they were presented to Miss Alice B. Mifflin, 9 Holden road, West Newton, director of Hale House. It is hoped that others may wish to contribute dolls or doll clothes for the same Toy Lending Library at Hale House.

The inspired work of Mrs. Totman in dressing these fourteen dolls, large and small, is deserving of extra praise because she has suffered from glaucoma for twelve years. She has undergone several operations and is under constant medical treatment for this painful, and unfortunately progressive, disease of the eyes. There are many days when she is unable to sew at all. However, she regards this as a labor of love to help provide dolls for underprivileged children in Boston's South End.

Making many of her patterns to suit the varied sizes of dolls she has procured, and using available odds and ends of materials, some of them kindly donated by enthusiastic friends who have seen her work, she uses the sewing machine since she is unable to do much hand sewing because of her eye ailment. Mrs. Totman doesn't remember making many doll outfits for her own daughter or granddaughter, now 15, but until her granddaughter was 10 years old, she made most of the child's dresses.

Miss Elsie Lane of Oak terrace died December 1. The services were held at the chapel of the Newton Cemetery Monday at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

She has made herself universally popular with the cast for her unfailing good humor and skillful accompaniments.

During the war, Mrs. Dese served as a Red Cross recreation worker in many military hospitals, especially those where amputees were being cared for. She is married to a captain in the United States Army, who is currently stationed in Munich, Germany, and plans to fly to join him as soon as the show closes its engagement.

Self-Employed Subject To Old Age Tax

Federal officials state that a great number of self-employed persons do not know that the law compels them to pay a social security old age insurance tax for themselves, whether they want to or not.

Under the law passed this year, all the self-employed who net $500 or more a year must pay except farmers, doctors, lawyers, dentists, architects, professional engineers and clergymen. The tax is two and one-fourth percent of earnings up to $3600 a year. It is entered on a special schedule in the regular U. S. income tax return.

Tax Bill-

of it is not required before voting. It has nothing to do with the right to vote.

The tax, purposely, is not heavy. It is not primarily a money raiser more than is the present poll tax. For instance, Newton with an annual budget now running over $11 million would collect about $120 thousand from this tax as compared to about $45 thousand from the present poll tax. The individual would have paid $3.84 in 1951.

The tax is a direct, not a hidden tax. Its chief purpose is to remind those who pay only a flat $2 direct tax to their city or town, or who do not pay any direct tax, of the effect of desired programs on their city's tax rate.

The tax itself is easily understood—linking two well known tax phrases, "poll tax" and "tax rate," and establishing a close relationship between the two.

The text of the bill is as follows:

An act to provide for a poll tax variable in accordance with the tax rate on property.

Section 1 of Chapter 59 of the General Laws, as appearing in the Tercentenary Edition, is hereby amended by striking out the said section in its entirety and inserting in place thereof the following section, so as to read as follows:

Section 1. In the year nineteen hundred and fifty-three and annually thereafter a poll tax shall be assessed on every inhabitant of the commonwealth above the age of twenty, whether a citizen of the United States or an alien. The amount so assessed upon each inhabitant shall be a sum equal to ten percent of the tax rate established for the current year for each thousand dollars of real and personal property valuation in the municipality wherein the inhabitant resides, provided that all exemptions and abatements applicable to poll taxes assessed on male inhabitants on January first, nineteen hundred and fifty-two as they may be amended from time to time shall be applicable in like manner to all inhabitants subject to taxation under this section.

Spotlight on the Newtons

The Newton Committee of the Planned Parenthood League is carrying on its educational program, furthering one of the greatest public issues since women's suffrage, under the leadership of Mrs. Ernest W. Kuebler, of West Newton.

Although their referendum of November, 1948, was defeated, this organization feels that when the general public gains a knowledge of the issues involved, and of the benefits derived therefrom, victory will be theirs.

Massachusetts and Connecticut are the only two states in this country that forbid its citizens to choose for themselves whether or not they should have medical council in matters of planned parenthood. Now, doctors cannot by law, render aid or information in spacing a family, even if another child could not be born of this mother; even if it means the death of the mother herself. He must close his eyes and let the mother in her ignorance, go to her destruction.

"Is this not a violation of the Hippocratic Oath, which must be sworn to by every recipient of the M. D. degree?" asked one of the Newton Committee.

We cite the case of a League member. "My first child had a difficult birth. Since then, I have had three stillborns. Each one brought great grief and expense to my loved ones. My doctor tells me this condition may prevail for several years. Why should I present my family with a dead baby each year?"

"Planned Parenthood is not a moral issue," says the Newton Committee Chairman, "It is plainly a matter of civil rights!" Mrs. Morris H. Adler, vice chairman, who, together with Mrs. Kuebler, originated the Newton Committee, joined the Chairman in this statement: "If the antiquated law forbidding birth control in this state were changed, of course those persons whose religion forbids these medical methods would not be asked to accept such aid. But, is it fair, or lawful, for a minority group to dictate to others, who need and desire aid? Should not each married person have the right to decide this for himself?"

Mrs. Kuebler, herself a wife and mother, outlined the 4 point program of the League.

- 1—Help for childless couples who long for children.
- 2—Marriage counseling.
- 3—Research in the field of human reproduction.
- 4—Child-spacing, to make healthier mothers and babies, in order to increase family stability and happiness.

Over 1030 Massachusetts clergymen, 250 social workers, 155 educators, and 3,363 physicians have approved this movement, in the interest of the people who look to them for aid and guidance.

India's Nehru, on his recent visit to this country, expressed great interest in Planned Parenthood, as a step forward for his famine-ridden country. His daughter is also investigating its possibilities.

It is interesting to note that the members of this committee are themselves parents. They are helping to stamp out the mistaken idea that birth control is a formula of a childless way of life.

The Planned Parenthood League stands for a healthy, happy family unit, which, after all, is the backbone of America.

NEWTON COMMITTEE OFFICERS of the Planned Parenthood League discuss their 4-point program. Seated, left to right: Mrs. Ernest W. Kuebler, chairman; Mrs. Morris H. Adler, vice chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Abrams, Jr., treasurer. Standing, Mrs. Gordon B. Gupitill, secretary.

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood has been invited as principal speaker for the evening, all the Commanders of all Newton Veteran Organizations, Commissioner Edmund T. Dungan of the Veteran Service Dept. with his assistant Norman Mitchell will be guests of the UVON.

At these send-offs, each inductee is presented a pen and pencil set by Commissioner Dungan, a gift of the City of Newton and a card is also presented from the Commanders of member organizations of the UVON. Also present is a representative of the city government with these Clergymen, and a collation is served by ladies of Newton Chapter American Red Cross.

Nearly 700 mayors and other city officials, as well as leaders of State League of Municipalities will attend.

Tremendous Mail Volume Predicted

There's no doubt about the nearness of the Christmas Season if one should visit the local postoffices. Postal officials say that it promises to be the greatest mail load in history and they feel that the record number of packages going to the armed forces in this country this Christmas will swell the top figures of last Christmas by thousands of pieces.

Acting Postmaster Joseph P. W. Finn stated that gift packages for about three quarters of the country should be mailed this week for assured Yuletide delivery. Christmas cards for Korea, Japan, the Pacific and for other distant places not already deposited should be in the mails this week with air mail postage affixed, the postmaster said.

He urged every householder to buy their Christmas postage stamps now and not to wait until the postoffice lobbies are crowded later. The following recommendations were made by postal authorities; place a duplicate copy of address inside every package, write address on packages in ink, be sure the return address is on every package mailed, insure all packages but if they are small, fragile and have a high value, register them or any valuable papers, do not send money in Christmas cards to our armed forces overseas since they may not be able to use it if received. Many countries prohibit importation of U. S. currency. Send them a U. S. Postal Money Order which can be cashed at any post-office of the Army or Navy in any country.

Further recommendations include the sending of Christmas cards sealed and with first-class postage affixed; all distant cards and packages would be well to have air mail or special delivery postage affixed.

Face your cards for local delivery, tie them in bundles and, if possible bring them to the local postoffice. Use postal delivery zone numbers to the fullest extent to help temporary men in making mail separations but most of all do not wait until the week before Christmas to deposit your local cards and packages.

Sixty boys gladly accepted the idea and rooms for meetings were found, where a Sunday School class, a track team, bowling team, basketball, and a summer camp materialized. The first reunion of the club was held December 13, 1919 with 39 members in attendance. Thirty were present last Saturday evening when dinner was served. The club voted to meet yearly on Saturday following Thanksgiving. Some of the original members are sometimes guests of the club. Manchester, N. H., and Providence, R. I., were represented.

His Fifteenth Cadillac!

Put a man behind the wheel of a Cadillac—and he's very likely to stay behind the wheel of a Cadillac!

Many and many a man is driving his fifteenth Cadillac—and it is not unusual to encounter an owner who goes far beyond that figure.

Naturally, a car must offer many things in order to have such an enduring hold on the affections of those who own and drive it.

It must be as faithful and dependable as a mechanical creation of its type can be.

It must be so pleasant to drive and so easy to handle that the hours at its wheel bring rest and relaxation.

It must be so beautiful and so highly respected that it is a compliment to its owner wherever he drives.

And it must be economical, both to operate and to maintain—for luxury brings a dual pleasure when it comes with no extra penalty in cost.

In short, if a car is to have such a hold on the regard of its owners, it must be a Cadillac!

If you have already ordered this distinguished car, and are awaiting its delivery, hold firm to your purpose—for each day brings you closer to your heart's desire.

But if we don't yet have your order, better come in and see us today. The sooner you place your order, the sooner you'll have those many wonderful things which only a Cadillac provides.

Newton Fire Department In Raytheon Fire Drill

In cooperation with the Newton and Watertown Fire Depts., the Raytheon Mfg. Co.'s Equipment Engineering Division at 148 California street, Newton, staged a practice fire drill at 10:16 Tuesday morning.

Exactly 3½ minutes after the fire alarm was sounded, about 1000 employees evacuated the Building, where the fire supposedly started in the plastics laboratory on the third floor. Shortly after the fire was reported, the alarm was sounded in the building by means of the telephone dial PAX system. Newton Fire Chief John Corcoran pulled the fire alarm box outside the building to summon municipal aid.

Several pieces of fire apparatus were sent by the Newton and Watertown Fire Depts. to aid the 130 evacuation workers and 60 fire fighters of the Equipment Engineering Division. Ladders were put up, and firemen, unaware that the "fire" was only a practice drill, were all ready to go into action by chopping a hole in the roof when they were stopped by James Pope, Deputy Fire Chief in the Engineering Building. One "casualty" was carried out on a stretcher by Raytheon evacuation workers.

Leo J. Kramer of the Raytheon Equipment Engineering Division acted as fire chief for the building. He was assisted by Charles Warburton and James Pope, both deputy chiefs.

Three photographers from the Raytheon Publications Dept. took moving pictures and three more photographers took still pictures in order to make a complete record that would reveal any flaws in the procedure.

THE TOY CHEST NEWTONVILLE For Your Convenience OPEN EVERY NIGHT 'TIL CHRISTMAS

The practice drill just held is part of the Raytheon plant evacuation and damage control program in which 2000 Raytheon employees will undergo training. Plans are under way to hold similar fire drills at each of Raytheon's locations. Every 10 weeks, a new training class for firemen and evacuation workers will start at Raytheon. Personnel of the Equipment Engineering Division had already completed the course.

Fire Chiefs John Corcoran from the Newton Fire Department and William McElroy from Watertown both remained at the scene until the drill was completed. The entire drill lasted only about 30 minutes.

The Newton Fire Dept. was also represented by Deputy Chief Francis J. Linnehan, Assistant Fire Chiefs William C. Fanning and Henry L. Murphy, and Acting Chief John L. Martin. Chief Murphy was in active charge of the detail. Captain John J. Devaney from the Watertown Fire Dept. assisted Chief McElroy.

Eight men from the Newton Police Dept., working with Sgt. William Dowling, head of the Traffic Bureau, came to the scene to aid the firemen.

The drill was also attended by Mayor of Newton, Theodore R. Lockwood.

Mayor Lockwood, Chief Corcoran, and Raytheon officials concerned expressed satisfaction over the smooth coordination and efficient execution shown by all participants in the drill.

Swimming Pool Project Meets Opposition

The proposal for a municipal swimming pool as advocated by certain groups in the city, met with an opposition petition at a public hearing held by the Board of Aldermen on the petition of the Horace Mann Improvement Association Monday night.

Atty James P. Gallagher, representing the Horace Mann Association, said that there is a serious lack of bathing facilities in the city as the result of pollution in the Charles River. He said that Crystal Lake in Newton Centre was too far away for children of the north side of the city. Bathing facilities at Albermarle would provide for five schools, including the Day Junior High School, whose pupils use the playground at present, he said.

There is considerable sentiment behind the plan, which was proposed four years ago, and would be an investment in the youth of the city, Mr. Gallagher said. Endorsers of the plan were listed as the Nonantum and Newton Posts, American Legion; the Newton Restaurant Owners' Association, Rep. Christian Herter, Jr., James E. Murphy, member of the Recreation Commission; the Raytheon Employees' Union, and others. The Newton Kiwanis Club and Mrs. Jeannette C. West, another member of the Recreation Commission, were listed as favoring a municipal swimming pool, without endorsing this specific plan.

Also urging the approval of the project was Harry Gath, Jr., of 600 California street, Newtonville, originator of the plan, who said that he has sponsored athletic groups in the city for 20 years, which have helped to cut down delinquency. William P. Maloney, chairman of the United Veterans Organizations and past commander of the Sgt. Daley Post, VFW, said that the project would help build for the future and its cost would be small compared to the benefits in curbing delinquency.

The petition opposing the project was presented by Mrs. Frances Doherty of 71 Fessenden street, an abutter of the Albermarle Playground. Others who opposed the plan were Jason S. Ginsburg of 107 Cabot street, Newtonville; Mrs. Eugene M. Lebert, 346 Crafts street, Newtonville; Mrs. Charles Horan of 65 Fessenden street; Christopher Murphy of 68 Fessenden street, and Calvin M. Weber of 60 Fessenden street.

The latter said that the residents of Fessenden street were opposed to the project and stated that if it were approved, they would take court action to prevent the construction of the pool. Mr. Ginsburg asserted that if a swimming pool is built in Newtonville, other areas of the city would demand similar projects. The expenditures could be used for more constructive purposes in the war economy, Mr. Ginsburg asserted.

Mrs. Horan said that the city cannot afford a swimming pool at the present time. Mr. Murphy said that a traffic hazard would result on Fessenden street, while Mrs. Lebert maintained that the project is not advisable at the present time since the city is behind schedule in the development of new schools and playgrounds. A letter opposing the project, received from Frederic E. Seeton, 11 Fairway drive, West Newton, was read by City Clerk Frank M. Grant.

ARCHAIC SYSTEM

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Until you see it in actual operation, I as a Newton-born citizen would never believe that our city government, under its non-partisan elections could possibly hold to such an archaic system in its non-partisan city elections, well demonstrated in the recent city election in Ward 2, with the recount tabulation I attended on behalf of Harry Gath, Jr., runner-up for ward alderman.

Seldom is there a recount demanded in Newton, but the fallacy of the system displays itself when a recount is requested and the board of registrars have the duty to interpret the wish of the voters.

Newton voters are highly intelligent but the citizenry has demanded its confusion under the present preferential system and I do not blame them. Neither do I blame the election officers in their original counting. But, I can see immense possibilities for error with the tabulated second and third choices.

I saw some 4,000 ballots cast in the Ward 2 city election. I represented Harry Gath, Jr. Even a "Philadelphia lawyer" would have considerable difficulty in marking his ballot properly.

Let us take a case in point without a quota of exaggeration. These kind of ballots we witnessed before the full board of registrars at the recount. It is typical. Blank ballots are the only ones dismissed or uncounted. There were FIVE candidates for the board of aldermen from Ward 2. Now, I'll present a graphic case of a ballot cast which can be multiplied by the hundreds under the outmoded preferential system. Here it is:

	1st	2nd	3rd
Harry Gath, Jr. ....	x
William A. Jackson ...		x
Wm. R. O'Connell ...			x
William J. Robinson ...
Robert E. Womboldt ...

Who wins? Nobody. The ballot is not discarded. The first choices revert to second choice and the singleton for second choice is pushed into the third choice bracket. Whereupon, by the one, two, three system existent in Newton, the only city in Massachusetts to hold to such a system, all votes are rolled into one like a jelly-roll for the total count. Time for a change says I!

So, since Newton's city elections these votes revert this way let us take a supposititious case with ONLY THREE candidates where the count is made under the preferential system. Here it is:

	1st	2nd	3rd
Candidate A ...	500	50	0
Candidate B ...	400	100	50
Candidate C ...	300	200	100

Who wins? Nobody less than the third candidate, who definitely was not the first choice of the electorate. It would be the same if there were five or 10 candidates. What a system?

Preferential voting does not belong in Newton. Let us be rid of it by legislative action as it was

"This Is A Woman" Proves an Amusing And Entertaining Skit in Six Stages

The meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club held November 28 at the Auburndale Club House proved an amusing and entertaining afternoon. The production called "This Is A Woman" showed six stages in the life of a Woman all told by song, poetry and tableau. Mildred Foley as "Baby's Nurse" recited "Just A Baby." Dorothy Kelley as the convincing, pert little schoolgirl recited "A School Day." Lorina LeBaron showing budding romance with "Her Lovers," Rose Markey as the lovely bride who asks "How Do I Love Thee?" Irma Herrick made a perfect example as the frenzied housewife battling every-day chores with "It Takes A Heap O' Livin' in a House to Make It Home;" and Mildred Haake portrayed old age as Grandma, serenely imparting to us her sentiments on "Age."

Songs sung by the Club chorus to the appropriate tableaux were: "Tutu Mar amba" by Howard D. McKinney; "I Can't O'D the Sum from Babes in Toyland, music by Victor Herbert; "My Johann, by Edward Grieg; Faithful and True, from Lohengrin, by R. Wagner; "I Love A Little Cottage, by Stott-O'Hara; and Grandmother's Minuet, by Edward Grieg.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. Lawrence L. Fidalgo, music director and chairman who has moved and Mrs. Charles S. Butler was welcomed as new chorus director. Mrs. John R. Draper, accompanist.

Miss Adelaide Ball, Twelfth District Director of the Mass. State Federation of Woman's Clubs, spoke briefly.

Mrs. Edwin C. Harkins, managed the production back stage and Mrs. William W. Edson, president, conducted the business meeting and lead the opening exercises.

Mrs. Reginald Hiltz, was hostess, and the pourers were Mrs. Ray N. Simpson and Mrs. Arthur W. C. Desoe.

Around the auditorium were tables decorated in keeping with the production. In this way funds were raised to help pay for the costumes and decorations. Ladies in costume were, Mrs. Harry E. Thompson, Mrs. Carl G. Bergstedt, Mrs. Richard F. Cleveland, Mrs. William Foley, Mrs. Ray N. Simpson, Mrs. Robert E. Woods, Mrs. Robert MacLaughlin.

Other dates to remember, December 7, Drama Group; December 4, Literature Tea.

Dec. Has Grim Accident Record

Last December 83 were killed in highway traffic accidents. 34 Pedestrians were killed—31 after dark.

Last December 5873 were injured, many crippled for life. 20 people killed each week—8 people injured each hour.

This was the grim record last December—the most dangerous month for traffic accidents—according to Chief of Police Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department which is co-operating with Registrar King in a special campaign to reduce traffic accidents this month.

"We must avoid death and injury on our highways this year," said Chief Purcell and the Registrar, outlining the extreme need for public co-operation with enforcement officers of the State.

"Highway traffic deaths and injuries exact a dreadful toll in December. We have 60,000 more automobiles registered this year. Our mileage has increased by a half billion. Courteous consideration by every driver and pedestrian could prevent a repetition of last year's tragic experience. Drinking drivers, speed maniacs and thoughtless pedestrians were largely responsible for this terrible holocaust," stated the Registrar.

"Our department will work with the Registry of Motor Vehicles in an effort to prevent deaths and injury during the coming holiday period. Registrar King and we ask the fullest co-operation of every resident of this community to make December accident-free," concluded Chief Purcell.

- (1) We don't tie springs just 4 or 6 ways—we tie them fully 8 ways and with special twine.
- (2) We don't just glue loose frames—we take out old dowels, replace them with larger and new ones. We add brand new corner blocks.
- (3) We don't tack seams at just the obvious spots—we hand sew seams throughout the piece.
- (4) The seams on the sides and backs aren't blind-tacked—all the seams are hand-sewn.
- (5) We don't use ordinary fibre or excelsior—we use the new, expensive moss filling.
- (6) We don't just repair your cushions—we make brand new cushions, springs and all.
- (7) We don't pat the fabric on carelessly—we make sure the pattern matches perfectly.

Behind Scenes in American Business

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

How will a Korean truce affect business? Top business men and economists believe heavy industries will continue at a high level of activity at least for the first half of 1952. Defense spending will keep the steel mills, the aircraft plants, copper and aluminum production humming. No one will put any real reliance upon any truce in Korea; it will be a long time before America falls back into complacency.

However, it would not be surprising, after six months or so, to see some weakening tendencies in certain lines — assuming there are no increasingly unpleasant incidents in world affairs. America's productive capacity is so great that the continuing absence of a shooting war might well result in some cutbacks. Economists have had their fingers crossed about the second half of 1952 anyway. They feel that we have had a long cycle of prosperity, supported and prolonged by many artificial stimulants. If a letdown in business is to come, the latter part of 1952 might produce it.

Regardless of the trend of world affairs, the coming year is going to be a difficult one from the standpoint of labor relations, many economists believe. Bickering and strikes may be numerous.

Cost-of-living controls are not working as well as they should and this is adding to tension between labor and management. The year ahead will be full of problems of the kind that have been showing up in the business pattern recently.

BOUNCING INFANT — The home-hair coloring industry, an infant a year ago, will be a lusty $20,000,000 business by the end of 1951. Several cosmetic manufacturers are branching out into that market. Tintair, which started it all, is now expanding with a new variation called Lightening Change. This is "not a hair coloring or a caustic stripper but a hair lightener" which is said to soften and condition as it lightens. Although hair lighteners are generally associated with blondes, the manufacturers report that Lightening Change in hundreds of tests hit the spot with dark-haired women who wanted only to lighten their tresses a few shades. Consumer acceptance of the new product in test cities indicated that the home beauty care idea is continuing to open new sources of revenue to drug and department stores.

THINGS TO COME — For the homeowner or the small-town street department, a new snow cleaner is hand operated, clears a ton of snow per minute and throws the snow 65 feet in any direction you wish. . . . The strictly amateur photographer will like a new camera that is supplied already loaded with film — in a mailing unit that can be returned to the manufacturer for developing and printing. . . . For over-weight persons, an appetite-killer that combines amphetamine with a package of vitamins is intended to offset any deficiencies that may arise out of reduced diet. . . . An insecticide that can be mixed with paint to bring certain death to insects for the life of the paint.

DOUBLE-HARNESS — An "uncommon" type of business management team is that of Brigadier-General David Sarnoff, Radio Corporation of America's board chairman, and Frank M. Folsom, its president. "Sarnoff and Folsom really make up that entity beloved by theorists and rarely found in practice — a top management team," in the words of Business Week. "They work together in a manner quite uncommon in business corporations. Usually one man so dominates the company that the No. 2 man never does anything without feeling the breath of the No. 1 on his neck. Not so with the RCA team," the magazine added.

The two RCA chiefs complementing on their particular skills, mention one another by concentration. Sarnoff specializes in technical and research matters; Folsom handles merchandising decisions. Thus problems are split largely on the basis of natural interests and the result is a smooth top-level relationship.

BITS O' BUSINESS — A match industry spokesman estimates that United States companies produced over 508 billion matches in the year ended June 30, 1951; more than half of them were book matches. . . . Commerce Department figures the government will run about $4 billion in the red for the fiscal year ending next June 30. . . . Good news for the consumer at last — the Office of Price Stabilization has notified soap makers that their price ceilings will be lowered. . . . The nation's steel mills were scheduled to operate at 103.7 per cent of theoretical capacity last week, compared with 101.1 per cent the week before. The members of the club are planning decorations and entertainment in the period of the station's construction. Their annual greens sale, which is to be open to the public is to be held on Wednesday, December 19 from 1 to 6 p. m. ### LITTLE GWENIE

By Nancy Beard

CHAPTER I

Little Gwen Fenton sat on the doorstep munching an apple. She was so happy and proud. It was all because of this: Gwenie's mother was coming home from the hospital today with a new baby sister. And the best part of it was that Gwenie was to name the new baby all by herself. She was thinking over and over to herself what the baby's name should be. Somehow she just couldn't think of a name that would suit the baby perfectly.

She was so proud that when her little friend Lucy asked her to come over to play with her and said that she would treat her to an ice cream cone, Gwenie just sniffed and even refused that!

Suddenly from the house came her father's voice. "Come now Gwenie. We must go to the hospital to get your mother."

Gwenie jumped up excitedly and ran toward the car. She had not seen her mother for a whole week, and besides that she just could not wait to see her new baby sister. After she had seen her it might be easier for her to name it. Gwenie was so happy when she saw her mother's smiling face again and as for the baby, Gwenie thought she had never, never seen anything cuter.

"Have you thought of a nice name for the baby yet?" Gwenie's mother asked. Gwenie blushed to realize that she had to answer no. At last the car reached home. Mrs. Fenton said that if Gwenie was a very good girl she might help feed the baby and if she was extra good, she might even take the baby for a walk!

Suddenly a very good name for the baby came into Gwenie's mind. "Mother," she said, "Could we name the baby Betty Lou?"

Mrs. Fenton thought a moment then asked Gwenie if Betty Lou wasn't a very nice name for a baby. But, she added, "wouldn't Betty Lou be rather a babyish name for a girl about 16 or 17 years of age?"

"But, Mother," Gwenie begged, "when she gets older she would just be called Betty for short."

"All right, Gwenie," Mrs. Fenton replied with a smile. "Betty Lou shall be her name." Gwenie was so pleased. All day long she could think of nothing else.

Winning Ways with Franks 'n Beans

By MARTHA LOGAN

Franks 'n beans have always been a combination which suggests good eating. When one thinks of picnics, sizzlin' hot Franks in a bun and a big crock of savory home-baked beans just naturally come to mind. All year 'round, quick and tempting supper feature juicy Franks, served with hot or cold beans-from-a-can.

Many people have discovered that barbecued Franks and beans are an extra-good duo. The spicy, tomato sauce enhances and blends the flavor of both for a delightful meal.

Franks are so easy to serve because they are pre-cooked and ready-to-eat when you buy them. That means you can serve them in a great variety of ways. Not only can they be roasted, picnic-style, or heated in water, but they also can be split, then pan-browned or broiled 'til brown.

They're tempting as Quails, split and filled with cheese, then wrapped with bacon and broiled. And, of course, Franks add flavor and interest to vegetable or potato casseroles.

Because quality Franks are made from dinner-quality meat according to recipe, it's wise to buy them by a well-known brand name. Flavor and freshness are all important in Franks, and you can be assured of quality every time when you depend on a brand you know.

Power from petroleum-fueled tractors has long served the farmer from hundreds of useful ways, from corn-pickers to sprayers for fruit trees. During the Kansas floods last summer, a new use was found for tractors. When ordinary sources failed, the Iola (Kans.) Register went to press with a farm tractor supplying the power.

Silhouettes Very Full, Very Slim for '51 Fall

From the exciting texture of fabrics to the minimized collars and the full, full skirts, new fashions for Fall have a completely refreshed outlook that is in ideal keeping with the busy, ever-changing daily activities of the American woman.

Fabrics are rough, yet soft, like the wrappy tweeds used for suits. They're deeply piled, sometimes curly like the poodle cloths used so abundantly for coats.

Other fabrics are corded, nubby, and slubbed. And take form as fine-textured wools, extra wide wale corduroys, gentiest jerseys, smooth rayons, elegant satins, brocades, velvets, failles and ottomans.

All of this against a warm, deep-toned background, often in striking contrasts of color. Prominent are the greys, in every shade from the lightest of mist to the densest of charcoal.

New Contrasts

Black, dramatic alone, is even more dramatic when used as a contrast to brown, red, burnt orange, bright blue or yellow green. The chocolate browns, the beiges, the deep greens, also are offered for Fall. With the smallest of checks, the finest of stripes and the tiniest of plaids as the key patterns of the new season.

The fashions themselves present a greater variety of choice than for many years past. Most outstanding is the costume that offers several versatile parts rather than just one item. This may be a dress with matching coat; a suit that includes a jacket, skirt and top; or a dress with complementing jacket and stole or apron, or a complete wardrobe of separates in go-together fabrics and colors.

Silhouettes are very full or very slim. Full skirts appear as gentle swirls on otherwise figure-hugging coats. Full skirts appear, too, on suits and dresses. Sometimes their width is emphasized by stiffening. Often their width is emphasized by feminine flounced and flared petticoats.

Pared Furs

Slim skirts look newer than ever when featured on 1951's pared-down fur coats. They lose their stark angularity on dresses and suits by the addition of little trumpet flounces, hemline pleats meant to create a maximum of walking ease; or by side-swags of drapery, perky peplums, trim tunics and aprons that are often detachable.

Fashion news comes to the fore at necklines, too. On dresses they may rise all the way up into a jaunty knitted turtle effect. They may appear as high jewel necklines inviting the addition of over-size sparkling jewel accents.

And they may be convertible; a decollete line that can be filled-in with a dainty scarf, complete with a yoke that buttons in or out to meet the occasion or an open design that can be unfurled or untied with a mere flick of the wrist.

Suit necklines are lower, often outlined with extra-broad, extra-deep lapels. Completely collarless suit necklines are ready for dramatic accessorizing. Tiny forward pointing lapels stem from a collarless back.

Convertible suit necklines are new, some filled-in with ascots that may unite to change into lapels or bib fronts. Other convertible styles have striking symmetrical lines. While mandarin necklines, more popular this year than ever, are in many instances elegantly trimmed with a contrasting fabric.

Dried Fruit Plentiful; Raisins Good Buy Now

Large supplies of dried fruits at lower prices are expected not only for the holidays but also for next year.

Prunes and raisins are especially plentiful. Raisins have already dropped in price and are a thrifty buy for holiday cakes, stuffings—or just for "munching" from the package.

Dried fruits "as is" are good sweets for children, convenient and wholesome for lunch boxes.

Clean Metal Furniture Well with Soapy Cloth

Metal polish can then be applied if added gloss is desired, but it's not really necessary.

Here's How to Turn Your Ideas Into Cash

Like many women, you've probably had an idea now and then that seem'd like a money-maker. And then, like many women, you've probably dismissed it because you thought you couldn't sell it.

That's a mistake. Many housewives and husbands throughout the country are cashing in on ideas. You can, too, if you know how to go about it, says Robert Froman in the December (Woman's Home Companion).

For instance, did you ever wonder who first thought of putting shelves on the inside of refrigerator doors? It was a Detroit housewife who wanted extra storage space. She put her idea on paper, took out a patent and sold it in 1933.

The toy and novelty field is probably one of the easiest for amateurs to crash, the article says, because tryout costs for new products are negligible. One North Carolina housewife is receiving regular royalty payments for a toy she dreamed up—a milkable toy cow.

A young father, advised by the doctor to find some way to make his frail infant move around in the crib to stimulate growth, strung a chain across the head of her crib and hung it with rings, bells and springs. These dangled irresistibly before the baby's eyes and kept her playing. It was so successful he sold the idea to a manufacturer. Today it is called the Cradle Gym and sales have passed the three-million mark.

Just remember, the experts can't possibly think of everything. If you beat them to the punch with an idea, says Froman, here's how to turn it into income:

1. Put it on paper in words or rough sketches. Have your statement witnessed and notarized, in case of a dispute over priority.

2. Take out a patent if possible. It will give you the best protection and also insures a ready hearing from interested companies.

3. Mail in your idea. For the most part, ideas broached orally don't receive as serious consideration as those submitted in writing. You can also protect your idea by sending yourself a copy by registered mail. Put it away unopened.

4. Write that you have an idea of possible interest and ask under what conditions the company will consider it. Most companies require anyone with an idea to agree to certain conditions before submitting it. This is to protect themselves against a few unscrupulous people who submit suggestions with the sole intention of making so much nuisance that the company will pay them off.

5. Be persistent. If the first concern you approach isn't interested, ask whether it can suggest another firm that might be.

Don't Scour Tin Pans

Don't scour tin utensils; scouring wears away the thin finish. Wash them in sudsy water and dry thoroughly. Don't try to remove discoloration because you will remove more tin than bluish. Besides, darkened tin absorbs heat more rapidly than shiny tin.

Clean Coils on Heater

Soot on copper coils of a water heater cuts down its efficiency, and often gives off an unpleasant odor. Coils should be thoroughly cleaned periodically. Wipe off loose soot with a rag, then use a wire brush to remove the remaining soot.

Three-fourths of all freight tonnage moved in the U. S. goes by petroleum-powered motor truck.

Business Activity in N. E. At High Level Is Report

Despite weakness in several important industries, defense work is sustaining overall business activity in New England at a high level, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston reported this week in its Monthly Review.

In the early fall, mixed conditions prevailed throughout the region. Most of the durable-goods industries were thriving in September, while soft-goods remained in the doldrums. The production of machine tools rolled along, even though hampered by the shortage of skilled help, a work stoppage at a major company, and the scramble for sufficient quantities of steel. Brass and fabricated metal industries, heavy electrical machinery, and shipyard activity were plus factors in the New England business picture.

The textile industry was the weakest spot, with woollen and worsted weaving mills receiving few, if any, civilian orders. The slump in production of cotton and rayon goods, though less severe than woollen, continued to exist through September.

During August consumers spent four per cent less dollars in New England department stores than during the same month of 1950. Sales of new cars in Massachusetts during July and August were about 38 per cent lower than in the comparable period of 1950. The value of total construction contracts awarded in New England during August declined about 20 per cent from the level in August 1950.

Wholesale prices began to recede in April and have worked gradually downward through mid-September. Spot primary market prices stood 17 per cent lower in mid-September, than at the high in February, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' daily index of 28 basic commodities. The prices of almost all of these commodities were the same or lower in mid-September than at last winter's peak, with the exception of sugar, steers, and zinc.

Income payments to individuals also rose to new high levels in each New England state during 1950, according to the Federal Reserve Bank.

New England's total income payments increased from $13,211,000,000 in 1949 to $14,511,000,000 in 1950, a 10 per cent gain. Nationally, total income payments advanced by 11 per cent.

New England's per capita income in 1950 was $1,554, a level eight per cent higher than per capita income in the region in 1949. The region's income in 1950 was $1,554, a level eight per cent higher than per capita income in the region in 1949.

An increase in manufacturing payrolls was the major reason for the climb in New England's income. The region obtained 30.6 per cent of its income from manufacturing payrolls in 1950, while the corresponding United States percentage was 22.6 per cent.

Connecticut and Rhode Island, respectively, drew 35.6 per cent and 34.2 per cent of their income from this source.

The full-scale mock war held in the Atlantic recently has ended for Robert L. Jones, husband of Mrs. Swannee S. Jones of 1 Bodwin street, Newton Highlands.

Additional supplies of sulfur, currently in short supply, may be recovered from waste gases given off in petroleum refining and other manufacturing processes. Sulfur recovery from these gases, by a recently patented process, will not only help relieve the sulfur shortage, but also ease air pollution.

December Birthstone

For those born in December, the Jewelry Industry Council says there is a choice of three birthstones, turquoise, lapis lazuli, and zircon, all of them best known in the dark blue colors.

Turquoise, the "Turkish Gem," has an almost legendary past, and the Persian variety, of a magnificent azure hue, has been the talisman of horsemen for centuries. On this continent, a religious significance was accorded the green-blue variety by the American Indians and considered capable of producing rain. The Indians, by the way, always combined turquoise with silver, both found in silver mines today. The older Orientals, however, have always preferred gold as a setting for turquoise. Turquoise is still believed to bring success in affairs of the heart and in amazing great wealth—a combination that leaves little to be desired.

The zircon, known before the Christian era, is still found in shades of yellow, brown, orange, blue, green—and sometimes red, as well as the popular white. Blue zircons and white ones are best known to most of us. They are mined in the jungles of French Indo-China by the hill tribes there. The stone is believed to bring honor, wisdom, a plentiful harvest, safety in travel.

Lapis Lazuli of deepest blue shade was considered more valuable than gold in ancient Egypt and Babylon. It was powdered and used for pigment for the luxurious decorations of the cathedral and palace walls.

Today, the finest lapis lazuli comes from Afghanistan, where it is mined for the popular inlaid cigarette boxes, picture frames and beautiful rings we all know. The finest quality maintains a deep uniform blue, though sometimes considered more spectacular is the attractive variety flecked with pyrite or "fool's gold."

A fine turquoise ring—or, if a woman is fortunate enough, a complete ensemble of turquoise jewelry—can be a treasure to own and a source of deep pleasure when worn.

What Shall We Eat... ...After A Day of Shopping

These are the shopping days when we leave home in the morning to spend hours in the stores. It's good to arrive home to serve a dinner that doesn't take too much preparation. We have in mind Chicken Pie which can be prepared in just a few minutes after you get in; or you can get the masculine side of the family to complete this dish and pop it into the oven.

Why not put together the chicken mixture and have it ready to heat. Then pour into a casserole. Apply the biscuit topping, or better still whip up a topping from a prepared biscuit mix to which you add nutritional milk. Here's the recipe and happy shopping!

CHICKEN PIE
1 1/2 cup chicken stock, cold
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk, scalded
1 cup drained canned peas
2 1/2 cups chicken, cut in large pieces
1 cup diced celery

1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Combine chicken stock and flour and blend; gradually add the milk while stirring and cook until smooth and thickened. Combine with chicken, celery, peas and seasonings and turn into a 1 1/2 quart buttered casserole. Roll out a cover from biscuit mix; cut holes in top to allow steam to escape. Place on top of filled casserole. Crisp or fluted edge of dough. Bake as directed for biscuit topping. Makes 6 servings.

Stylists to Feature Wool Next Spring

The California influence, spotlighting rich colors and imaginative styling, will come into its own in almost every section of the country next spring, bringing with it a strong emphasis on lightweight wool in a wide range of textures.

A salute to the importance of the California fashion market and the skill of its wool-conscious designers, 12 of the nation's leading woolen mills have created a sparkling array of new woolen and worsted colors especially for use by West Coast manufacturers. These new fabrics have been put to use in hundreds of striking new fashions for spring—some of which were previewed at showings staged recently in Los Angeles by the Wool Bureau.

More than 125 manufacturers have produced suits, coats, dresses, blouses and other apparel from the new fabrics, and 80 of the outstanding models were featured in the Wool Bureau's showings in the Hotel Ambassador. As "California's best" in creative styling and tailoring came forth in this exclusive parade, department stores and specialty shops from coast to coast were already making plans to offer manufacturers these typically California styles, resplendent in their "Wool in California Colors."

The woolen mills which co-operated in creating some 60 special colors are Botany Mills, Inc., C. M. De Land, Forstmann, Inc., William Heller, Inc., Hockanum Mills, Inc., A. D. Juillard & Co., Inc., Miron Mills, Inc., Pacific Mills, J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc., Pola Stout, Inc., S. Stroock & Co., and I. A. Wyner & Co., Inc.

A broad array of "Wool in California Colors" hats, shoes, bags, belts and other accessories have been created to complement the new fashions—all designed by leading California firms with the cooperation of national manufacturers.

One of the standout color families used with taste and imagination by California's designers is the pink-to-mauve color group, in California-inspired shades. These appear under such names as "Patio Rose," "Lemon Blossom Pink," and "Calrose." Shades include a clear tone of pink in combination with vivid rose for jersey, muted mauve for fleece, and with gray in small worsted checks and stripes.

Yellow, another main color choice, looks typically "California" in golden tones allied with gray for gabardines, separates and casuals, and in fleece and nubbed coatings. Blues make a strong impression, too, in a wide range of tones, from navy, the traditional spring shade, to teal, pastel and watery pale tones. From pale to spice shades, the beige to brown group gains wide representation.

Jersey maintains a standout position in the California fashions, together with fleece, nubby coatings, worsted suitings, lightweight wool crepe, gabardine suiting and suede cloth coating.

The wide range of apparel highlights full skirts, diamond and bar quilted for separates to go with sleeveless blouses, and flared for suits with hip-boned jackets that round over the hip line. The coat designed to match or harmonize with its own dress, suit or separates is notable throughout, as well as ensembles that combine a suit or dress with a full casual fitting coat. In tailored suits and classic dresses the narrow silhouette prevails, and cape collars and cape sleeves are widely seen in coats, suits and dresses.

Many Delightful Gifts Available for Motorists

This Christmas, there are many delightful gift suggestions for the motorist on your list, ranging from radios and electric signaling devices to tires and seat covers.

A radio is a good companion, not only when driving long distances, but also when family talking entails frequent short waits during the drive. A convenient addition to a radio is a back-seat speaker, which has a switch that permits pleasant reception from either front or back speaker, or both at once.

To enhance the car's good looks, how about seat covers? They come in stripes, gay plaids, and solid colors, usually made of long-wearing plastic or nylon, and can either be bought for the car's specific make and model or be custom-made.

If the car owner makes long trips, you might give him zippered garment bags and racks or hooks on which to hang them. To transport extras on the car roof, there are car-top carriers that fasten with suction cups. The type that holds long objects, such as skis and fishing poles, costs about a dollar, the kind that accommodates luggage costs as little as four dollars.

For winter comfort, consider giving a robe for the back-seat riders—perhaps a handsomely monogrammed one or a steamer rug. Some robes have a carrying case, which makes them useful for football games and picnics.

More recent accessories are windshield wipers with squirt water, thus washing the windshield as they wipe it. Directional signals, and backing lights that go on automatically when the car is put in reverse.

The field of inexpensive "stocking" presents encompasses numerous gadgets. One favorite is a metal tray, which is held by a magnet to the flat surface above the dashboard. Here, the driver can stow the small change to pay tolls, dark glasses, a package of candies. Another nice present is a stiff car brush; one that sells for about a dollar and a quarter is equipped with a plastic blade, to scrape ice or mud from the windshield, and a sponge-rubber blade, to wipe water from windows.

Good Housekeeping.

Crusading for Children

By JOHN R. ROBERTSON

In the early days of organized protective work for children, the unusual, sensational cases which involved excessive brutality and neglect, chronic alcoholism and degeneracy were common. They caught the attention of the public, and caused excitement, often short-lived, as they became known. Publicity was the rule in those days, when continued efforts were made to shock people into recognizing the existence of such conditions in their communities and to stir them to lend their support to the agencies that were carrying on their uphill fight to do something for the unfortunate who were the innocent sufferers.

Today, the lurid, shocking type of case is the exception, and agencies engaged in protective work avoid rather than seek publicity. Most problem situations can be handled best by protecting the individuals, especially the children, to whom help is being given by the M.S.P.C.C.

The disordered home, with its countless problems, presents a serious social situation that must be attacked openly and directly, yet it is not the sort of thing which can be corrected by strong-arm methods. Every home, whatever its status in a community, is a family center. To break it up is to remove the only core a family group has, however, needy and neglected. Once dispersed it presents an even greater problem for society which must then seek to provide those simple, fundamental things which more fortunate people accept as a matter of fact in their family life.

Always keeping the welfare of the children in the forefront when impossibly bad home situations come to its attention, the Society seeks constantly to correct the condition by friendly advice and persuasion with the cooperation of the special services of other social agencies as they are needed.

In over 6,000 family problems, involving the protection of more than 16,000 children a year, nearly four out of five are handled without compulsion, discipline, or punishment by court action. Every case is a potential matter for court action, but the Society makes use of the law and the courts only when the safety and welfare of the child require it. In its efforts to preserve the home and the family whenever possible for the sake of the children, the Society endeavors to effect correction through intelligent, sympathetic handling rather than through the more direct but less desirable attack available in court action.

Today, the majority of the complaints concerning a family situation come to the Society's attention much earlier in the process of breakdown than formerly. This makes it possible for the agents and their co-workers to go to the heart of the problem at a time when correction rather than salvage is possible.

The handling of undesirable family situations without court action requires understanding, tact, and sympathy of the Society's staff members, but if constructively corrective measures are to be effected, the confidence and cooperation of those being helped must be won and held.

At no time, save as a last resort, is any member of the family concerned subjected to legal action which will give him the feeling that he is under attack in an unequal battle with the law.

Newton Fanciers Win High Honors

At the Boston Bird Show, sponsored by the Massachusetts Cage Bird Association, held at Mechanics Building, December 1 and 2, several Newton fanciers won high honors.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Raymond Myers of 30 Frederick street, Newtonville, won the large trophy, which was open to competition for all exhibitors "for most points in 20 nominated birds." Their birds also won "second best," as well as other trophies in the Border Fancy class and "second, third and fourth best," with other trophies, in the American Singer class.

Ralph Quilty, of 11 North street, Newtonville, won "second best" and other trophies with his Australian Budgerigars. Mrs. E. Rudolph McKay, 32 Holden road, West Newton, was awarded several ribbons on her color bred canaries.

Over 800 birds were exhibited including many varieties of foreign wild birds displayed by exhibitors from New York.

Some 10 years ago in the East, about 19 per cent of the oil industry's income was being expended on the search for new oil. At the present time, the struggle to keep oil production in balance with consumption in this region is costing 35 per cent or more of income.

Hold National Sales Convention Of The William Carter Company

The semi-annual National Sales Convention of The William Carter Company held at the Kenmore Hotel in Boston on Tuesday through Friday of last week was dedicated to Charles J. Singer, Chicago Division Manager, who this year is completing 50 years of loyal service to the company.

The meeting theme, "Planned Sales Expansion," was especially appropriate because it epitomized the philosophy which has guided Mr. Singer so successfully through these many years.

The meeting was in charge of General Sales Manager Arthur M. Stewart. A testimonial dinner in honor of Mr. Singer was held at the hotel on Wednesday evening with nearly 100 salesmen and guests present.

After opening the meeting Tuesday with fitting remarks, Mr. Stewart called on the various members of the Carter family who represent top management of the firm to address the group.

Hon. William H. Carter greeted the large group which had been augmented by more than 50 employees from the home office and mills who have earned the right to wear a Carter service pin calling for a minimum of 25 years of service. Two of the guests have been with the company more than 45 years.

Remarks from Hon. Horace A. Carter, Executive Vice President, and Lyndall F. Carter, William L. Carter, vice president, Paul H. Franz, production manager, and Francis W. Hatch, of Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne, the company's advertising agency, rounded out the morning session.

After luncheon on the opening day, Mrs. Frances Fay, designer, presented the infants and children's lines for Spring 1952 on models, most of whom were children of Carter employees. Miss Elizabeth Leonard, chief Carter nurse, then presented the Carter nurses, Miss Margaret Snidero, Miss Pearl Moreland, Miss Irene Claiborne, and Miss Lillian Ralph, all of whom do a fine job in promoting the Carter brand in infants' departments throughout the country.

Miss Priscilla Harding, fashion designer for the company, then presented the women's and junior lingerie lines.

At the opening day luncheon Horace Carter also had the pleasure of presenting service pins to Philip Greene of the company's Boston office on the completion of 40 years' service with the company; to George Bennett of the Dallas office, 25 years; and to Director William H. Best, 40 years.

William L. Carter was toastmaster at the Singer testimonial dinner. Those who paid tribute to the guest of honor included Horace Carter and William Carter, Mr. Stewart, Francis W. Hatch, and Lyndall Carter. Mr. Singer was presented gifts of matched luggage from the salesmen, and a perpetual clock from the company in addition to his diamond 50 year service pin.

Mr. Singer was lauded for his years of loyal service to the company. He has become the dean of Carter salesmen through years of diligent attention to the retail trade in Chicago. Messages of congratulations were read from such leading retailers as the presidents of Marshall Field and Company and The Fair, among many such tributes.

Wednesday and Thursday at the sales meeting featured group discussions with the various merchandise managers heading up the respective clinics. Allen Shepard conducted the sessions for the women's and junior lines; Kenneth M. Childs for the infants' and children's lines; and James L. Miller for the men's and boys' lines.

On Friday morning a sales clinic for the men's line was held in the Crystal Ballroom. Mr. Miller was ill and unable to attend and Sales Manager Stewart and assistant general sales manager H. H. Otway pinch-hit for him. Others on the program included Perkins of the H. E. Bailey, men's fashion editor of Look Magazine, and executive editor of Men's Wear Magazine, who is men's fashion consultant to the William Carter Company, and Rob-

JOHN A. McCULLOUGH

Funeral services for John A. McCullough, 87, of 156 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, former custodian of the Coolidge Corner branch library in Brookline, were held Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Burial was in Waltham Hill Cemetery.

Mr. McCullough, who died Monday at the Faulkner Hospital, Jamaica Plain, retired 11 years ago and was a member of the Odd Fellows.

He is survived by a son, Melbourne A. McCullough, of Newton Highlands, with whom he made his home.

Delaware, first state to join the Union, recently became the forty-eighth to establish a state geology staff. Some states had geology departments a century or more ago, but during the last 30 years or so the services of geologists have been in growing demand by an increased number of industries, of which petroleum heads the list.

Join Forces in Fight Against Rheumatic Fever

A double-barreled information and referral service for people with rheumatic fever was announced this week by Dr. George P. Sturgis, chairman, Rheumatic Fever Services Committee of the Massachusetts Heart Association, and Joseph T. Walker Jr., President of United Community Services.

Speaking on behalf of both organizations, Dr. Sturgis said that the joint program was set up so that doctors and others concerned with the care of rheumatic fever patients may get prompt answers to their questions and up-to-date information about hospitals, convalescent or foster homes and other special services needed to help safeguard the lives and health of these patients.

He added that the service will be administered by the headquarters office of the Heart Association and the Red Feather Information Service.

Dr. Sturgis stated that the stepped-up program was prompted by a recent survey of doctors in this area.

"We found," Dr. Sturgis revealed, "that a good many doctors did not have the whole picture on what the various agencies in Greater Boston can do for rheumatic fever patients. We found also that a good many doctors needed and wanted help in referring their patients to these agencies. As a result our two organizations got together and set up a system whereby a call to either one or the other will receive immediate attention."

Dr. Sturgis pointed out that the Rheumatic Fever Services Committee, on which serve specialists in the treatment of rheumatic fever and diseases of the heart, has drawn up a check list of the basic needs of every rheumatic fever patient.

These include: a confirmed diagnosis; close medical supervision and professional nursing care during the acute stage of the disease to help guard against permanent heart damage; follow-up care during convalescence; information for the family about community services such as the visiting nurse and school department beside teaching services; suggestions regarding crafts and hobbies to keep young patients busy and happy during the time they must remain in bed; proper

THE CENTRAL IDEA

Things you'd like to know about your Railroad

Christmas comes early on Central!

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. WEEKS AHEAD of Christmas, toys and gifts start moving from factories to stores in your town. On New York Central, they travel in smooth-riding merchandise cars. Often they make the last lap in special trucks that connect with fast freight and fan out from main terminals to small stations.

2. MAIL CARS get busier as Christmas nears. You'll see these post-offices-on-wheels at the head end of New York Central's great, through trains. In them, as they speed along, nimble-fingered mail clerks sort and bag the Christmas mail... ready to forward or deliver at the trip's end.

3. MOUNTAINS of express and parcel post packages pour in on New York Central during the holidays. If you could step behind the scenes during the last-minute rush about December 23rd or 24th, you'd see why your Railroad urges you every year to do your Christmas shipping early!

4. HOME-COMING holiday makers are among the final signs of Christmas. And New York Central gets them there in any weather. Yes, making Christmas merrier is another way your Railroad forms a living part of every community along its 11,000 miles. And that's the CENTRAL IDEA!

Business Activity

Failing to Meet Previous Estimate

The upturn of New England business activity this fall has not lived up to expectations, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston said today in its Monthly Review.

Rising defense activity could not push industrial production back up to the levels of last spring. Consumer, nondurable goods industries continued to curtail production in the face of large inventories and lack of orders.

A rise in average wholesale prices during October was indicated as the sample weekly index of primary market prices began to work upward. Most consumer prices continued to march higher. In September the Boston consumer price index reached a level about six percent higher than it was a year ago, with house-furnishings chalking up the largest increase.

Food registered a seven percent advance between September 1950 and September 1951. No strong upward pressure on food prices is expected unless the international situation worsens and another wave of scare buying occurs.

Construction awards for residential building in New England during the first ten months of 1951 indicated that new dwelling units planned for the year were 23 percent below those planned in 1950. But floor area, decreased only 16 percent and valuations only 16 percent. Consequently, plans called for somewhat larger units this year and building costs were higher than their level in 1950. The number of one and two-family houses was down 30 percent during the first eight months of 1951, but permits for multiple-unit residential buildings increased by 18 percent in number of units and 28 percent in value.

Automobile sales failed to show much improvement this fall. A recent survey of dealers throughout New England revealed that new passenger cars were moving "slowly" to "normally." Dealers cited high prices, credit restrictions, shortages of some models, and a traditional fall slackening of sales as the reason for lack of boom-like business. Inventories of used cars were low-to-average. There was some pickup in used car sales this fall, but prices were generally below ceilings. Sales of new passenger cars in Massachusetts during October were the "smallest of any month this year, while truck sales did better in October than in any month since May. Nevertheless, sales of new trucks in Massachusetts this October were about 25 percent lower than in October 1950.

Propose New Aids For Aged in '52 Legislative Plan

Local Republican leaders say that the new 1952 Republican Legislative "Program of Progress"-allied this week at the State House-will benefit people in this community.

This official program of affirmative action offers specific bills to provide a special state agency for training the aged to increase their earning capacity and usefulness; to expand state recreational facilities; to make available insurance benefits for sick workers; to prevent waste in state expenditures; and to give greater home rule to cities and towns.

In a message to the Chronicle, Representative Francis A. Harding of Dedham said, "Republican concern for the aging is expressed by our proposal for a new special state agency.

"Duties of the proposed agency include a sustained drive on employers to hire older workers, and research on the utilization of aging manpower in industry.

"For those workers whose advanced age has handicapped their former capacities, programs of rehabilitation and training, part time work, work at home, in sheltered workshop and in community work will be undertaken.

Petroleum and petroleum products accounted for 36 per cent of all freight traffic originated on Class I railroads in the U. S. in 1950.

Farm consumption of liquefied petroleum gas in 1949 came to over a half billion gallons, or 18 per cent of total U. S. consumption.

In 1950, there were more than 24,000,000 consumers of all kinds of gas supplied by public utility companies in the U. S. Of these, 14,267,000 were consumers of natural gas.

Real Estate Board Hears Talk On Assessing Problems of City

The regular monthly luncheon meeting of the Newton Real Estate Board, Division of the Boston Real Estate Board, was held Wednesday, November 28, at the Simpson House in Newton Centre. The meeting was attended by a large majority of the Newton Brokers.

Joshua W. Brown, President of the Board introduced the guest speaker, John D. Wright, chairman of the Board of Assessors of the City of Newton.

Mr. Wright spoke of the many problems encountered by his Board in determining equitable assessments of Newton property. He pointed out the fact that Newton has the third largest valuation among Massachusetts cities, having just recently passed Cambridge, which was formerly in third position. Also, the Newton tax rate is the lowest of all cities in the Commonwealth, and the assessed valuation of individual Newton properties is in line with that of other comparable Communities.

The members of the Newton Board were impressed by the evidence of constructive work being done by Mr. Wright in his department at City Hall.

They realized more than ever that Newton is truly the most desirable city in which to live and work.

Two Volunteer Leaders Are Honored by YMCA Boys' Div.

Fully attended meetings of the Boys' Work Committee of the Newton YMCA have been the rule this fall. Monday night's meeting was no exception as members of the committee met to honor two volunteer leaders of the boys' division.

The two leaders honored were Merton Teft, leader of the Hi-Y club former at Warren Junior high school this fall and Miss Doris MacDonald, leader of the thriving Tri-Hi-Y club of Weeks Junior High School.

Fred T. Hackley, chairman of the committee, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Newton YMCA, presided.

Also on the agenda was a review of current program for boys and girls of the Newton YMCA membership and other participants by Paul Wilber, Associate Boys' Work Secretary. An invitation to members of the committee to participate in the second Annual Committee's Dinner of the Newton YMCA to be held December 18 was extended by Alex R. Miller, general secretary.

A report of the Two State Old Boys' Conference held this past weekend was given by Mr. Hackley and John E. Danielson, boys' work secretary. Five delegates from the Newton Hi-Y club attended the conference. They were Martin Murphy, John Waters, Richard Leydon, Peter Monahan, and James Miller. Conference attendance was 600.

A report of a leadership committee headed by H. Edgar Pray, chairman was given. Approval was voted new plans proposed for leadership recruiting.

Boys' Division membership on November 30 was reported as 1355, a higher mark than in recent years. Included into the roster are 281 members in nine Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs.

The Newton YMCA is one of the 14 participating agencies in the Newton Community Chest.

St. Bernard's Church to Honor Pastor

The golden jubilee of his ordination as a priest will be observed by Rt. Rev. John J. Crane, S. T. L., pastor of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, on Saturday, Dec. 15, with a solemn high mass to be celebrated by Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, archbishop of Boston, at 10 a. m. at the church.

The following day parishioners will tender Msgr. Crane a reception in the Newton Catholic Club, beginning at 3 o'clock. Children of the parish will have their day of celebration on Thursday, Dec. 20. All the children who attend St. Bernard's parish school will unite with the Sunday School children of the public schools in a golden jubilee mass to be celebrated by Msgr. Crane at 8:30 a. m., with a service of Holy Communion.

Msgr. Crane was ordained in December, 1901, in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Most Rev. John J. Williams. Following his course of studies in the Diocesan Seminary at Brighton, he took two years post-graduate studies at the Catholic University at Washington and was awarded the degree of Licentiate of Sacred Theology. Fr. Crane was appointed pastor of West Newton on St. Bernard's Day, Aug. 20, 1937. In 1948, Pope Pius XII raised him to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of monsignor,

Christmas Checks Totaling $132,000 Are Mailed Out

Christmas will be merrier than ever this year for more than 1,750 members of the Newton Savings Bank Christmas Club, according to Joseph Earl Perry, President of the Bank. Checks totaling over $132,000 have already been mailed to members.

The Christmas Club Savings Plan is one of the most important thrift services at the Newton Savings Bank.

According to Mr. Perry, "Many people prefer to save ahead of time for such things as a merrier holiday season. Saving regularly is much easier when we plan ahead, and when we have something definite to save for. Christmas Club savers not only help themselves enjoy the holiday more, but they also help everyone else. The money they save ahead of time for seasonal spending provides increased buying power and its inevitable result... a merrier Christmas for everyone to whom it circulates."

The bank also has announced that its new 1952 Christmas Club is now open to receive members. Payments range from 50 cents to $10.00 with payoffs at the end of 50 weeks ranging from $25 to $500 according to the amount put aside. Checks are usually mailed just after Thanksgiving to enable shoppers to begin their Christmas buying early.

The bank also announced that its two branch offices in Needham and in Wellesley have just mailed a total of over $90,000 to Club members in those communities.

Personal Tax To Be Paid On Old Basis

Amendment Not in Effect Till Jan. 1

Many Inquiries Are Being Made About Exemptions Under the New Statute

Residents of Newton must pay their personal property tax on the old basis, as far as 1951 is concerned, stated Lorenze F. Muther, Jr., executive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association this week.

The city is currently mailing out the 1951 personal property bills and many people have inquired about the change in the law.

Actually the change does not take effect till January 1, 1952, at which time the present $1000 exemption on household goods and effects will be increased to $5000. Commercial and business personal property taxes are not affected by the recent amendment of this tax.

The $5000 exemption, beginning in 1952, is a compromise accepted by those who advocated the entire repeal of this inequitable enforced tax, accepted on the theory that half a loaf was better than none, concluded Muther.

Would Have Voting System Simplified

Gath Files Bill to Discard Preferential Method Here

Contending that past experiences prove that Newton voters do not understand the preferential system of voting, as used here, Harry Gath, Jr., of 600 California street, has filed a bill seeking legislative action to discard the system whereby voters indicate first, second and third choices in contests where there are more than two candidates.

His bill would provide that the same system of nomination papers be continued so that candidates are listed on the ballot by filing the required number of names on a non-partisan basis but that the candidate receiving the most votes would be elected, regardless of whether he receives a majority of votes cast or not. Under the present preferential system, if no candidate receives more than half of all votes cast, second and third choices are counted.

Mr. Gath stated that the preferential system is archaic and that Newton is the only city in the State in which it is in effect. The preferential system was instituted here in 1916 and was the subject of a referendum in 1924 when an attempt to repeal the law was defeated.

Record for Blood Donations Broken

224 Pints Secured at Visit Of Bloodmobile to Centre

Topping the record set by Oak Hill, which in November recruited 178 blood donors, Newton Centre produced 224 pints of blood at the Newton Centre Women's Club last Monday, exceeding the quota for a day's visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile by 74 pints.

Responsibility for the day's success was due to the enthusiastic support of community organizations, working under the leadership of Mrs. Leonard T. Clark, chairman for the day, and her vice-chairmen, Mrs. E. K. Montz, Mrs. Herbert Anderson, Mrs. Anthony Leone, Mrs. James D. Blackall, Mrs. L. B. ## Raising Funds for Christmas Gifts For Newton Needy

Agencies Cooperating with Council So That None Will Be Overlooked

By Dorothy G. Baker

Although "Christmas Clearance Committee" sounds cold and forbidding the group which is in charge of this special function of the Newton Community Council work with the true spirit of Christmas in mind. That no child or adult will be forgotten on Christmas Day the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs is already beginning to raise the necessary funds and the Council and cooperating agencies are compiling a list for their Christmas shopping. Mrs. Samuel E. Cutler is chairman of the Christmas service committee of the federation. Her committee includes Mesdames George Wyman, Allen Barrows, Charles Gibson, Richard Dore, Milo Clark, Raymond Kennedy and Kenneth Stata.

The shopping, as on individual Christmas lists, takes various forms. The old-time Christmas basket deposited on a doorstep is no longer in evidence. Not that the spirit of giving which it typified is cancelled out; on the contrary, it has been found that this spirit is strengthened and more fully spread with organizational help.

Thus, the council with its coordinating facilities is again an excellent choice to act as Santa to those who might not otherwise be remembered. Gifts of money, toys, and in some instances, food, are distributed to the agencies reporting the name of the family or individual in time to assure distribution for Christmas. Again, like the individual who makes an early start on his Christmas shopping, the clearance committee often finds itself bustling around at the last minute. This, however, is not because of lack of planning but because of the desire to see that the Christmas list is fully covered.

The names on the Christmas clearance committee's shopping list come from public and voluntary social service agencies, churches, and civic groups and others interested in making special Christmas donations. This confidential interchange of information between social agencies to prevent duplication is useful as well as efficient. Individuals, — DONORS —

Licensing Board Asks ABC for A Rehearing on Its Decision

Course of Action Taken After Long Consideration of All Factors Involved — Court Case Is Anticipated

As a result of a petition filed by Attorney Paul S. Rich, representing ten taxpayers and registered voters of the city, a temporary restraining order was issued by the court Wednesday morning against the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, restraining them until further order of the court from granting the liquor store license to Garden City Mart, Inc., to be located at 245 Washington street, Newton Corner. The Newton License Board was also a defendant but Attorney Rich stated that this was merely on a technical basis.

A rehearing by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission will be asked by the Newton Licensing Board as a result of the decision handed down by the ABC which rescinded the action of the Newton Board in granting the license for a new all-liquor package store to Kenneth J. Merrill Jr., and Joseph H. Hickey, and awarding it instead to the Garden City Mart, Inc., located at 245 Washington street, Newton Corner. This decision to ask a rehearing was reached following a 2 1/2 hour session of the Licensing Board held at City Hall last Friday night.

A group of Newton Corner taxpayers will institute court action in an attempt to restrain the State Commission from issuing the license to the Garden City Mart, Inc., it has been announced by Alderman Paul S. Rich.

Chairman Roy V. Collins of the Newton Board issued the following statement:

"The Board has voted to apply to the Alcoholic Beverage Commission for a rehearing on the denial of the application of Kenneth J. Merrill, Jr., and Joseph H. Hickey, and on the action reversing the Newton Board's refusal to grant the all-liquor package store license to the Garden City Mart, Inc. The rehearing is being requested partly on the basis of new evidence which has come to the attention of the Board since the hearing on the appeal." Mr. Collins did not reveal the nature of the new evidence.

If the rehearing is granted, it will delay the issuance of the license to the Garden City Mart which was to go into effect Tuesday, Mr. Collins stated. Other members of the board present at the meeting Friday night were Frederick J. Fessenden, Jr., and Hugh Harwood, and City Solicitor Matt B. Jones, Jr.

Mayor Asks All to Use Every Caution

Pedestrians and Motorists Alike Warned on Hazards

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood today asked every resident of Newton to join with the National Safety Council in the nationwide campaign to postpone the millionth traffic death.

"This tragedy, which will mark the violent death of 1,000,000 men, women and children since the advent of the automobile 50 years ago, will occur during the Christmas holidays," the mayor said, "unless every pedestrian and motorist uses the utmost care and caution when walking and driving."

"The Christmas holidays always bring extra hazards. Traffic accidents reach their peak during this period because of winter weather, earlier darkness, heavier travel and holiday festivity. The traffic toll was up 8 per cent for the first nine months of 1951, and our streets and highways are apt to become increasingly dangerous as Christmas approaches."

Aldermen Rich and Merrill in Strong Blast at Action of ABC

Aldermen Paul S. Rich and Carleton Merrill, following announcement that the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission had rescinded the action of the Newton Licensing Board in the granting of a license for a new all-liquor package store, issued the following statements:

Alderman Paul S. Rich
"As Ward 7 Alderman, representing over 6000 Newton Corner citizens, I wish to make known my utter contempt for the action of the state's Alcoholic Beverage Commission in overruling the Newton License Board, and blighting Ward 7 with another liquor outlet. The Newton License Board, after diligent investigation by its three outstanding Newton citizens, granted a new all liquor package store license to a completely disabled and blind veteran, married and the father of two children. I am told this person is undoubtedly the most deserving applicant in all the history of Newton's license applications. The location for the license was to be in the Thompson building."

Alderman Carleton Merrill
"The recent action of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission in awarding the new all liquor package store license to the Garden City Mart, Inc., at 245 Washington street, Newton, is a direct violation of duty and breach of legal obligation by all members of the commission."

"The Newton Corner business area does not need another package store. At the present there are two package stores plus five more."

Hospital Musical Review Is An Artistic, Financial Success

With its final performance last Friday night, the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid's musical review, "Insomniacs of '51" scored an outstanding artistic and financial success. Announcing satisfaction with the reception accorded the show, Mrs. George Prather of Wellesley, Show Committee Chairman, and Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., of Waban, President of the Hospital Aid, declared that the venture had been well worth the effort.

While final financial returns are not yet available, it seems most likely that the show will return more money to the Hospital Aid than any other venture in the 67 year history of the organization, stated Mrs. Prather. The show played to well-filled houses and Friday night's performance was a virtual sell-out. Substantial revenues will be derived from the sale of advertising space in the show program.

Opening the show with a rehearsal scene, cleverly planned to cope with the inevitable confusion caused by late arrivals, Producer McKenny got things under way in fine style. He was followed by Vita Pike in "Show Business" giving an energetic send-off to the proceedings, well supported by cast members representing the various divisions of show business. Sonja Rissman charmingly proved that "I Can't Make My Eyes Behave." John Williamson was starred in a blackout entitled "The Insomniac." Barbara Nutting winningly sang "Yama-Yama Girl" which was followed by a number featuring her husband, Phillip Nutting and Marianne Prather, Phyllis Williamson and Jeanne Bartlett cuddling up a little closer. Stephen Bowers recreated the famous Julian Eltinge number "The Fascinating Widow." Josephine Moore brought Bob Benchley's "Treasurer's Report" back to life which was followed by Pat McConaghy's Russian dance and John Williamson's

SOCIETY WEDDINGS—ENGAGEMENTS MARRIAGE INTENTIONS—CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS—PERSONALS

Lucy Jackson Chapter Observes the Fifty-fifth Anniversary of Founding

Lucy Jackson Chapter, D.A.R., met in the Chapter House, Newton Centre, and celebrated its 55th birthday Monday, only one day late as the chapter organized Dec. 9, 1896. This meeting combined the birthday celebration and the Christmas meeting. The house looked very festive with its Christmas greens, particularly the regents' room where wreaths, sowags and table decorations were displayed for sale. Many members worked for days to create these lovely pieces, and very professional looking they were.

Mrs. Walter E. Holden and Mrs. Peter Strang, co-hostesses, were in charge of the dessert-coffee. They were assisted by their committee, Mrs. Joseph F. Wogen, Mrs. Arthur S. Tucker, Miss Caroline Lovett, Mrs. John D. Alders, Miss Louise Sherman, Mrs. Winfield S. Smyth, Mrs. Ernest V. Alley, Mrs. Louis J. Vassalotti, and Mrs. Edward H. Lotz.

Special guests on this occasion were Mrs. Louis F. Billings, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Newell Trask, president of the Newtonville Woman's Club; Mrs. Arthur A. Crawford of Watertown regional vice-chairman of membership of the D.A.R., and Mrs. Kramer from the Joseph Coolidge Chapter of Watertown.

After the regular business meeting Mrs. Frederick J. Warren, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Madeline Arnold, a member of Lucy Jackson Chapter, and a member of the Newton School's History Department, teaching early American history, particularly to the 3rd and 7th grades. Mrs. Arnold slides showing early pictures of Newton from pioneer days up to the Revolution, sealing her talk to a children's audience to show just how she uses her material in acquainting the Newton school children with early Newton and its part in the developing history not only of Newton itself but, in a broader sense, of the country as a whole. Her talk was of much interest to a D. A. R. audience which is concerned with perpetuating the memory of ancestors who helped to achieve American independence but whose work "in one way or another touches nearly every phase of current American life whether civic, educational, health or national defense."

Physical Therapy Features Meeting

Miss Lucille E. Alvord of 55 Herrook street, Newton Centre, a senior at Boston University's Sargent College, participated recently in a Physical Therapy Open House, planned and conducted by the Physical Therapy Club.

Director of the program was Miss Adelaide L. McGarrett, associate professor of Physiotherapy and leader of the Physical Therapy program at the college.

The open house was attended by faculty members, students, their parents and prospective students. Co-eds who participated in the program, were all upperclassmen who are majoring in Physical Therapy. The University's Sargent College of Physical Therapy is recognized by educators as a leader in the fields of physical education and therapy.

Christmas Festival Promises To Be Highlight of Wednesday Meeting

"Ye Olde Auburndale Christmas Festival" to be held in the Auburndale Railroad Station promises to be another highlight of the Auburndale Garden Club in raising their annual Christmas funds.

Wednesday, December 19 from one to 6 p. m. is when everyone is invited to buy their Christmas decorations—wreaths decorated with box, berries and bows, kissing balls with mistletoe, popcorn trees on peppermint sticks, jingle bell aprons, hurricane lanterns, Donald Duck Grabs for the children, are only a few of the attractive offerings.

Thursday, December 20 at 8 p. m. the Community is invited to the Seventieth Anniversary of the building of the Railroad Station. Come to hear the Railroad Singers, see the early commuters, sing carols with your neighbors, and savor the refreshments which will be sold. The following people are busily engaged in the preparations:

Mrs. Wm. Egan, Mrs. Arthur Freeman, Mrs. Arthur Shaw, Mrs. Benjamin Pepper, Mrs. J. Howard Littleton, Mrs. V. Stoddard Bigelow, Mrs. Norman W. Kempf, Mrs. Flint Taylor, Mrs. Theodore Nixson, Mrs. Harold A. Carnes, Mrs. George N. Norris, Mrs. Edgar M. Holmes, Mrs. Charles S. Grover, Mrs. George W. Armstrong, Mrs. Richard Kenney, Mrs. Gordon Boucher, Mrs. Frederic Tower, Mrs. Norman Bruce, Mr. James K. Stoddard Bigelow, Mr. Morris Brown, Mr. Ralph Keyes, Mr. Fred Dennis, Mr. Stephen Mallett.

Mr. Warren S. Freeman, Dean of Boston University Music Department will lead the Community Singing accompanied by Mr. Herbert Hobbs and Mrs. E. Park-er Calvert on the organ.

Morning Coffee and Book Talks Resume

Today (Thursday) at a morning coffee at 10:45, Margaret Bailey Tims will present the third in her series of five book reviews at St. Mary's Parish House in Newton Lower Falls.

Mrs. Tims has chosen five new books of general interest which have been well received, five new books, which tied with red ribbons and a sprig of holly would make fine Christmas gifts. Her list includes a second pageant of English history by the eminent Thomas B. Costain whose latest work he has titled "The Magnificent Century." This is the story of the "weathercock King" Henry III and his lovely but despised queen. It has been called a "magnificent history by one critic."

"The Christmas Flower" is an appropriate gift at this season of the year and would endear one to the donor since it is a tender telling of an old Mexican legend about the poinsettia. Tom Lea who wrote and illustrated "The Brave Bulls" has illustrated Joseph Henry Jackson's book in a modern manner and Mrs. Tims will enhance both story and pictures for her audience.

Adventure, or next best, the retelling of it, appeals to the young and not so young and two of the books to be reviewed will bring enchantment and entertainment to reader and listener, the first "Strange Lands and Friendly People" by William O. Douglas and second "The Voice of Asia" by James Michener. Those who have yet to see "South Pacific" may learn of Michener's adventurous spirit by reading his newest book or by hearing Mrs. Tims describe it. And for the arm chair traveler, there is Freeman Tilden's book about our National Parks in which he sheds new light on the history and background of many of our country's beautiful parks which we may have simply taken for granted.

Mrs. Frank N. McCabe, 15 Fiske Road, Wellesley Hills, is ticket chairman for the three remaining talks on the second Thursday morning of December, January and February. Book lovers who will take 90 minutes out of their frenzied hustle and bustle in holiday preparations will be rewarded threefold and come out with an idea of what to give that person "who has everything." There's always room in the library and in the mind for a good new book.

Drive Scared

There is little hope of postponing the mil-lionth traffic death, a National Safety Council spokesman said the other day, unless motorists "start driving scared."Driving scared—not a bad idea!
Now that doesn't mean we recommend putting your car in storage, or quaking with fear to the extent that you become hesitant and indecisive at the wheel. A too-fearful driver may easily contribute to an accident by his erratic behavior.We mean the kind of "scared" that makes you realize the life-and-death responsibility of driving in modern traffic, the tremendous physical forces involved, the consequences of careless or heedless behavior.Driving scared would keep motorists from going too fast. They wouldn't pass unless there was plenty of room, nor drive after drinking, nor follow other cars too closely.
They would keep a sharp lookout at intersections and grade crossings. They might even stay home if the weather or traffic conditions made motoring extra hazardous.However, there is no indication that the approach of the millionth fatality has scared anyone yet. Mr. Million still is going toward his doom right on schedule—probably the third week in December, it is predicted.It is bitterly ironic that the gaiety and festivity of the Christmas season should provide the backdrop for one of the most tragic events in modern history. To prevent this mockery of all that Christmas stands for will not be easy. The holiday rush always adds to the normal hazards of bad weather and more hours of darkness.So perhaps the only remedy is to start driving scared—scared enough to realize that an accident can happen to you, but that it won't if you devote to your driving all the skill and common sense you have at your command.

Civil Right Week

How appropriate it is for Massachusetts to go before the other 47 states of the Union again this year and, by formal proclamation, to set forth this Commonwealth's unswerving belief in basic civil rights!For the Bay State's record with respect to writing into law the right of equality of opportunity is known throughout the land and, indeed, envied by millions of forthright Americans in other states that lack both Fair Employment Practices and Fair Educational Practices acts.Because of this fine record of concrete action, our Commonwealth, speaking through Governor Paul A. Dever, can with clear conscience proclaim—and has proclaimed—this week as "Civil Rights Week." That proclamation calls upon civic, social, industrial, religious and educational leaders to observe the week by re-studying the significance of our basic civil rights.At the heart of this matter is a good old-fashioned American belief in the dignity of the individual, the kind of belief that gave birth to our own constitutional amendments known as the Bill of Rights, so dear to all of us. And central to this great tradition is the principle spelled out so clearly four years ago in the Report of the President's Committee On Civil Rights in these words:"We (Americans) can tolerate no restrictions upon the individual which depend upon irrelevant factors such as his race, his color, his religion or the social position to which he is born."So it is that when Massachusetts speaks for the cause of civil rights, she speaks for an ideal sorely needed in this age of dout and suspicion; she speaks, indeed, for integrity and fair play in the increasingly important area of human relations.Christmas note: Jackie Cambra, 6, of Santa Clara, Calif., decided to make a trial run down the chimney of his home, had to be extricated by firemen, promptly sat down, wrote a note and advised Santa Claus: "Use the front door or window."Mrs. Dorothy Van Dorn, suing her husband for divorce in Detroit, complained that he 1) put all their food in a freezer, 2) kept the freezer locked, 3) made her pay for any food she ate, and 4) charged her the 3 per cent Michigan sales tax.When the prospective bride-to-be of Farmer Matthias Volker changed her mind and said "No" at the altar during a ceremony at Maria Stein, Austria, Volker turned to the guests and asked if there were any volunteers who wished to marry him. His former housekeeper promptly stepped forward.

Taft Gained Support by His Visit Here . . .
Republicans Count on Corruption Issue . . .It seems safe to say that Senator Robert
A. Taft strengthened himself in Massachusetts by his visit here this week.Persons who meet Taft and who are in audience when he speaks from a public platform are much more impressed by him than from listening to him on the radio or reading his pronouncements in the newspapers.Taft's visit here left this writer with the impression that the more personal appearances the Ohio Senator makes, the stronger he is likely to be.The men running the Taft campaign in Massachusetts are surprisingly confident that they will be able to capture a majority of the Bay State's convention votes for "Mr. Republican."With such top figures as Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Congressman Christian A. Herter, and probably ex-Governor Robert F. Bradford pumping for General Eisenhower, it seems almost inconceivable that control of the Massachusetts delegation to next year's Republican national convention can be wrested away from them.Yet, a man like Basil Brewer, publisher of the New Bedford Standard-Times and the Taft spokesman in Massachusetts, will sit down and tell you calmly and coldly exactly how he expects to achieve his objective.Brewer has proposed to the Republican brass of the State that a battle for election as delegates at large be averted and that five of the 10 delegates be chosen from the Eisenhower ranks and five from the Taft ranks.The Eisenhower enthusiasts snickered softly at that suggestion. Why should they give away five votes, they demanded. Senator Lodge, who is the head man in the Eisenhower camp would never agree to it.Senator Lodge will not have any alternative but to agree to it, responded Brewer mildly, adding that Lodge is neither disposed to fight nor in a position to do so. That comment caused some of the political observers to sit up in surprise, but so far there has been no indication that Brewer does not know what he is talking about.There is not much doubt but that the Taft forces are in a better position today than the Eisenhower camp, and if Lodge, Saltonstall and Herter do agree to the proposition of dividing up the at-large delegates, the Taft group may go to the Chicago convention next July with a majority of the Massachusetts votes.For one thing the men and women planning to back Taft intend to run formally pledged to him. That means that they will be listed on the ballot as Taft adherents and that Taft's name will be printed on the ballot below their own.Brewer intends to enter candidates pledged to Taft in most, if not all, the congressional districts, and while he is willing to avoid a fight over the election of delegates-at-large if his offer is accepted, he is plunging headlong into the district battles.The Taft supporters point out that the men beating the drums for Eisenhower are in the awkward position of doing so before the General himself has publicly acknowledged his willingness to run and that they are not prepared to be formally and officially pledged to Eisenhower.How far Senator Lodge is prepared to go in fighting the Taft backers in his home State is a factor that may influence the outcome of the delegate contest. Lodge wields tremendous influence, and if he accepts the challenge and wades into an all-out battle he probably can achieve the election of a majority of Eisenhower delegates.But Lodge himself will be a candidate for election next year. The prospects are that Congressman John F. Kennedy will run against him and that he will have the sternest kind of opposition on his hands.
He may not be in a position to split the Republican party wide open in a fight for control of the State's delegation to the 1952
G.O.P. national convention. Ex-Governor Bradford did that in 1948, and it cost him heavily when he stood for a second term.Bradford was in much the same position then that Lodge is today. He felt that Taft could not win and that Dewey would be a much stronger candidate. He rode with Dewey from the start. He swung a bulk of the Bay State votes to the New York Gov-nor despite the opposition of Lodge and National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks.Had Dewey been elected in 1948, Bradford, following his own defeat, probably would have been offered a post as Attorney General in the Dewey cabinet.
But Bradford's gamble backfired. He was defeated. Dewey went down in a tremendous upset, and the G.O.P. still hasn't recovered from the shock.Now the Taft adherents think they have most of the cards in their hands. Privately, their attitude is that Lodge wouldn't dare precipitate a fight over the election of the delegates-at-large. Time will show whether they are right.Senator Taft and President Truman have one thing in common. Each man is the man the other would most like to run against—or so they say.In many respects, Taft is an unusual political candidate.One impression he leaves with a reporter after an interview is that he's honest and frank to the point of bluntness.He may lack color, and at times diplomacy, tact and even political finesse, but whether you agree with his views or not, he strikes you as a man of both great ability and integrity.Taft rarely spars or toe-dances during an interview. He doesn't appear as much at ease as many politicians, when he's being interrogated by news-

What Henry Ford Taught America

By SAMUEL R. PETTINGILL

The amazing career of Henry Ford calls attention to some basic facts. Because of his pioneering work and unparalleled achievements in his field, Ford will rank in history, with Washington, Jefferson and Franklin, as one of the great builders of our nation.
America's 48,000,000 motor vehicles, in close formation, would go around the world three times.
If necessary, every man, woman and child in America could get into these cars and all ride on rubber at the same instant of time!A nation on wheels—traveling on vehicles undreamed of when Henry Ford and everybody else in this country 60 years old, or over, was a child! I was a boy in college when I first saw an automobile—a foreign contraption—costing $8,000, which no one would have as a gift today.Well, here are some more big facts that tie in with the argument as to whether communism, socialism or the individual enterprise system is best for America—and the world.At least 25 states of the Union each has more automobiles than all of Russia. Seven states each has more than Great Britain, or France, or Italy, or Germany.
California has more than Great Britain, France and Italy combined.Of trucks, the United States has four times as many as Russia, and more than 50 percent of the world's total supply.I believe that every system of government and business is going to survive that does most for most. What system in any century, in any country, has done more for more people than the American system?Henry Ford was born while Lincoln still lived. Abraham Lincoln and Ford mean America throughout the world—log cabin to White House—machine shop to industrial empire. Henry Ford and the other automobile manufacturers who, like him, have developed and applied mass production methods represent the American system at its best.They show what competitive individual enterprise can do—and I stress the word "competitive."For many years, Ford was the pacemaker. He forced those who would stay in the race to adopt his principles. He benefited his competitors. But the day came when his competitors benefited him. Even Ford held on to Model T too long, and would have done so still longer, if new competition had not forced him to change his designs.And so it has gone in an endless struggle—General Motors, Chrysler, Nash, Willys Overland, Studebaker, Hudson, Crosley, Packard—all working to build a better car and sell it for less, in order to compete for the favor and patronage of the American consumer—better cars, tires, gasoline, lubrication and looks.It is worth noting that the industry that has provided the most jobs at the best pay—more than 5,000,000 jobs, in fact—is the one that was freest of gov-ernment control. Compare the automobile industry with the railroad industry that can scarcely turn around without government consent.Orville Wright, one of the two brothers who first flew a heavier-than-air plane in 1903, said that Henry Ford did more for mankind than any man of his generation.Ford had the revolutionary idea of tapping the mass market at the base of the economic pyramid. He saw clearly that the big money was in the pockets of the little people. He said: "The market is like a pyramid, pointed at the top, with a very broad base. If a car cost $1 million there might be a few men foolish enough to buy it. If it could be sold for $10, scores of millions of people would buy and use cars instead of wearing out shoes."The further we can lower the price, the more millions can enjoy the car." He taught America that truth. He wanted to design a car that would go anywhere, whether in the frozen wastes of the Yukon or the scorching heat of Death Valley.He wanted to make a car that even the latest immigrant could build, could drive and could own.
Also, a car that would get you there and bring you back. He built that car, and it went into every country in the world. The name "Ford" became better known and understood by more of the earth's people, probably, than even the name of Lincoln or Washington.At one time, he sold that car at the factory for as little as $310.
But, of course, at that time a profligate government had not added huge taxes to the sales price of every car. Cheap cars led to our great system of paved highways.Neither county commissioners nor Congress, itself, would have built ribbons of concrete from coast to coast for Fiats or Rolls Royces.
America has more than 1,600,000 miles of improved roads, enough to circle the globe 64 times. These roads brought down the cost of moving produce from farm to city. They made rural life more attractive. They moved families away from the congested slums of the big cities into the suburbs and countryside. They have added enormously to our capacity for national defense.Cheap cars, plus highways, furnished markets for our great petroleum industry, now a world giant. They planted rubber trees in Java and Borneo and Brazil.
They made new markets for cotton, glass, steel and hundreds of other industries.Millions of Americans who had never been 50 miles from their birthplace turned their "flivvers" toward Niagara Falls, Pike's Peak, Plymouth Rock, Valley Forge, The Alamo. "Old Liz" taught history and geography and patriotism. She helped to erase the scars of the Civil War.
She helped to make Civil War friends and neighbors.The Ford Company alone has built over 34,000,000 motor vehicles. In all the rest of the world,there are only 69,000,000 of all makes combined. Some achievement! As was said of our pioneer forefathers, Ford built his empire "with no capital except courage and no resource except resourcefulness." Only $28,000 was invested by others in what became the vast Ford empire, with factories and branch offices in 25 foreign countries. The rest was "plowed back" from earnings.
Taxes had not then fallen like a blight upon the expansion of business.Has Big Government, and the cost and waste of Big Government, made it impossible for America to ever have another Henry Ford? Although rated as the world's first billionaire, his fortune was chiefly in buildings and machines, worthless unless at work."Production for use," as the socialists urge, was actually the principle to which he devoted his life.Apart from his plant and equipment, it is doubtful if his personal fortune ever exceeded one or two percent of the wealth he created. By his will, the bulk of his fortune went into a charitable foundation for public welfare.The father of mass production, with his single purpose machine tools turning out parts that would fit one another to a hundred-thousandth of an inch, was the first to pay $5.00 a day to the men who made the cars. He said:
"No wage is too high for the man who earns it."Contrary to the teaching of Communist professors that "one man's gain is the other man's loss," he demonstrated on a world scale that it is possible to make more money, pay higher wages, and reduce costs all at one and the same time—investor, worker and consumer all gaining and no one losing by the process.The secret of this miracle of economics is high production per man hour, which brings costs down. And, high production per man hour is possible only because of better tools, more mechanical horsepower helping human backs to do the work, better management and last, but not least, higher skill and "know how" in the fingers and brains of the men on the job.The best manager of a machine is the man who runs it, if he takes pride in his job. This is the miracle of America.It is hard to see any limit to this progress—any ceiling on American achievement in the years and generations to come—
IF. We have the world by the tail with a downhill pull—IF.IF we don't lose the magic formula in a struggle between class and class—IF investor, manager and worker all play fair with each other, each recognizing the part that the others play in better tools, more efficient work and a better coordination of all the parts in the great machine.In the 90 years following 1848, when Karl Marx wrote his Communist Manifesto, investment in tools for each factory worker here in America increased ninetimes, and working hours were cut almost in half. Because Ford supplied much more capital and much better machine tools for each worker, he was able to lead the whole world in raising the workingman's pay.But even the magic formula cannot work except under a government friendly to achievement, a government that protects a man in the fruit of his toil. Great as he was, I firmly believe Henry Ford would be a name scarcely known beyond the county limits of his home, if he had not lived under the protection of the Constitution of the United States.Socialism, fascism and communism would not have a Chin-aman's chance to outlive this generation if they were not financed and subsidized at home and abroad from the earnings, ideas and inventions of individual competitive enterprise. Socialism and communism put on a show only because they are able to hide their failures from their own people behind the iron curtain of government.When the American and Russian armies met at Berlin, it is reported that a Russian general in great surprise said: "Why, you Americans have jeeps, too." He didn't know that his jeeps came from Detroit and Toledo.If we could get a Sears Roebuck or Montgomery Ward catalogue, in the Russian language, into every Russian home, Stalin wouldn't have as much chance as a snowflake on a frying pan.One of the ironies of history was to see engineers, sent here by a foreign government, studying the automobile factories at Detroit while their government has worked constantly to destroy the very system which made these American factories possible.But the vast assembly line, which is America's other name, will slow down if we "feather-bed" it; doing less but demanding more; if we make savings unattractive by taxing the earnings of capital too highly; if we make good work unattractive by taxing too highly the workers' pay envelopes; if we permit the vampire of Big Government to suck the life-blood out of business, and continue to subsidize socialism and communism—here and abroad.Mr. Bernard Baruch, our statesman-without-a-portfolio, has said,
"We are at the brink of an engulfing inflation. There is only one way out. That is by working. We should adopt, wholeheartedly, a 44-hour week without strikes or layoffs." This same thought was urged several years ago before a Congressional Committee by President Wilson of General Motors.It is a tragic to witness the present stampede for more pieces of paper called dollars because every workingman's wife pays the bill at the market place for every wage increase that does not represent more production per man.Henry Ford proved that higher pay comes from increased production, and that only increased production can bring costs down and make higher pay mean anything.Every American should thrill with pride over the life's work of Henry Ford. It is quite possible that in our lifetime he and his friend, Thomas Edison, exerted the most far-reaching and beneficial influence of any two men in the world.The capital that he accumulated and invested in better tools,
the manufacturing methods thatRecent

Thompson Is Player of Week In GBI League

For his outstanding performance in last Saturday's game against Cambridge Latin at the Boston Arena, which Newton won 3 to 2, Don "Zipper" Thompson was voted the "Player of the Week" award in the Greater Boston Hockey League.

Thompson, Coach Jack Hall's fine defenseman and, during the football season, one of Newton's high scorers, tallied two goals in rapid succession to give the Orange sextet a 3 to 1 lead in the last period.

The tall, rugged stickler played every minute of the tilt and was the unanimous choice of the judges.

"Player of the Week" awards will be made throughout the hockey season to the boy voted outstanding in each G. B. I. game and for each Arena League.

Newton Opens Hockey Season With 3-2 Win Over Camb. Latin

The Newton High hockey team opened its season in grand fashion last Saturday afternoon in the first meeting of the G.B.I. League at the Boston Garden by edging defending champion Cambridge Latin, 3 to 2, on Don Thompson's two successive goals in the third period.

Scheduled to play 10 games, the last three games being the February playoffs, the Orange sextet entered last week's opener a decided underdog, but suddenly made its presence felt by dropping last year's champs.

Comprising the Jack Hall-coached hockey aggregation for this year are juniors Don Fox, center, and wings Paul Fitzgerald and Joe Salvia. Goal tender for Newton is Pete Rigby, filling in for Dan Coffey, who was injured during the football season and will not see action at least until the latter part of the hockey year.

Coach Hall has an experienced defense duo in seniors Don Thompson, hero of last week's tilt and who also turned in a good football year for Newton this fall in the Orange backfield, and Vic Voner, back from last season's team. Voner scored the first Newton tally to start the Hallmen on their way towards the win.

The game was scoreless for two periods until the Orange club began hitting the mark with authority. During the first and middle stanzas the locals worried all-star goalie Don Rigazio by threatening time and again. Finally the Orangemen began finding the mark.

With the third period only 42 seconds old, Voner drove in a 25-foot try from inside the blue line after Fitzgerald tapped the puck from out of the left corner. Voner rifled the rubber straight for the Latin cage and beat Rigazio for the point.

Following a solo flight by George Boudreau at 5:40 to tie the count, Thompson took a rebound from Fitzgerald to break the deadlock. At first Salvia made a try at the free disc, but Rigazio made a save. Thompson then slammed it home to light the lamp for a 2-1 margin.

Less than a minute later, just 33 seconds to be correct, Thompson picked up the rubber around mid-ice, soloed in after taking his rebound off the boards across the blue line, flew around the left side and hit the upper right corner.

A., was married in the St. Andrew's Church of Wellesley to Richard Stewart Hiatt, Jr., who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Hiatt of Modesto, California. Rev. Samuel S. Johnson of St. Andrew's was the officiating clergyman.

Mrs. Paul L. Wile of Needham and Miss Mary Jane Simmonds attended their sister as bridesmaids. Dr. Hiatt was his son's best man. Mead Hartwell of Weston, Paul L. Wile, and Norman B. Simmonds, brother of the bride, were the ushers. A reception followed the ceremony at the Wellesley Inn, after which the young couple left by plane for Bermuda. Mr. Hiatt is an engineer with the Bell Telephone Co., and on their return from their honeymoon they will make their home in Irving, New Jersey.

er from the 20-foot mark with a sharp swipe.

A solo by Bob Scannell, with Voner in the penalty box for interference, at the 9-minute mark closed the gap, but the Newton sextet protected its edge to skate off with the victory.

Coach Hall can call on a second line, consisting of Ed Lynch, Justin McCarthy and Charlie Langdon with junior John O'Hayre in as utility defenseman. Newton will play each of the seven G.B.I. teams once, with the next two sets of games being staged at the Boston Garden, and the last four taking place at the Boston Arena.

... After The Holiday

Christmas is for the young and the young-in-heart. Both like cookies. And the more sophisticated of us find this appeal in Christmas cookies; we may not have the extra cash for a gift, but we usually have the ingredients for cookies on hand . . . they're thrifty.

Cookies make a nourishing Christmas treat with a glass of cold milk. Or for a children's Christmas party, have Pink Milk (just a drop of red coloring added to milk) and these Swedish Cookies. You can roll these cookies, twist them or press them. They are positively the best tasting cookies I know, and a good recipe to keep in mind all year when you have extra egg yolks.

After you've made a pre-holiday angel cake, or mounds of meringues, this is the ideal recipe to take up those egg yolks.

SWEDISH COOKIES

6 egg yolks
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
3/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cream
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
Separate yolks from whites; drop yolks from sauer one at a time into hot, salted water. Simmer until hard cooked. Sift together flour and salt. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually, egg yolks which have been put through a wire sieve and lemon extract. Blend cream and sifted dry ingredients alternately into creamed mixture, beating well after each addition. Roll dough to 1/4" thickness and cut into desired cookie shapes. Place on greased cookie sheet. Decorate with colored sugar, candied fruit, nuts or coconut. If desired, this dough may be used in a cookie press. Cookies may be shaped into knots by gently rolling a rounded teaspoon of dough on a lightly floured canvas board until about 6" in length and tying in a loose knot. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) until edges become delicately browned—6 to 8 minutes for rolled or pressed cookies, 10 to 12 minutes for knots. Makes 5 1/2 dozen.

Spotlight on the Newtons

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

IT WILL BE STEAKS AND CHOPS NOW

When Massachusetts one-week deer season ended last Sunday night, Clayton E. Rix, of Primrose Hill, Auburndale, wore a smile of success as he put away his shotgun.

Although this is his first year of deer hunting, blond and blue-eyed Clayton looked like no novice when he drove home with the 210-lb. deer tied to the hood of his car. Clayton could say, "They laughed when I returned with a tuft of deer hair, they didn't know I'd also got the deer!" And neither did he! That's exactly what happened, and therein lies the story of how Clayton downed the deer.

The modern "Nimrod" of the chase set out for the hunting grounds, in Sheffield, Mass., the day before the season opened. His equipment had been packed for days. He was already feeling the excitement of the hunt as he put on his red cap, and the red-backed jacket his mother had sewed.

He and Peter Malnati, who had shot a deer the week before, in New York, went for a walk in the hunting area, seeking deer runs. They found an orchard and looked for hoof prints under apple trees. They checked the nearby brook for signs of deer; circled the orchard in order to find the place of entrance and departure. Hemlock and pine sections were inspected. Deer usually nap where they get the protection of these trees.

Came the "great day," and at 5:00 a.m., the men stationed themselves on a deer run. Clayton sat quietly in the upwind, as deer have a keen sense of smell and hearing. The orchard and surrounding woods seemed deserted. He walked to the top of a hill. Here, he saw four other hunters. Time to move their position.

Three miles away from the other hunters, Clayton sat behind a tree, Indian style, while Peter "put on a run" for him. To our fellow "armchair adventurers," this means Peter criss-crossed back through the orchard toward Clayton, to frighten the deer toward him.

Clayton was watching the orchard gate, when he first saw "his" deer. It was about 250 ft. away. Deer will often "play," keeping just far enough away to be safe; will leap away when hunter comes near.

"I drew a bead on him, waited for him to get closer. It seemed like hours, but it was probably about 10 minutes," said the hunter, of the "moment." "Then the deer looked up, sniffed the air, and up went the 'white flag,' (tail goes up when deer is frightened). Clayton fired at his heart; the deer leaped into the air. The chase was on!"

He fired again, and missed. By this time, the deer had leaped through the orchard and into the deep woods. Thinking he had shot too high, he followed the deer about one-fourth mile, trying for the "kill" shot. But there was no snow, and the ground was hard. He claimed the tuft of hair that had fallen, and temporarily abandoned the chase. It was a disappointed hunter who returned to camp with such fragment proof of the kill.

After lunch, when he was "putting on a run" for Peter, he found the deer!

He was lying just a few yards from where he had stopped tracking it. The deer had been shot right where he had aimed. The first hunt! The first shot!

Peter answered the call. The hunt was over. It was getting dark. The ropes were in the car at the edge of the woods. Nothing to do but to take off their belts and tie the hoofs. They "snaked" the deer through a swamp, underbrush, ravines, over fences, and to the car.

Night had fallen when finally they were ready to leave. They ran into a water ditch. A farmer rescued them by pulling the car out with a tractor.

Only when they arrived at Clayton's fiancée's home, where they ate "hog-dress" the deer. With the kill once again slung over the car, this time with greens stuffed into the belly of the beast, Clayton drove to the State deer check-in station. Here, officials weighed the deer, and cut the side of its mouth, to check its age. It weighed 210 pounds; was 2½ years. Age can be checked only by its teeth, not by the points of its antlers, as even some hunters believe.

Clayton will save the six point antlers. He will send the pelt to a manufacturer, who will make him a pair of gloves.

With meat prices at a dizzy height, Clayton's hunting is of two-fold value; the family budget will get a boost as the folks enjoy those steaks and chops.

too, utilize the committee's experience to distribute their holiday gifts to the best possible advantage.

The Newton Homecrafters have volunteered their services to recondition trucks, fire engines, dolls and other objects to which children look forward to find waiting for them on Christmas morning. Many young hearts will be gladdened because of the central clearing house for Santa's pack. Without such a parent organization the toys might have been cast aside as useless for lack of repairs and knowledge of where to send them.

One of the agencies is particularly happy that several of the families who have come to it for advice can be given an additional bit of help at this time of year. The parents in these homes are hard-working, independent and successful in stretching marginal incomes to cover the needs of their large broods. However, extra and unexpected expenses easily push the carefully-planned budgets into tailspins. Luxuries such as toys at Christmas time simply cannot be included. Here the council's Santa gladly unloads some of this bag of fun to brighten this special day for the youngsters.

This composite Santa Claus has been functioning in Newton for 16 years. Each year the number of requests is larger and this year will doubtless bring around 400 names to be cleared and taken care of. The vital need of this clearance center was shown in 1950 when almost 10 percent of the names on the list were found to be duplications. In some cases two or three different agencies in their various capacities have reported the same names to Santa's helpers.

The Community Chests and Councils of America, Inc., report "the outpouring of money to brighten the Christmas season—probably represents millions of dollars. Unfortunately—the giving proves often of less real benefit than intended by the giver, and in some cases may actually humiliate or harm the family who receives it. Many people are coming to realize that the wisest and most far reaching way to make a gift to others at Christmas time is to make a special Christmas contribution to the Christmas bureau (in Newton called the Christmas Clearance Committee of the Community Council) in their city. It is true that for the giver this method loses some of the pleasure that comes with the personal transmission of a gift. At the same time, the giver has assurance that his money is used to meet the real needs of a family whose situation and problems have been carefully weighed by a source that has the facts."

Following an invocation by Lieutenant F. W. Cassidy, CHC, U.S.N., the Shipyard chaplain, and addresses by Rear Admiral Hewlett Thebaud, U.S.N., commandant of the First Naval District, and Henry J. Brides, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, the ship was placed in commission by Captain Pleasant D. Gold, Jr., U.S.N., the shipyard commander. Captain George L. Markle, CHC, U.S.N., chaplain of the First Naval District, delivered the benediction. Commander Chipman, a 1935 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy and married to the former Faith Durrell of Newton, saw extensive action in the European-African war area. He is the holder of the Defense American Area, European-African and Victory Medals. While serving as commanding officer of the U.S.S. Cole during the assault of Salerno, he was awarded the Legion of Merit. He also received the Commendation Ribbon while training officer at the Naval Training Center, Miami, Fla.

The Chinese Nationalist Government awarded Commander Chipman the Special Breast Order of Yun Hui for training Chinese crews that served aboard eight ships which were transferred to their government.

The U.S.S. Eaton was named in honor of the late General William Eaton, U.S.A., who received fame during the early part of the 19th century as "The Hero of Derne" in the brief but eventful war on the Tripoli pirates. Commander of Christian and other forces that marched from Egypt through the Desert of Barca, General Eaton captured the City of Derne on April 27, 1805. This victory led to the treaty of peace between the United States and the regency of Tripoli.

The U.S.S. Eaton was originally commissioned December 4, 1942, at the Boston Naval Shipyard. During January, 1947, the Eaton was inactivated and assigned to the Atlantic Reserve Fleet, Charleston, S. C. Tuesday the Eaton joined a group of ships that have been converted and recommissioned as escort destroyers for specialized antisubmarine service.

"Without a reason being stated, the Alcoholic Beverage Commission has invalidated the license of this applicant and awarded the license to two individuals not found acceptable to the Newton License Board, for location in Newton Corner. There are already seven places in Newton Corner where liquor may be procured and this will be the third package store.

"It is about time the honest work of the Newton License Board is backed up by a public demand for a complete investigation of the motives and reasons behind the outrageous action of this group of individuals known as the Alcoholic Beverage Commission. This is not the first time our fine Board has seen its diligent work go for naught. Should the decent citizens of Newton Corner have no redress when a state commission can give up an eighth oasis, and thus further lower the moral standards of a community?"

"It's about time the church people spoke up. How can we work for a better tomorrow for our youngsters if we sit idly by and let an outside group impose licenses not deemed proper by our own duly appointed and honest officials?"

"It is my hope that a public investigation will be launched immediately by the proper authorities. Then, and only then, will our city and all other reputable communities be safe from the indiscriminate action of a group which acts without reason, and certainly not in the best interests of Newton."

additional stores where liquor can be bought to take out. The Commission's ruling that the Washington street address is 'ideally located to serve the public convenience' is therefore just so much double-talk on their part. The public convenience does not demand an additional store in that area.

"Why were the two fine war veterans from the Thompsonville area denied the license by the A.B.C. These two men were approved by the Newton Board of Licenses. One of these men is a 100 percent disabled veteran and both are of fine moral character. The Thompsonville area has no package store at the present time.

"Why did the A.B.C. award the license to the Garden City Mart, Inc., when our own Newton License Board had strong reasons to disapprove those applicants?"

"As a member of the Newton Board of Aldermen I ask that the Newton License Board refuse to sign the package store license for the Garden City Mart, Inc., and take immediate steps to appeal the A.B.C. action to the courts."

Prunes Are Good Eating at Any Meal And They're Plentiful and Good Buys

The plum that little Jack Horner pulled out of his Christmas pie would today be called a prune the type of plum which is firm and sweet enough to dry whole. Dried prunes have been favorites for holiday or other winter cooking from way back when this nursery rhyme was written. But modern Jack Horners have better prunes—more plump and tender which mostly sell packaged so are cleaner and more convenient. They no longer need long soaking plus long stewing. Some are specially treated with moist heat so are extra tender and take less time to cook, or are soft enough to eat "as is" like a confection.

This winter prunes are plentiful and good buys, the U. S. Department reports. To please the family, prepare them for the way you'll use them. You can have them rich and chewy, soft and juicy, or very soft for sieving. Prunes that come from the package plump and pliable enough for easy cutting need neither soaking nor cooking to pit and chop for use in many cookies, breads, stuffings and dried fruit confections. If they seem dry, cover with water and let stand to soften up enough to cut, then drain. Such prunes also may be pitted and stuffed for salad or sweetmeat.

An easy way to have a supply of plump prunes in thick, full-bodied juice is to put some in a fruit jar, cover with water, screw the top on, and hold in the refrigerator four to six days. No cooking required. Many people prefer the fresh flavor of the uncooked prunes. For a breakfast or dessert fruit, most people like softer prunes, prepared by cooking rather than soaking. Cook in water at a "slow boil" from 30 to 45 minutes to desired tenderness. Add water during cooking if necessary because the fruit takes up considerable moisture. Prunes have so much natural sweetness that they don't need added sugar, but if you like them sweeter, add sugar or honey during the last 5 minutes of cooking. Prunes are best if allowed to stand in cooking liquid several hours after they are tender.

Tests made by the dried fruit industry show that pressure cooking is a fast way to prepare prunes. The softer prunes will be cooked by the time 15 pounds pressure is reached. Others may need up to 10 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Remove cooker from heat and let the pressure drop to zero without hastening the cooling. Sweeten if desired. To give variety in flavor, prunes may be cooked with slices of lemon or orange or with spices—a few whole cloves or stick cinnamon, for example. For prune whip or other desserts calling for puree or sieved fruit, longer cooking is needed. Cook until the pulp loosens from pit and skins so that it goes through the sieve easily.

For Christmas giving, make these nutritious goodies: Stuffed Prunes. Stone 18 dried prunes and stuff with the following mixture: 3 Tablespoons honey 4 Tablespoons peanut butter 1/2 cup dry non-fat milk solids. Mix honey and peanut butter. Gradually add dry milk, mix well.

Letters to the Editor

Offer Our Blessings

Editor, Newton Graphic: In the December 6 issue of the Newton Graphic, under the heading "Spotlight on the Newtons," was an article on so-called "Planned Parenthood."

With a world situation requiring increasing self-sacrifice and inflexible moral standards, it is indeed disturbing to find a group among us, so lacking in understanding, so misguided in principle.

Our nation and people are vastly wealthy and our heritage is rich. Over three thousand miles of water, an army of stalwart defenders, fights to preserve God's blessings and to uphold His truths. These things along with our other heroes of the past and present, our clergymen, our doctors, our scientists, but most of all, our people, have certainly advanced humanity and elevated it in dignity.

To attempt furtherance of our society by its planned decimation is a hideous mockery and betrayal of our trust.

In this holy season of Christmas, on this anniversary of the birth of our Lord, let us not spurn His teachings, but rather offer our thanks and our prayers that His blessings will continue and multiply.

Paul A. McGreener, Jr. Editor's Note: We are pleased to present the views of Mr. McGreener. The fact that the article was printed in this paper does not, and should not, be construed that it expresses the viewpoint of the publishers. The Graphic does not make the news, it merely prints it.

The Program of Progress

Editor, Newton Graphic: People with whom I have talked have told me that they were very much impressed by the positive nature of the Republican Party's tremendous new legislative program of progress for 1952.

They want affirmative action on pressing Bay State problems, such as jobs, corruption, aging citizens, etc., without me-tooism.

This new program does exactly that.

Republicans are going to keep jobs in Massachusetts by proposing legislation that strengthens small business in making jobs. We will bolster economic security through insurance benefits to sick workers and other aids, and we will do it within the framework of private enterprise and initiative.

The constructive program has the solid backing of the Republican state party organization and, from what I hear, the growing support of citizens—regardless of party labels—who want clean, sound, forward-looking government in Massachusetts.

As a legislator, who has advocated constructive laws to create better living conditions for the people of this community and who has contributed to this spectacular new Republican Program of Progress, I can assure everyone of my support. George E. Rawson.

For News Coverage

Editor, Newton Graphic: We send our thanks and grateful appreciation on behalf of the Massachusetts Republican Finance Committee for the splendid news coverage we received in the Newton Graphic for the Preparedness Dinner which was held in Boston on November thirteenth.

It may be of interest to you that 270 cities and towns were represented, a most gratifying grass root response, and over sixty percent of the 1400 guests

Christmas Trees A Danger Unless Properly Prepared

While Christmas is the happiest time of the year for most people, for many, annually, it is the time of tragedy, warns Herbert L. McNary, executive manager of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters. The Fire Underwriters urge the greatest of caution over the holidays and offer several helpful suggestions.

Two years ago, reminds Mr. McNary, a whole town in Pennsylvania was virtually wiped out because of a Christmas tree fire. In an Oklahoma town 36 lives of children and parents were lost in a fire at a school Christmas party when the Christmas tree flashed into flames. Over the years there have been many similar disasters.

One common cause of Christmas tree fires is the use of cotton for snow. While flameproofed cotton can be purchased, common medical cotton should never be used. In any event, a small piece of cotton should be tested with a match in some safe place.

Better still, however, suggests Mr. McNary, "snow" for the trees should be made from ordinary soap powder and water. Children love to make their own snow. Whipped into a thick consistency, it can be thrown or placed on the tree and when it dries out it makes a most realistic "snow."

The following suggestions are distributed by the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters in the interest of a SAFE Christmas.

1. Leave your Christmas tree outdoors as long as possible.
2. Stand tree in water while in the house.
3. Use only non-flammable decorations.
4. Avoid window lighting near flammable curtains or drapes.
5. Avoid defective lights or wiring.
6. Avoid overloading wires by multiple plugs and too much lighting.
7. Dispose of paper wrappings quickly.
8. Take extra precautions with smoking hazards.

Santa Claus To Be At Lincoln Eliot PTA This Friday

Santa Claus is coming to the family Christmas party being held this Friday evening at the Lincoln-Eliot School, 191 Pearl st., Newton. The Parent Teacher Association has planned a program which includes community singing, a grab bag for children and entertainment provided by some of the pupils of the school. Santa Claus will distribute the presents to the children.

The party will be held from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. in the auditorium which will be gaily decorated for this festive occasion. Helping Mrs. Anne Vincilla, President to decorate the rooms and trim the tree will be Mrs. Marie Visco and Mrs. Emma Morrison with the assistance of the room mothers Mrs. Peter Bloom, Mrs. Ralph Hamill, Mrs. James Kelly, Mrs. Harry Forsyth, Mrs. Peter Wallace, Mrs. Benjamin Beresen, and Mrs. Alan Kempainen. Refreshments will also be served by the room mothers.

Safety-

9. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning the lights off and on.
10. Don't leave lights burning when no one is in the house. From time to time, inspect the tree and see whether any of the needles near the lights have started to turn brown. If so, change the position of the lights.
11. When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it outdoors.
12. Don't locate the Christmas tree near any stairway or elevator shaft which would provide a draft.
13. The tree should not block a door or any exits.
14. An inspection of the tree should be made every day by someone in authority to determine whether the tree should be left up for a longer time.
15. Be sure that plenty of ashtrays are provided for smokers. Don't allow smoking near the Christmas tree.
16. Be sure that all decorations throughout the room have been flameproofed.
17. Avoid using net or gauze-like fabrics for dresses, costumes or children's clothes. Loosely woven fabrics easily catch fire.
18. If loosely woven costumes have to be worn, they should be flameproofed with the following solution:

Mix 9 ounces of borax and 4 ounces of boric acid in a gallon of water. Dip the fabric into this solution wring by hand then hang to dry. This flameproofing method must be repeated after each laundering of the garment.

Review-

The second act was opened by John and Phyllis Williamson presenting an original number by Selene Harmon Howe of Weston, "Sure an' Begorra." The Betty DiMuro Dancing School chorus rapped out a stirring routine. Barbara Nutting drew applause with her "I Want to Shimmy Like My Sister Kate" and Mrs. Harold Keller and Mac McConaghy with Edna White had their audience laughing with them during the "Hospital Catastrophe" number. Jeanne Bartlett and Sven Stenberg looked for the silver lining over the dishpan and Paulette Knox was delightful as the Spirit of Marilyn Miller. Dorothy Robinson did an amusing travesty of the opera in "Il Barco."

Sonja Risman had the audience wild about her "Wild About Harry" and Anita Carr won everybody's heart with her adagio dance. Evocative of the operettas of the twenties was the "Night in Roman" number featuring Mary Louise Meyer, as soloist, Edna White, Pat McConaghy, Norman Dow and Ruthann Seymour.

Vita Pike proved her showmanship in presenting Mary Martin's "Honey Bun" from "South Pacific" with charm and enthusiasm. Sonja Risman and Norman Dow harked back to 1926, supported by a chorus representing the London Tiller Girls of the same period. They were followed by Phil Nutting and Betty Quinn, plus a supporting chorus in "The Varsity Drag." Lois Abrams perched on the piano for Helen Morgan's famous "My Bill."

Vita Pike scored again in the "Tea Party" skit supported by Edna White, Pat McConaghy and Norris Bond. Norman Dow and Jeanne Bartlett provided an effective musical setting for the charming ballet sequence danced by the "corps de ballet" "Sur les pointes."

Sonja Risman's "My Belongs to Daddy" had the audience applauding for more and her supporting chorus proved that they were not to be outdone. Phil and Barbara Nutting brought back many warm memories with "The Old Soft Shoe." Vita Pike led the entire company in the finale while they sang "Show Business" and "Sleepy Time Gal."

A party for the cast and all those connected with the show was held at Waban Neighborhood Club following Friday night's performance. Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Prather and Ann Perry made the arrangements.

Curtis E. Drury, USN, husband of Mrs. Charlotte E. Drury of 58 Randall park, West Newton, serving aboard the battleship USS New Jersey.

The New Jersey, which has been relentlessly bombarding Communist military installations in Korea for the past seven months, is due to anchor at Long Beach, Calif., long enough to permit men diving on the West Coast to depart on leave.

She will then proceed to Norfolk, Va., where other sailors of her 2300 man crew will be granted leave. During her stay in Norfolk, the 45,000-ton dreadnaught will undergo a yard overhaul.

While in Korea, the ship operated in support of UN ground forces. Her 16-inch rifles were able to reach inland 20 miles to blast Communist forces opposing UN troops.

With the 3rd Infantry Div. in Korea—Sgt. Anthony E. Moscaritolo, whose wife, Laura, lives at 8 Rockland street, Newton, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in Korea.

Preparations Being Made for Many Coming Holiday Events

Christmas comes early to the West Newton Community Centre, where preparations are being made for the many holiday events, which add to the spirit of good fellowship that exists in all activities within the life of the center.

Parties are planned by the Wenecoco, Club, the Craft Group and the Moulton Club, each taking their turn in transforming "The Portable" into a place of cheer.

The children's activities committee have arranged "The Children's Party" to be held in the Davis School December 20, at 3 o'clock. On that afternoon some 200 children will be treated to a movie show, a Christmas tree and holiday refreshments. Mrs. Carlton W. Spencer and Mrs. Chester M. Alter are in charge.

The boys and girls committee with Mrs. Lewis S. Pilcher and Mrs. Melvin J. Dangel as chairmen will greet the dancing party that evening in the Davis School auditorium.

The popularity of Miss Esther Kelly's dancing classes makes it necessary to divide the group. One party will be held 6:30 to 8 o'clock, the other 8 to 9:30.

"Tis the season to be jolly" is indeed a reality at the Newton Community Centre.

Seek $100,000 to Aid Flood Victims

A drive to raise $100,000 in Massachusetts to aid the homeless and stricken Italians, victims of the devastating floods of the Po valley, has been announced by the Italian Flood Relief committee.

Archbishop Cushing contributed $2500 to start the campaign for funds.

Four prominent Italo-Americans have been named co-chairmen of the flood committee.

They are John Ciffrino, Dorchester, retired business executive; Joseph Salerno, Waltham, Amalgamated Clothing Makers Union, CIO; Joseph Pellegrino, Andover, pres., Prince Macaroni Co.; and Dr. Antonio L. Tauro, Stoneham.

Money will be turned over to the Italian Red Cross as contributions are received to assist the destitute Italian flood victims.

"There is a tremendous need for aid to the unfortunate flood victims to help them struggle through the winter," Dr. Augusto Castellani, Italian consul general, said last night.

Contributions may be sent to the Italian Flood Relief Committee, 101 Tremont st., Boston.

Comfort Fund Baskets Prepared

Christmas was in the air on Monday morning when the board members of the Newton District Nursing Association brought their gifts and saw how the preparations were under way for the Comfort Fund Christmas Baskets.

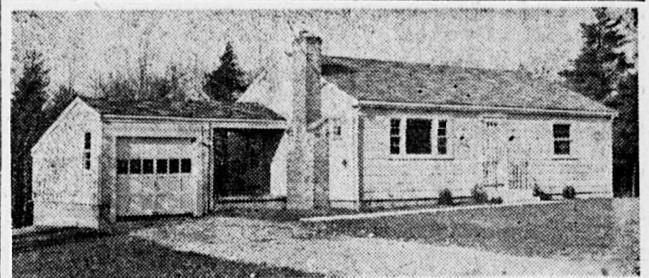

For many years it has been the custom of Nursing Association to send baskets or plants or cards to the sick whom the nurses call on. Mrs. Stanley Anderson and Mrs. Mammie Biscoe are in charge of the baskets this year and they demonstrated how the good work is planned and carried out each year.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Thomas Lannan. The reports of the many committees proved the association is one of the busy Red Feather agencies in Newton with never a dull moment for its board.

"Can it not be hoped, then, that things that we are witnessing today, as we review our library heritage, our heritage of men and women and of books and buildings, may be pointing toward a new quarter century which can be made by our efforts to show fresh significance and power."

This decade of ours also has felt, and is still feeling, the depletions of war, the scrambling selfishness of reconstruction, the frustration of idealism. But we are not as ready as was the library world of seventy-five years ago, for fresh, significant developments—for an all-out effort to make books available to every last sector of this country; for programs which will tie library service so firmly into the educational needs of the country that from childhood to old age our people will not be without the books to inform and inspire; for zeal to continue and expand the recognition of the uses of books and libraries in all governmental activities, for defense, for industrial and cultural needs; for confidence that we can still further confirm the place of books in international relationships and understanding on the long road to one world—a healthy and literate, self-sustaining and peaceful world."

From an address by Frederic G. Melcher at the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the American Library Association. Mr. Melcher, President of R. R. Bowker Co., is a former Newton citizen. The Newton Free Library has been a city library for seventy-five years.

A Brief History of the Main Library Building of the Newton Free Library

Written especially for The Newton Graphic — by Harold A. Wooster, Librarian

The history of the Main Library Building is an interesting one going back to the American Civil War period, or in its origin to the educational interests and hungers of American Colonial days. The library has been operating at its present site and utilizing the original stone building for eighty years and for seventy-five years it has been the City Library.

Citizen interest, support, assistance, leadership, are most important in any civic, educational enterprise. The Newton Free Library was founded, and successfully operated for a half decade by a group of public minded citizens who then gave the entire property and accumulated book resources to the City of Newton for the benefit of future generations.

The Newton Free Library was organized in 1869, the Main Library Building was dedicated in 1870, the organization was incorporated in 1871 and was taken over by the City in 1876, which gives it at least four birthdays. The Newton

Library Association, organized in January 1849 as a circulating library and interested in improving and enlarging the library facilities of Newton and the Newton Library Association of the same era were originators of the Newton Free Library. On March 2, 1865, at a meeting of the Newton Literary Association held at the house of the Hon. D. K. Hitchcock, a committee was appointed to establish the Newton Free Public Library. In June 1866 Mr. Joel H. Hills obtained a subscription of thirty-three hundred dollars from seventeen subscribers to purchase a lot of land containing 20,500 feet, situated on Centre Street and owned by Capt. Wm. Thomas. The subscribers who purchased this valuable site were: D. R. Emerson, J. C. Chaffin, Albert Brackett, Joel H. Hills, Joseph N. Bacon, Fred Davis, George H. Jones, Wm. O. Edmonds, H. D. Bassett, J. W. Wellman, I. T. Burr, Frank Skinner, G. D. Gilman, Louisa S. Brown, A. B. Underwood, Aaron F. Gay and James French. In January 1868 at a meeting of the subscribers to the Library Land Fund it was announced that Hon. J. Wiley Edmands offered to contribute $15,000 toward the establishment of a Free Public Library if an equal amount was raised by general subscription. The total raised, including the purchase of land and Mr. Edmands' subscription was $36,683. Ground was broken for the library building in June 1868 and the building dedicated two years later in June 1870. The original staff of the library was G. W. Bacon, Superintendent, Miss Hannah P. James and Miss Caroline B. Jackson, assistants. With its new stone building, book collection and citizen interest the Newton Free Library was a leading public library in 1870.

The response to the library facilities was so great that within a decade plans for enlargement were under consideration. In 1876 the Main Library Building and its contents were presented for public library purposes to the City of Newton. In 1884 plans for an addition to the rear of the original library building were drawn up and in 1885 the City Council voted an appropriation of $20,000 to erect this addition planned to more than double the size of the library building. The addition was erected in 1886, within the appropriation. With the main library well established there came the evolution of the system of branch libraries for which Newton is famous. These grew from deposit stations, to reading rooms, to modern branch libraries.

By 1900 the need for another expansion of the Main Library Building was apparent and under consideration. In 1904 the newspaper room on the first floor was converted into a children's room. In the fall of 1911 the Trustees submitted to the City Government plans and estimates prepared by Mr. Lewis H. Bacon, Architect, for an enlargement and alteration of the main building to provide a fire-proof book-stack "and to meet the shelving requirements of the next twenty years." The matter of the necessary appropriation of

ADDITION TO LIBRARY DEDICATION DECEMBER 20

$41,000 received most careful consideration by the Board of Aldermen and work started on the second addition to the main library in June 1912. The addition, completed in 1913 was 56 feet long, 49 feet wide, a four story, fireproof structure of brick and cement, with an additional sub-basement for the heating plant. This new structure made possible a major re-arrangement of departments and services. In 1928 the top floor of the stack was completed and office changes made. The next relief from crowded conditions at the main building came in June 1934 when the children's department was moved to the Boys' and Girls' Library on Vernon Street, the former John C. Chaffin home. This made possible a new rearrangement at the Main Library.

From 1942 on the next development concerning the main library was under careful study and consideration. For several years Mr. Harry C. Carlson, Newton citizen and retired architect, advised with the Librarian and the Library Board. Reports were made to the Mayor and the Newton Planning Board. In 1948, on recommendation of the Library Trustees and with a special appropriation of the Board of Aldermen, Mr. Joseph L. Wheeler, retired librarian and nationally recognized authority on public library buildings, made a survey of the building needs of the Newton Public Library. His findings approved the use of the land in front of the original library building for a modern addition and extension of the Main Library Building.

As preliminary steps in 1949 a new electric book lift replaced the hydraulic one in the book stack and the floor level of Jewett Hall was made the same as that of other rooms on the first floor. In 1950, a new stairway to the second floor replaced a small winding one in the center of the building, the staff room and toilet facilities were modernized. The Newton Planning Board had earmarked the sum of $170,000 for library construction in the bond issue for public buildings. Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood appointed Mr. W. Cornell Appleton, Newton resident and the head of a well-known, long established Boston architectural firm to draw up the plans and specifications for the addition. Estimates were called for in the fall of 1950. Tornabene Bros. Co., a Newton construction firm with experience in building schools and libraries submitted the low bid which was accepted and construction work started in December 1950.

The new addition has a limestone front with simple classic lines, large windows and the City seal cut in a marble medallion over the door. The sides are of grey brick, the main floor is of reinforced concrete as is the roof. The construction which includes the former stair tower, now entrance lobbies for the first and second floors, is approximately fifty by eighty-five feet in size and is an especially well constructed building. The approximate cost, including a new approach walk, landscaping the grounds, furnishings and contingent repairs to the old building is approximately $175,000, the building being completed within the original appropriation. The approximate capacity of the building is 10,000 volumes of books in the main room, with table seating capacity for 32 persons and the main charging desk for the entire building. The basement of the addition has a book storage capacity of up to 40,000 volumes. The addition has increased the size of the Main Library by about one-third, has doubled the size of the first floor area and made possible the more than doubling of the reference room space on the second floor. It is expected that with the present addition the enlarged Main Library Building will be able to perform the essential functions of the Main Library—the main collection of books, administrative functions, special services, reference headquarters, special collections, as well as serving as the library for the Newton Corner area, for a period of one, two or three generations, depending on circumstances beyond our present knowledge.

The Newton Free Library is a library system. It would be impressive if all of the libraries could be seen at one time, as in addition to the Main Library there are five branch buildings of modern brick construction at Auburndale, Newton Centre, Newtonville, Waban and West Newton; two houses converted into libraries—the Boys' and Girls' Library and the Newton Highlands Branch Library; a former fire station branch at Newton Lower Falls; classrooms converted into branch libraries at Newton Upper Falls, Oak Hill and Oak Hill Park; a rented store in Nonantum and a room at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

In round figures the Newton Free Library has a collection of one quarter of a million books, an annual book circulation of three quarters of a million books, an annual operating budget of $175,000 and in per capita public library book ownership and circulation stands high among cities of its size in the United States.

NOTES

The architect of the Addition is Mr. W. Cornell Appleton. Tornabene Bros. Co. are the general contractors. The new building was erected and furnished for approximately $175,000, including the new approach walk, the grading and landscaping of the grounds and certain contingent repairs to the old building. The money was appropriated on recommendation of the Mayor, by the Board of Aldermen, from the Public Buildings loan account and a minor amount from current revenue. The appropriation received careful study and consideration by the Newton Planning Board, the Public Works and Public Buildings Committees of the Board of Aldermen. The need for and requirements of the addition were studied by the Librarian and Board of Library Trustees for a period of six years, with the assistance of consultations and special professional advice. The erection of the addition was under the general supervision of Mr. Arthur Campbell, Public Buildings Commissioner of the City of Newton.

If the appropriation is granted, construction would commence immediately.

The Architects are Cram and Ferguson of Boston.

Behind Scenes in American Business

Despite the upturn in retail sales brought about by the Christmas season, many business observers are warning against an over-optimistic view.

They point out that it is highly unlikely that even if sales continue on the upgrade, they will ever get back to the high point hit in the period immediately following the outbreak of Korean hostilities. In some of the chief consumer goods industries, it has been over a year since the post-Korean peak was hit, and few observers can see that peak in sight again.

It seems likely that a moderate upturn in business will continue through to the peak of the defense build-up period. But in many industries more and more attention is again being given to sales builders and merchandising schemes.

THINGS TO COME — From Oregon comes news of a new attachment for any tank-type vacuum cleaner that will polish floors, furniture and cars and also do sanding, grinding and drilling. A new gadget for the home handyman is a stepladder "caddy" that hooks on the side of the ladder, has space for a can of paint, a tray for small articles, five hooks for hanging things and a loop for a towel of cleaning cloth. A new electrically lighted door plate has space for the home-owner's name as well as the bell-push. The retailer will like a compact coin-wrapping machine just out, which the maker says will cut wrapping in half. A new metal cleaner removes oil, prevents rust and prepares the surface for painting, all in one operation.

WOMEN WORKERS—Despite recent seasonal layoffs that have apparently eased the labor market, many quarters still foresee manpower shortages next year. The answer, in the minds of the majority of industrialists, is to tap the vast reserves of potential women workers.

One of the things puzzling them, however, is a lack of any accurate count on the amount of womanpower available. It is conceded that attempts to get women into factories during World War II were mostly on a hit-or-miss basis, and little or no inducement was offered to the ladies. Now, personnel men are seriously looking for new inducements for women workers — not only to get them on the job, but to keep them there.

All in all, it looks as if the ladies can expect to be bombarded with propaganda designed to get them out of the kitchen and into the factory some time next year.

BITS O' BUSINESS — A new type of employee pension plan, which helps pensioners hedge against variable cost of living by adding a fluctuating income to fixed income, has been devised by Investors Diversified Services, Inc. Clothing makers would be allowed price ceilings which fluctuate with changes in labor and material costs under orders now being prepared by the office of Price Stabilization. Defense Production Administration is surveying idle plants through-

Newton Repub. Club Hear Backers Of Ike-Taft at Meeting Wednesday

Newton was the scene Wednesday evening, of one of the first formal Taft-Eisenhower forums in the State when Rep. Augustus G. Means of Essex told the Newton Republican Club and guests why he believes "Ike" should be nominated by the G.O.P. and Rep. James C. Bayley of Boston spoke for Senator Robert A. Taft at the first winter meeting of the Newton Republican Club.

The program was held in the Newton Highlands Workshop. Club President L. Johnson Calas also asked for adherents of other G.O.P. White House possibilities—such as General Douglas MacArthur and Governor

Turner Wells To Head State '52 Heart Fund

Turner Wells, of 28 Chestnut street, Boston, and Southbridge, Mass., will serve as state chairman of the 1952 Heart Fund which will take place Feb. 1 through 28, Dr. Samuel Proger, president of the Massachusetts Heart Association, announced today.

Mr. Wells is president of the International Optical Company (USA) Inc., of Southbridge. He was formerly secretary of the American Optical Company of that city.

He will lead the State-wide Heart Fund drive to raise $360,000 to support the year round program of the Heart Association. This program is three-fold. It helps support research by medical scientists who are studying causes and control of heart disease. It sponsors postgraduate educational programs for doctors, nurses and other professional personnel so that new methods of treating the disease may be put into practice to benefit patients. It makes available to the general public facts about heart disease, and how to live with it, through printed material, films, speakers and exhibits.

State Heart Fund headquarters are at 650 Beacon street, Boston.

Dried Fruit Plentiful; Raisins Good Buy Now

Large supplies of dried fruits at lower prices are expected not only for the holidays but also for next year.

Prunes and raisins are especially plentiful. Raisins have already dropped in price and are a thrifty buy for holiday cakes, stuffings—or just for "munching" from the package.

A broad array of "Wool in California Colors" hats, shoes, bags, belts and other accessories have been created to complement the new fashions—all designed by leading California firms with the cooperation of national manufacturers.

One of the standout color families used with taste and imagination by California's designers is the pink-to-mauve color group, in California-inspired shades. These appear under such names as "Pati Rose," "Lemon Blossom Pink" and "Calrose."

Shades include a clear tone of pink in combination with vivid rose for jersey, muted mauve for fleece, and with gray in small worsted checks and stripes.

Yellow, another main color choice, looks typically "California" in golden tones allied with gray for gabardines, separates and casuals, and in fleece and nubbed coatings. Blues make a strong impression, too, in a wide range of tones, from navy, the traditional spring shade, to teal, pastel and watery pale tones.

From pale to spice shades, the beige to brown group gains wide representation. Jersey maintains a standout position in the California fashions, together with fleece, nubbed coatings, worsted suitings, lightweight wool crepe, gabardine suiting and suede cloth coating.

Stylists To Feature Wool Next Spring

The California influence, spotlighting rich colors and imaginative styling, will come into its own in almost every section of the country next spring, bringing with it a strong emphasis on lightweight wool in a wide range of textures.

A salute to the importance of the California fashion market and the skill of its wool-conscious designers, 12 of the nation's leading woolen mills have created a sparkling array of new woolen and worsted co's especially for use by West Coast manufacturers. These new fabrics have been put to use in hundreds of striking new fashions for spring—some of which were previewed at showings staged recently in Los Angeles by the Wool Bureau.

More than 125 manufacturers have produced suits, coats, dresses, blouses and other apparel from the new fabrics, and 80 of the outstanding models were featured in the Wool Bureau's showings in the Hotel Ambassador. As "California's best" in creative styling and tailoring came forth in this exclusive parade, department stores and specialty shops from coast to coast were already making plans to offer manufacturers these typically California styles, resplendent in their "Wool in California Colors."

The woolen mills which cooperated in creating some 60 special colors are Botany Mills, Inc., C. M. De Land, Forstmann, Inc., William Heller, Inc., Hockan Mills, Inc., A. D. Juillard & Co., Inc., Miron Mills, Inc., Pacific Mills, J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc., Pola Stout, Inc., S. Stroock & Co., and I. A. Wyner & Co., Inc.

Would Check On Welfare Expenditures

STATE HOUSE, Boston—Massachusetts taxpayers have again called on the legislature to change the laws relating to expenditure of public welfare records so that responsible municipal agencies could check on local expenditures.

Similar legislation was defeated in the last session before Congress acted to assure payment of federal aid to states where such records were open for scrutiny.

The legislation filed for the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations by Senator George J. Evans (R) of Wakefield would impose a strict prohibition against publication of any list of names of welfare recipients. Violation would result in a fine of $500.

The welfare rolls would be available for inspection by officials of a city or town, private incorporated charities and to any group established by the municipality for the purpose of studying welfare department practices.

The legislation would also allow a city or town to designate specific officials, such as a budget commissioner, to inspect the records of the department.

Norman MacDonald, director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations recently condemned the "veil of secrecy" surrounding public welfare administration.

Sen. Evans said that when the proposal was first mentioned in his district he received more mail favoring the plan than on any other single measure pending before the legislature at that time.

Shortly after Congress acted to end the secrecy on welfare spending, the welfare rolls would be available for inspection by officials of a city or town, private incorporated charities and to any group established by the municipality for the purpose of studying welfare department practices.

Silhouettes Very Full, Very Slim for '51 Fall

From the exciting texture of fabrics to the minimized collars and the full, full skirts, new fashions for Fall have a completely refreshed outlook that is in ideal keeping with the busy, ever-changing daily activities of the American woman.

Fabrics are rough, yet soft, like the wrappy tweeds used for suits. They're deeply piled, sometimes curly like the poodle cloths used so abundantly for coats.

Other fabrics are corded, nubbed, and slubbed. And take form as fine-textured wools, extra wide wale corduroys, gentiest jerseys, smooth rayons, elegant satins, brocades, velvets, failles and ottomans.

All of this against a warm, deep-toned background, often in striking contrasts of color. Prominent are the greys, in every shade from the lightest of mist to the densest of charcoal.

New Contrasts Black, dramatic alone, is even more dramatic when used as a contrast to brown, red, burnt orange, bright blue or yellow green. The chocolate browns, the beiges, the deep greens, also are offered for Fall. With the smallest of checks, the finest of stripes and the tiniest of plaids as the key patterns of the new season.

Would Check Activities of State Legislature

STATE HOUSE, Boston—Legislation designed to check the activities of legislators themselves has been proposed to:

1. Set up a research organization to eliminate time waste and end travel for investigatory purposes.
2. All bills affecting salaries, allowances, and pensions for state employees, judges, state officials and lawmakers themselves.
3. Deny travel allowances for legislators after June 30.

Clean Metal Furniture Well with Soapy Cloth

Metal furniture has the twin advantage of durability and easy upkeep. Just go over it each week with a cloth soaked in soapy water, and then dry with a clean cloth.

Metal polish can then be applied if added gloss is desired, but it's not really necessary.

VA Answers Insurance Questions for Korean Vets

INSURANCE AFTER DISCHARGE
Two new types of low-cost Government life insurance are available to eligible veterans of the U. S. armed forces who served anywhere in the world since the Korean campaign started on June 27, 1950.

The first of these two types is a non-convertible five-year level premium term policy that may be renewed every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age.

The second type is a special form of National Service Life Insurance, on either term or permanent plans, that may be issued to disabled veterans whose disabilities have been found to be service-connected.

In this article, we will discuss only the five-year level premium term plan. The special NSLI provided for disabled veterans will be discussed in the next article.

To qualify for the five-year level premium term policy (under section 621 of the NSLI Act), veterans must have been ordered to active duty for 31 days or more; they must have served since June 27, 1950, and they must have been released from active service.

These veterans are eligible, without physical examination, for a five-year level premium term policy in amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, less any other Government life insurance in force at the time of application.

They must apply in writing to Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C., within 120 days after their release or separation from active service, and pay the required first premium.

The premium rates for most ages under this policy are the lowest of any Government life insurance yet authorized by the Congress.

While this policy may be renewed every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age, it is not convertible to any other plan of Government life insurance, nor will it earn dividends.

Because it is a term policy running for only five years, it does not have any loan value, cash surrender value, or extended insurance value. It merely provides life insurance coverage while premiums are being paid for the five-year period.

A veteran taking out this type of policy may name any person or persons, firm or corporation or his estate as the beneficiary or beneficiaries to whom payments shall be made in event of his death while the policy is in force under premium-paying conditions.

Demonstration of Actual Painting Of Portrait Held by Art Association

At the regular meeting of the Newton Art Association held last Thursday at the Newtonville Library, 85 members and their guests were treated to a demonstration of the actual painting of a portrait.

The artist was Rutledge Bate of Rockport, a member of the Boston Guild of Artists and the subject was Dr. James Janney of Wellesley who is a member of the Art Association.

Using the oil technique, Mr. Bate explained as he demonstrated the importance of the proper treatment of the plane areas on the face and their later development to obtain the proper likeness. Mr. Bate also emphasized the importance of maintaining contact with the subject through conversation or gestures in order to produce animation in the finished portrait. The result must have been very gratifying to the artist who received generous applause for his efforts.

President Sherwood Blodgett announced that the next meeting on Thursday, December 20, would be at the Newtonville Women's Club. This occasion will be in the form of a social get-together and the host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis who are club members. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris, also members, will entertain with colored pictures and remarks relating to their recent visit into Mexico.

An exhibition of oil paintings by Mrs. Alice Weed, widely known for her landscapes in oil, and a member of the Newton Art Association, is being held at the Newton Highlands Library.

Middlesex County Extinguishes Debt

Middlesex County paid $27,000 on December 1, 1951, to extinguish the last cent of long term debt which it owed to anyone. The securities of the county have long been rated AAA. Now there are none left to be rated. Middlesex County does not even owe a cent borrowed in anticipation of current revenue. On the contrary, the county holds $850,000 in 60 day and 90 day certificates of deposit, earning interest for the county, and has demand deposits in banks totalling over $800,000. Middlesex is definitely solvent.

The peak of the county debt was $2,024,600 in 1932. It was reduced rapidly in the 1930's and early 1940's during the years of low tax rates. It has been the policy of successive boards of County Commissioners and successive treasurers never to borrow if it can be avoided, and to borrow, when necessary, only for the shortest term of years which will not unduly burden the taxpayers. Consequently, today the county is free of debt.

Senator Humphrey to Speak At Community Lecture Series

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey will be the speaker at the first lecture of the 1951-1952 Community Lecture Series at Temple Emanuel, Ward street, Newton Centre. This Sunday evening, at 8:30 p.m., Senator Humphrey will speak on "America's Foreign Policy and Civil Rights" in the main Temple Auditorium.

Brilliant liberal and dynamic orator, the Senator has achieved national renown far above his modest years, for he is only 40 years old, a comparative youth when it comes to the Senate. It has been said of the Senator that "Hubert Humphrey, in a pace far outstripping that of nine out of 10 first-termers, has learned what it is to be a Senator. Add to that what the other nine do not have—the Humphrey mind and the Humphrey oratory—and Minnesota and the Democratic party are doing themselves proud here."

The same political analyst also said "Hubert Humphrey has not stopped being a liberal. Here, intense, brilliant and staccato, is a new voice, the voice of an ideology liberal, child of the depression and the dust bowl, apostle of the New Deal and millennium, a liberal with the oratorical gift that allowed him to rip the rafters from Philadelphia's Convention Hall in 1948."

As a young professor of political science, Hubert Humphrey was attracted to the more important work of improving the local government of his own city, Minneapolis. He was twice elected mayor—in 1945 and in 1948—by the largest plurality ever—and helped give Minneapolis the finest city government it had ever had. He was elected to the Senate in 1948 and in that same year he created the major stir at the Democratic National Convention when he led the fight to defeat the Southern version of the Civil Rights Plank. He not only led the battle to successfully defeat the Southern compromise, but he also succeeded in having the entire plank rewritten in the other, more liberal, direction.

Upon the founding of the Americans for Democratic Action, Humphrey was named national vice-chairman and subsequently became national chairman. He now serves as national vice-chairman. In 1948, he was elected to the United States Senate as the junior Senator from Minnesota. In the Senate, he is a member of the Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Department and the Select Committee on Small Business.

Be Careful Giving Pets For Christmas

Dr. Eric H. Hansen, President of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, 18 Longwood avenue, Boston, yesterday urged everyone to exercise due caution, before giving animal pets for Christmas gifts.

"Make sure, first of all," stated the Society official, "that the animal will have a good home and will receive the best of care. There should be one person in the household who is willing to take full responsibility for the animal's welfare so that he will have proper food and sleeping quarters. If it is a child, well and good, but nothing should be left to chance, for a youngster may promise faithfully to care for his new pet, and then turn to something else, thereby neglecting the animal. For this reason, an older person in the home should personally supervise the creature's care."

Dr. Hansen concluded with the statement that in giving a pet for Christmas, the donor should bear in mind that the recipient may not be familiar with the diet and habits of animals, and, therefore, full instructions for its care and treatment should accompany the gift pet. In this connection, the Society has offered to cooperate by furnishing free literature on the care and feeding of animals, which may be obtained by writing to Society headquarters.

Do You Know Massachusetts?

(Compiled by State Planning Board)

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . .

People are turning again to sea-shore towns of Massachusetts for year-around residence, a reversion to the movement of the first settlers, as shown by the migration trends between 1940 and 1950. . . . In that period the 15 Cape towns of Barnstable County had a net immigration of residents equal to 18.5 per cent of their 1940 population, eight shore towns between Boston and the canal averaged 15.9 per cent, six towns on Buzzards Bay 11.6 per cent and nine shore towns north of Boston averaged 8 per cent. . . . All but 3 of 38 mainland shore resort towns had a net increase of residents through migration. . . . Food prices in Massachusetts in November reached an all-time high level 110.7 per cent above the prewar average, 1935-1939, and 11.5 per cent higher than a year ago, as reported by the Division of Necessaries of Life. Total cost of living was 75.7 per cent above prewar and 7.4 per cent above November last year.

Massachusetts factory employment in October fell off 3.5 per cent and payrolls 1.2 per cent from the war boom level of a year ago, but average weekly earnings per worker increased $1.02, Dept. of Labor and Industries reports. . . . The eleven major industrial centers having highest weekly earnings per factory worker were West Springfield $81.38, Lynn $80.47, Beverly $75.68, Everett $75.43, Worcester $72.04, Quincy $68.55, Gardner $67.56, Pittsfield $67.35, Chicopee $67.06, Waltham and Fitchburg each $66.50. . . . The State Planning Board has undertaken a study to provide means by which the public can be assured of adequate facilities for ocean beach recreation.

Extra Service Ordered As Mail Rush Breaks Records

With reports in from most of the 94 post offices in the Boston Postal District showing tremendous mail receipts, Acting Postmaster Joseph P. W. Finn ordered postoffices in many communities to remain open one hour later in the evening for the acceptance of gift parcels and the sale of stamps. Saturday, December 15, an extra collection of mail from all street letter boxes in 25 cities and towns has been ordered at 2 p.m. in the afternoon with the regular collection scheduled for 6 p.m.

Sunday, December 16 there will be collections from all letter boxes at 4 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. and postal officials expect all of the boxes to be jammed with cards.

Acting Postmaster Finn asked householders to use the mailing forms which were placed in their mail receptacles by the letter carrier last week. This form provided that mailers would face all of their cards one way and that cards for delivery in their own locality be placed in one package with the appropriate label tied to the top of the package and all out-of-town cards be tied in packages with the proper label placed on top. These packages of cards should be deposited with the clerk at the local postoffice who will be enabled to process them promptly and to expedite the shipment of cards to distant destinations.

Based on the cards already on hand and the tons of parcels now pouring into the post office, the authorities make the following observations: (1) Persons should wrap the bundles with more paper and heavier string. They should insure them or register the articles if they are of a negotiable nature.

Red Cross Ready to Aid POW's When Agreement Can Be Reached

Despite the uncertainty of the status of American prisoners of war in Korea, the American Red Cross is continuing a program to provide prompt emergency foods and medicines to these prisoners if agreement on such help can be reached with the enemy.

This project, a traditional Red Cross service to prisoners of war, is being carried out in co-operation with the Defense Department.

The Red Cross has stressed that its objective is to be prepared with emergency supplies if agreement is reached in the present armistice talks or if arrangements should be completed through the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva.

Available for prisoners of war relief are approximately 2,000 standard prisoner of war packages which the Red Cross had previously shipped to Japan for immediate use should circumstances permit.

An additional 5,000 food packages were assembled by Red Cross volunteers and are now en route to Japan.

Approximately 4,000 special food parcels containing relatively large amounts of canned fruit juices and soups have been made available for those prisoners who may be ill or undernourished. These packages have been assembled and packed in Japan and are ready for distribution.

Fifteen medical kits each weighing 50 pounds also were packed by the Red Cross and are en route to Japan by air. These kits were designed to be used by a person who might have little or no knowledge of medicine.

A simply written booklet accompanying each kit explains how the various medicines and equipment are to be used. Contents of each range from simple remedies to surgical appliances. A fairly wide assortment of antibiotics is included.

The North Korean authorities holding American prisoners of war have not as yet provided entry for the International Red Cross Committee delegates into any of their prisoner of war camps, nor have they provided facilities that would enable the International Committee of the Red Cross to accept and forward relief supplies for American prisoners of war.

Arrangements relating to prisoners of war of both sides is the fourth point on the agenda of the current armistice talks in Korea and E. Roland Harriman, American Red Cross President, points out that the International Committee has tried repeatedly to get such an agreement with the enemy since shortly after the outbreak of the Korean conflict, but that efforts thus far have been futile.

Dr. J. F. Edwards, Editor, Author and Educator, Dies

Dr. James Fairbrother Edwards, for 31 years a Congregational Christian editor, author and educator in the Marathi Mission in western India under the American Board of Foreign Missions, Boston, died December 5, at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, at the age of 76.

Dr. Edwards retired from active service in 1945. For the past four years Dr. and Mrs. Edwards have resided at Barton House, Walker Missionary Homes, Auburndale.

The India career of Dr. Edwards began in 1908 under the English Wesleyan Methodist Mission. In 1914, he became associated with the American Board of Foreign Missions and in 1919 was appointed a full missionary.

During his last period of service in India, covering 10 years, Dr. Edwards was principal of the United Theological College of Western India, located at Poona. In 1945 he completed 30 years as English editor of Dnyanodaya, "Rise of Knowledge," a weekly union missionary newspaper which covers news of the religious, social and literary life of India. Since his retirement in the United States Dr. Edwards has continued to write weekly articles for the Dnyanodaya as the American Correspondent.

Dr. Edwards was the author of many volumes on Christian theology both in the Marathi and English languages. Because of his many years of work on the revision of the Marathi Bible, the British Foreign Bible Society elected Dr. Edwards an honorary life governor of the society.

Born in Bolton, England, Dr. Edwards was educated in the common schools and the Wesleyan Theological Institute, Birmingham, England. He took preparation for ministerial work at the Handsworth Theological Institute, Birmingham, England. He was ordained in Sheffield, England, in 1904.

STATE HOUSE, Boston — The next legislature will be asked to virtually force every newspaper in Massachusetts to print at either the top or end of every story the name of the writer in order to avoid lies.
Joseph P. Dionne of 18 Woodlawn street, Springfield has had a measure filed which would set a fine of $100 on newspapers and editorial department workers for printing statements affecting the character, reputation, honesty or ability of another person unless the true name of the person publishing the material or causing it to be published is printed, with the item.
In addition to the cash fine proposed in the bill the legislation would also impose a sentence in jail of not more than six months.

Prevent Fire Hazards
From Christmas Lights
For a happy holiday, make sure that your Christmas-tree lighting is confined to materials especially suited to such uses.
Only cords in good condition and with substantial protective coverings over the insulation should be used.
Avoid placing decorations in the immediate vicinity of lamps and fuses. Cotton tating or other highly flammable material is dangerous because of high temperature when touching incandescent lamp bulbs.
Tinsel and other metallic decorations frequently give rise to hazards by working their way into the live parts of the sockets.
Insulating washers around the base of the lamp serve to prevent this and should be retained when changing lamps.

in saving for a rainy day will find he's all wet. Buy U. S. Defense

Health For All
Diabetes
All human ills are more easily treated when they are discovered early. That is why the advice that everyone have a medical examination including a chest X-ray at least once a year cannot be repeated too often. With such regular checkups, diseases such as tuberculosis and diabetes would be more frequently detected in an early stage.
It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of people in this country have undetected diabetes. And diabetes which is allowed to progress untreated can ruin a person's health and cause serious attacks of unconsciousness, or coma, any one of which may result in sudden death.
On the other hand, a diabetic can keep his disease under control and give himself every chance of leading a long, useful life. Of course, medical treatment does not guarantee that a diabetic will never suffer from coma. But coma or unconsciousness need not take place if a patient is under the doctor's care and follows the doctor's orders.
Diabetes results when the pancreas fails to perform its function properly. In a well person, the pancreas provides a substance called insulin which helps the body convert the sugar content of the diet into the warmth and energy necessary for the body's existence. With diabetes, however, the sugar goes into the bloodstream or leaves the body in urine. The abnormal loss of sugar makes the diabetic hungry and thirsty, but despite his appetite, he is usually underweight because the body cannot benefit fully from the food eaten.
Although some children have diabetes, the disease usually develops between the ages of 40 and 60. While many people lose a great deal of weight once diabetes takes hold, the disease seems to strike most frequently among the overweight.
Basic in the treatment of diabetes is a regulated diet and, where necessary, injections of insulin (taken from the pancreas of healthy animals). The doctor will also advise the diabetic to take his exercise in moderation, because the needs of the body must be kept in balance. Since the diabetic has less resistance against infection than a well person, he should avoid as far as possible cuts and abrasions, particularly about the feet where gangrene is likely to develop. In addition to danger of external infection, there are indications that diabetics may be more vulnerable to serious chronic illnesses like tuberculosis than those who have never had diabetes.

Plan Forum On Banking For Women

Practical Course To Be Presented

Newton Savings Bank to Be Sponsor of Three Educational Meetings

The Newton Savings Bank is sponsoring a Forum on Finance for Women through the cooperation of the Presidents and officers of many of the clubs.

Realizing the obligations that a mutual savings bank owes to the community which it serves, Joseph Earl Perry, President of the Newton Savings Bank, has long sought a way in which the women of Newton could be brought a practical course on money management, since women own or control the major portion of the nation's wealth. As President of the Savings and Mortgage Division of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Perry has been following the success that Forums on Finance for Women were having wherever they had been held. The thought occurred that here was a good opportunity for the Newton Savings Bank to join forces with many of the prominent leaders of the women's clubs in the city.

At an informal meeting held at the Bank, in addition to Mr. Perry, were the following club presidents and officers: Mrs. John L. MacNeil, Newton Community Club; Mrs. Louis F. Bill-

Street Commissioner Is Authorized to Proceed

By a vote of 15 to 6 at its meeting Monday night, the Board of Aldermen authorized the Street Commissioner to enter into agreements for the installation of parking meters in four sections of the city and as a result, the meters are expected to be in operation by June 1.

At the same meeting, the Board turned down a motion of Alderman Leo M. Cannon to accept provisions of Chapter 32, Section 89A of the General Laws which would increase the pensions of dependents of police and firemen who die in the performance of their duties and extend the provisions of the act to all city employees. The vote was 18 to 3. Voting with Alderman Cannon for acceptance were Alderman Riley J. Hampton and Carlton P. Merrill.

Congressman John F. Kennedy will address the meeting of Newton Post 48, American Legion, which will be held in the War Memorial Building tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 o'clock.

Congressman Kennedy's recent journey to the troubled spots of the world, and his very candid observations of the conditions he encountered, has created a daily demand for his services as a speaker.

Industrial Building of Wild & Stevens, Inc., Is Opened

Manufacturers of All Types of Printing Rollers Begins Operations at Newton Upper Falls Location

Robert B. Arbuckle, president of Wild & Stevens, Inc., has announced that his firm took occupancy of their new building at 45 Industrial Place, Newton Upper Falls, Monday, according to a release from John B. Rubenstein, chairman of the New Business Committee of the Newton Chamber of Commerce.

The new plant, which is located in the city's industrial center, will house the country's most modern roller making plant, manufacturing a full line of printing machinery and supplies, as well as the company's research laboratory and main executive offices.

"Newton was chosen for the site of our new building after a year's study of the Greater Boston area," Mr. Arbuckle stated. "Its proximity to main highways and the more than cordial attitude of the city government were highly contributing factors in making our decision."

To relieve some of the pressure in their Boston plant, due to the company's rapid expansion and increased demand for its products, they sought a location near Boston where they could modernize their production line and have additional space for future expansion.

The new building was designed, constructed, and financed by Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, Inc., Industrial Consultants of Boston, and is being leased to Wild & Stevens on a long-term basis.

Wild & Stevens, Inc., established in 1859, has been supplying the printers of New England with "every type of roller a printer needs" for over 90 years; from small rollers for the basic hand press to those for giant five-color presses, as well as rollers for the paper box industry, private printing plants, and for the textile industry. Regardless of the process or size of press, four generations of printers have looked to Wild & Stevens for quality rollers.

Colby College Pays Honor to Dr. Cecil Clark

Delta Upsilon Fraternity Room Is Dedicated for His Untiring Efforts

An alumnus of Colby College and brother of Delta Upsilon, Dr. Cecil Whitehouse Clark, Colby 1905, of 363 Walnut street, Newtonville, has twice been honored this fall, first, by being selected as Colby's "Man of the Year", and second, by the dedication of a new fraternity chapter room in his name.

Dr. Clark was cited at the college's annual Homecoming weekend in November when he was presented with an honorary "C" for his years of devoted interest and service.

The first year of such an award, it will be made annually by the college's alumni council to an alumnus.

On hand to witness the ceremony and to participate in the dedication of the Delta Upsilon house on the college's new Mayflower Hill campus were Horace Nichol, past national president of DU and William Jones, national chairman of DU's undergraduate activities.

Dr. Clark has been an active supporter of his college and fraternity. He has served on Colby's Alumni Council, for several years as chairman; was a member of Colby's Board of Trustees; and was the principal founder of the Boston Colby Club.

He personally headed the campaign for funds for the new DU house, taking a summer off from his work to promote the program.

Undergraduates honored Dr. Clark by dedicating the new DU chapter room to him.

Santa Claus' Visit From North Pole Makes Children Happy

Chamber of Commerce And City Officials Call
At N. E. Peabody Home

Youngsters at the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children in Oak Hill were made very happy last Friday afternoon when Santa Claus paid them a visit through the efforts of President Wilfred Chagnon of the Newton Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, and other city officials and Roy S. Edwards and John Rubenstein, members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Through the courtesy of Esso Standard Oil Company, Santa left his home at the North Pole in the company's DC-4 plane, "The Atlas Sky Merchant" at 8 o'clock last Friday morning and arrived at the Boston airport at 2:45 o'clock that afternoon from where he proceeded to the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children in Oak Hill.

On his arrival here, Santa stated that he had had a pleasant trip down from the North Pole, which is a small community two miles up the Whiteface Mountain Memorial Highway in the Adirondacks and situated in a deeply wooded glen with a tumbling mountain stream.

His home town consists of ten picturesque log buildings all done in a fairyland style with steeply pitched roofs. There are three workshops, post office, Santa's house, a chapel, barn, blacksmith shop, Mother Hubbard's and Santa's Show House. On one of the workshops is an

Urges Early Action on Grove Street Access Road, Lower Falls

Nearly 200 residents of Newton Lower Falls met at St. Mary's Church Monday evening to discuss the effect of the industrial rezoning of land near Grove street on the residential community.

Alderman Harold Buse outlined the contemplated changes, including the plans of the Riverside Sand and Gravel Company, S. S. Pierce Co. and Jordan Marsh. He pointed out that the principal concern of the community was the probability of increased truck traffic on Grove street in the path of children going to the Hamilton School. This would be alleviated if the city builds an access road direct to the industrial area from Washington street along the Highland Branch tracks through Woodland.

The association voted unanimously to send a resolution to the mayor urging that the "Access Road" be built before the truck traffic from the new ware houses could become a hazard to lives and safety of the children. It was also voted to send a communication to the Massachusetts Commission of Public Works expressing the community's opposition to any plan of construction

Would Allow Local Govt.'s To Be Judge

ABC Controversies Emphasizes Need
For Legislation

More home rule for Massachusetts cities and towns is provided in a bill for a constitutional amendment recently filed by the Taxpayers' Federation as part of their continuing fight for more local autonomy, reported Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., Executive Director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, this week.

The current controversy between the state Alcoholic Beverages Commission and various municipal licensing boards emphasizes the importance of this kind of legislation, stated Muther. The Federation's bill, filed before the present flare-up, is but one more step in the Taxpayers' campaign for more local authority and the text of the proposal is printed below.

The Taxpayers' home rule program in 1951 has already resulted in the enactment of several similar healthy beginnings, asserted Muther as he noted the new laws granting to cities and towns the right to change the use for which city owned land was originally taken (except for parks), the extension of the time for which regular contracts can be let, the extending of authority under the appropriating law to cover any corporate purpose instead of being limited to those purposes spelled out in Section 5 of Chapter 40 of the General Laws, and the elimination of Commissioner Long's heretofore assumed authority to tell municipalities for what purposes they could use their own surplus.

It is hoped that all citizens will let their representatives know clearly that the Taxpayers' home rule bill should have their support, concluded Muther.

The text of the Taxpayers' home rule proposal is as follows: No law shall be passed by the general court which affects in

Newton Highlands Garden Club Holds Xmas Party at Home of Mrs. Alvord

The Newton Highlands Garden Club held its Christmas Party at an advanced date, Wednesday evening, the twelfth, at the home of the president, Mrs. Leonard Alvord, 44 Chatham road.

A delicious dinner was provided by a committee of members under the supervision of Mrs. James F. Cooper, after which beautiful colored pictures were shown of western state and Canadian parks, mountains and beauty spots.

Christmas presents were exchanged.

Mrs. Leonard T. Jenney reported progress on the beautification of the new library project, stating that five hundred bulbs had been planted with the help of a city gardener under the supervision of Miss Mary R. Stark, a former president. These should make a blaze of color in front of the library next spring.

A group of members headed by Mrs. W. E. Leidner are working on Christmas wreaths and decorations for the Veteran's Hospital in Brighton. Another group led by Mrs. W. B. Fogg have been helping on garden and decorative work at the Jackson Homestead, which is coming to look as it did over a century ago.

Good Attendance Despite Weather

Despite the weather and driving hazards, about 80 young people attended the Sunday night meeting of the South Middlesex Federation of American Unitarian Youth, held at the West Newton Unitarian Church parish house. Besides the Jaynes League, hosts of the West Newton branch, groups were present from Belmont, Melrose, Medford, Waltham, Winchester, Framingham, Wellesley and Lexington.

Rev. John Ogden Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carroll, local group sponsors, prepared supper for the entire group.

The program included a business meeting, with Don Hoffman of the First Parish Church of Waltham, presiding, and a worship service led by Winslow Tisdell of the West Newton church.

For entertainment there was square dancing with Bob Brown of Northeastern University as caller.

The next meeting of South Middlesex Federation, A.U.Y., will be held Sunday evening, January 6, at the Belmont Unitarian Church.

Members Enjoy Musical Program

Last Friday in the Second Church Parish House West Newton, the West Newton Women's Educational Club held a most enjoyable musical program. Dessert was served at 1 p. m. by the Hospitality Committee. Mrs. George Smith was hostess with Mrs. William DeMelle as co-hostess. The pourers at the tea and coffee tables were Mrs. Ernest Dockstadter, Mrs. Maxwell Gaddis, and Mrs. W. W. Edwards. Mrs. Albert Roberts had charge of the decorations with the Arts Committee. Christmas scenes, lights, angels, and a beautiful Nativity Scene gave a festive atmosphere to the meeting.

Mrs. Donald Moody presided over the business meeting which started at 2 p. m. following the dessert and tea hour held in the Ladies Parlor. Mrs. Sidney Williamson, Program Chairman, introduced the artists of the afternoon, Murielle Halle, soprano, and Dane Lordly, pianist. Miss Halle was young and charming and rendered her selections with artistry and talent. Mr. Lordly was a young man with much talent and gave his version of several classics which were well received by the audience. The artists ended their program with Christmas carols fitting for the Christmas Season.

Neil Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Rice of 5 Lorna road, Newton Centre, has returned home from the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents. Neil, a junior at Loomis, is a member of the Student Council and the Student Endowment Fund.

To Observe 95th Birthday Sunday

Grand old man of Newton is Mr. John Podmore, who will celebrate his 95th birthday this Sunday, December 23. He resides with his daughter, Mrs. George Toney, at 20 Braemore road, Newton.

"Jack" as he is lovingly called by his friends, was born in Birmingham, England, December 23, 1856. There were five boys and three girls in his family; one sister, Gertrude, is now living in England, aged 85 years.

He came to America in 1886 and settled in Waltham, Mass., where his friend, George Toney, had located. In 1895 he married Adeline M. Sanderson of Weston. They had two children, a boy, Edmund Potter Podmore who died in infancy, and a daughter, Gertrude. (Mrs. Podmore passed away 18 months ago.) Mr. Podmore was an expert bookbinder and worked at his trade in Boston until the age of 77 years. He is now a superannuated member of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, Local No. 16 of Boston. Formerly a resident of Waltham, he has made Newton his home for the past 15 years.

For a man of his age, he is exceptionally keen-minded, interested in all current events. He is a daily reader of several papers; has his favorite radio programs and when the weather is good, takes a short walk. He is an American citizen and keenly interested in politics. Until this last election he never missed a time of going to the polls.

As a young man he belonged to the Waltham Bicycle Club and the old Waltham Canoe Club. He remembers many interesting events over the long span of years.

No special celebration is planned for his birthday, which he will spend quietly with relatives and friends, who hope he will live to be 100.

Couples Club to Hold Festival

A new medium of entertainment will be reached when Temple Emanuel Couples Club presents a Hanukkah festival in the form of a fashion show on board the S.S. Hanukkah, Sunday, at 9 p. m., Temple Emanuel Vestry.

The Temple Emanuel Couples Club men, as well as the women, will model cruise wear with clothes and furs by the courtesy of Morton's and the Men's sport jackets and coats by courtesy of Louis of Boston.

Gene Dennis and his orchestra will be aboard ship to provide music for dancing. Surprise guest entertainers and refreshments will climax the evening.

Newton Highlands

Mrs. Harold Sheehan of 37 Oak terrace, Newton Highlands, entertained twelve members of the Wollaston Garden Club with kodachrome slides of Colorado and New England scenes, including many well known garden pictures. Mrs. Mortimer M. Harris spoke on lilies as grown by Jan de Graaff, the internationally known lily hybridizer. This was illustrated with slides from Mr. de Graaff. The lily, Helen Carroll, was named for Mrs. Harris several years ago. Mrs. Francis Vann was pourer at the coffee hour.

Landscapes in Oil Being Exhibited

Landscapes in oil by Alice Weed of Wellesley are now being exhibited in the Newton Highlands Branch Library.

Mrs. Weed is a painter of New England scenes, particularly the farms and mountain slopes of New Hampshire and Vermont where she spends much of her time. Her paintings include views in the Sandwich and Monadnock region of New Hampshire, Southern Vermont, and several Rockport marines.

She is a member of various Art Associations and is among those represented in the present exhibition at the Copley Society of Boston and the Sharon Arts Center in Sharon, New Hampshire. Her last Newton Exhibition was in the Claihome Galleries in 1949.

The Library is open Monday through Friday from 1:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. and 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. and on Saturday from 1:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m.

Residents Urged To Contribute

With only two weeks to go in the current Massachusetts campaign for the Crusade for Freedom, residents of the Bay State were urged to contribute and enroll in the Crusade before the Christmas holidays by Commissioner of Labor and Industries John J. Del Monte, State Chairman.

"While we are free to enjoy the holidays with our families and friends, the people behind the Iron Curtain live in constant fear and have no hope of celebrating or even observing Christmas," Commissioner Del Monte said.

"If we reach our quota of $151,375 in funds and 965,000 enrollments by Christmas, this state will be giving a Christmas present to those people they will never forget," he continued. The funds go directly to the construction of 2 more Radio Free Europe stations and a Radio Free Asia station.

"With the construction of these stations, we will be able to enlarge our already effective freedom voice. We are fighting for our very survival and through Radio Free Europe, the Crusade for Freedom is playing a vital part in the fight for freedom."

"While we enjoy Christmas here, let us give people who are not so fortunate a hope that they, too, will be able to observe Christmas in the future when world communism is halted."

Contributions should be sent to State Headquarters of the Massachusetts Crusade for Freedom, 585 Boylston street, Boston 16.

Inspiring Christmas Message Is Given

Cram, then an inspiring Christmas message, "Long Ago Is Now," by Mrs. James Kingsland Romeyn was given. Mrs. Romeyn is a minister's wife and a moving speaker.

The coffee hour was in charge of Mrs. Warren Ames and Miss Eleanor P. Hall.

A Thought to Remember

"Hark the Herald Angels sing," voices will proclaim at Christmas, here at home. But more and more, voices throughout the world are silenced as Communists run the gamut of greed; not only voices muffled by the Iron Curtain, but those that are under fire, the voices of your loved ones and mine, whose temporary silence means life.

Let those of us whose hearts, minds, and souls are blessed with liberty, raise our voices in mighty song this Yuletide, that the echoes may give strength to those all over the world, whose songs must be kept wholly in the heart this year. Let us remember that our voices are free to praise God, each in his own way, because of the efforts of many who have gone before us; many who have paid a dear price, that we may live in a free country.

Drums of Victory resound resonantly in my heart of hearts

*In my soul a fighting spirit boldly flames
My mind, undaunted by gallant struggles seemingly fought in vain—*

Perceives its ultimate goal, Unbowed, my head proudly is held high

*I am an American!
Though about me, in a world of terrible turmoil
Humans are broken, beaten into submission, Weakened, and brought cringing to their knees;*

*Though Kings are levelled to beggars, and Tyrannical fiends sweep away life's beauties
With the gaudy hand of death;*

*Though humans, weak in their ignorance—
Are caught up in a tidal wave of brutality and blind destruction*

*I am Free!
I am free because I am an American
I am an American because I am free*

*To fight and die for, to cherish and love That liberty so dearly bled for,
The liberty that pledges the everlasting light of an America*

*The liberty that is America!
With the blessings of Him as my shield Against the thunder and lightning of the merciless war gods*

Guided by the light of the brilliant torch Flaming on through Bunker Hill and Flanders Field

I may boldly and confidently challenge my adversaries Instilled in me is the might of a million men Who have fought and died for my precious rights;

*Surgings, throbbings, plunging through my veins
Is the hope of liberty lovers all over the Universe—*

I am an American!

If You Must

If you must shovel snow, don't fight it, take it easy.

According to doctor-members of the Massachusetts Heart Association, people who are not used to hard physical labor, as well as those who have heart disease or a tendency toward it, should approach that white fluffy-looking stuff with respect.

Here's what happens when the snow-shoveler lets his emotions get involved in his work.

The snow that looks light and fluffy turns out to be heavy and sticky. That annoys the shoveler and he begins to fight the snow. He'd have some chance of surviving the ordeal even now if he'd go in the house at short intervals to warm up and rest. But no, he keeps going until he is overtired.

Then he gets irritated because his neighbor (who is probably in excellent physical condition and thirty years younger) is making greater headway than he is. Pretty soon he is forcing himself beyond his heart's ability to take it. That's when it becomes a toss up as to whether he will finish the job or the job will finish him.

There are sound medical reasons for this warning.

The doctors say that exposure to cold is one of the sure ways of producing constriction of the blood vessels. When this happens, it not only cuts down the circulation but also increases the blood pressure. They urge a slow, easy relaxed approach to the job of shoveling snow.

Current Comment

Tax Scandals Worry Democratic Leaders . . .

Pension for Judges Miles Extremely Unfair Democratic leaders throughout the country are becoming increasingly worried over the impact upon the public of the disclosures of corruption in the government, and their concern was not diminished by President Truman's attitude at his press conference when he discussed the matter.

man's attitude at his press conference when he discussed the matter.

Mr. Truman made plain his anger with high officials who have betrayed the trust imposed in them, but he evidently was even angrier with the newspaper reporters who asked him pointed questions and with the congressional committee which have exposed scandals.

The Democratic politicians are prophesying sturdily that when the President gets through cleaning up the tax scandals, they will not be a damaging issue upon their party in next year's campaign. But they are beginning to assume the attitude of a small boy whistling to keep up his courage.

There is a growing impression that a vast number of women voters, who don't have mink coats themselves, are not likely to be easily talked out of their wrathful indignation over the manner in which the wives of some Washington officials got their minks.

Persons who are being hard hit by high taxes also may not easily shake off the stunning effect of the revelations of allegation, dishonesty and wrongdoing by the men vested with the responsibility for collecting the taxes.

President Truman obviously can't be held accountable for the honesty and integrity of all the men and women in the government, and in some instances he has moved swiftly and with despatch to clean up unsavory conditions.

But he can injure both his own standing with the people as well as the cause of the Democratic party and its hopes for 1952 by assuming a defensive attitude toward the scandals.

Some of the conflicting statements from Washington must make a great many people shake their heads in wonderment.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath declared recently that he still did not know the reason why President Truman fired T. Lamar Caudle from his position as head of the criminal division in the Department of Justice. Well, it's pretty nearly time that he found out since he presumably could obtain the information by asking the boss.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder testified in October that as long ago as August of last year he asked the St. Louis Collector of Internal Revenue, James J. Finnegan, to resign. Finnegan testified before a congressional subcommittee that he had declined to do so at President Truman's suggestion.

Mr. Truman, in turn, indicated at his press conference last week that he had made no such suggestion. He told reporters that it was difficult to get Finnegan's resignation.

It's as difficult to reconcile some of those statements as it is to assume that President Truman knew of irregular activities by Caudle but that Attorney General McGrath didn't.

Some of the persons high in the Massachusetts branch of Senator Robert A. Taft's campaign are intimating that Senator Leverett Saltonstall regrets that he has become involved in the battle for control of the Bay State's delegation to the 1952 Republican national convention.

Saltonstall probably will be blocked in his quest for promotion to a higher place in the Republican councils of the Senate as a result of his support of General Eisenhower, and it may well be that his own personal ambitions will suffer as a result of the role he has assumed in striving to stem the Taft drive here.

Whether that is the reason the Taft backers believe the senior Massachusetts Senator is not particularly happy over the position in which he finds himself, is not known. Saltonstall is usually a very conservative gentleman when it comes to politics, and probably wishes he had held his silence a little longer concerning the Presidential delegate fight.

Judge Miles' Pension Stirs Controversy

The controversy stirred up over the unusual case of Judge Frankland W. L. Miles of Newton, who for the past 13 years has been the presiding justice of the Roxbury district court, is an unusual one, indeed.

During its past session the State Legislature boosted Judge Miles' pay from $6600 to $9900 a year, established a new judgeship and wrote into the law a provision that the judges in the Roxbury court could not practice law on the side.

Judge Miles sought unsuccessfully to block the passage of the law, and some political observers take the view that its adoption was an attempt by the Dever administration to force Miles off the bench.

When the law was enacted and Miles found that his income was suffering, since the income he would lose if he abandoned his law practice was substantially greater than the $3300-a-year raise given him, he decided to retire from the bench.

A sharp dispute ensued when it developed that in retiring Judge Miles, Governor Dever and the Executive Council voted him a $7425-a-year pension, and the officials at Boston City Hall all but swooned from the shock when they learned that they were expected to pay the pension.

There is real ground for the argument over the fact that Miles, if the matter stands unchanged, will get more money from his pension check than he did for presiding over the Roxbury court when he was allowed to practice law on the side.

That seems to be pretty silly and ridiculous. However, it is an example of the extreme lengths to which provisions in the retirement law are being operated to allow some persons to retire on a fat pension for the rest of their lives at the expense of the taxpayers.

Ordinary employees work for years, pay four or five per cent of their salaries into a retirement fund each week and then at the end of 35 or 40 years retire on a modest pension, part of which they themselves have provided.

Out in St. Louis a loading zone permit was obtained for the Central Casket Co., by a agent named H. S. Coffin.

FRANKINCENSE and MYRRH

By VIRGINIA D. RANDALL

We all know that the Wise Men from the East brought several treasures for the new born Babe, of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. We are familiar with gold, but what are frankincense and myrrh, and why were they so valuable that the Wise Men brought them so far?

Frankincense is a fragrant gum resin which contains an oil which burns readily, and which sends forth a spicy odor. This was used in a special incense for sacred religious ceremonies. Moses was told by the Lord to mix frankincense with other spices to make a perfume, and then put this in the tabernacle. This was a specific incense used only for that service. If anyone made any like it for his personal use after the service, the Lord threatened that the culprit would be cut off from his own people! (Exodus XXX: 34-35).

In the Song of Solomon V:14, Solomon sings with delight about all the "trees of frankincense" in his garden, but in the days of Jesus, frankincense was very scarce as it came only from various trees in Eastern India and Arabia. The Egyptians and other peoples of those early ages used it in embalming and for fumigating. It is still the most important resin used in making incense today, although modern science has found that the Norway Spruce tree has a gummy substance which is something like it.

Myrrh is also a yellowish brown gum resin which comes from a shrub. It has a bitter taste with a slight bite to it. It comes from some distance away from Palestine, from Somaliland and Abyssinia in Africa. In the New Testament days it was brought from Arabian cities many days' travel away.

Myrrh had many uses. Solomon talked of "sweet smelling myrrh". (Song of Solomon V:5). Mixed with another drug, labdanum, it made an astringent tonic which the ladies used, and also doubled as an external cleansing agent for more lovely skin. It was also used in fumigating, for perfumes, and for preparing the dead for burial. The Romans mixed it in wine so that they could drink more wine, and become less intoxicated with the wine. In Mark XV:23 we read where wine was mingled with myrrh and offered to Jesus before He was put upon the cross, so as to deaden the pain of the crucifixion. But He refused this opiate.

The Lord told Moses earlier to take 500 shekels of pure myrrh and combine it with several other spices to make an oil of holy ointment, which were to be used in special consecrating exercises. (Exodus XXX: 23-30).

Today we get our myrrh from South East Arabia by cutting a slit in the bark of the shrub, something like we do to the rubber trees, and as the gum resin flows out, it quickly becomes hard and is collected. Probably when the Old Testament mentioned myrrh they were talking about a species called Mecca Balsam, which was highly prized for its aromatic properties. Perhaps the same species of this balsam tree, or a distant cousin, grows in our gardens here, and the "balsam pillows" which we gather and send to our friends who have no access to its tangy fragrance, are just like the trees that Solomon sang about so many years before!

News In Brief

Injuries Prove Fatal. Francis J. Barnes of 64 Cherry street, West Newton, fire department hoseman attached to Engine 3, Newton Centre, died Monday night at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital from injuries suffered when his car struck a tree on December 2. He had been on the danger list since the time of the accident. Barnes was returning to Station 3 from a Civil Defense operation at the time of the accident on Lowell avenue, Newtonville. He never recovered sufficiently to give details concerning the cause of the accident.

$745,000 Appropriated. The Board of Aldermen at its meeting Monday night approved an appropriation of $745,000 for the proposed Countryside School on Dedham street, Newton Highlands. The appropriation was approved after passage of an order authorizing a Public Building bond issue of $750,000. The new school will contain 12 class rooms, an all purpose room and an auditorium. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by September, 1952.

Newtonville Man Drops Dead. Frank W. Bishop, 82-year-old Newtonville man, collapsed in Newtonville square Tuesday morning and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He lived at 77 Court street.

Proposals Denied. At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night, four requests for zoning changes and a request for off-street parking for a new super market, were denied. The Board approved off street parking in a Newtonville lot and granted four variances of the Zoning Ordinance during its session.

Land Taking Move Defeated. Proponents of a recommendation that land be taken on Watertown and Adams streets, Nonantum, for a branch library were defeated by a single vote at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night when 13 out of 21 members voted for the taking of the land by eminent domain, despite strong pleas for the project. The 13 to 8 vote for the taking was ruled insufficient to approve the project after City Solicitor Matt B. Jones reported that a two-thirds vote is required for the taking of land by eminent domain.

CAMP PICKETT, Va.—Robert L. Sokolsky, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sokolsky of 38 Ellison road, Newton Centre, has been promoted to the rank of Corporal. Camp Pickett officials announced today.

Sokolsky is currently assigned to Headquarters Company, 2114th Area Service Unit on this post and is an Information Specialist in the Post Public Information Office. He is a graduate of Syracuse University, getting his degree from the School of Journalism in 1950.

Prior to his induction into the Army last year, Sokolsky was a reporter for the Springfield Union of Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Vincent A. Roberts of Newton, was chairman of the annual Communion Breakfast of the St. Joseph's School alumni, which was held last Sunday at the Hotel Bradford, Boston.

Tuesday, the Executive Board of the Girl Scouts met, as is customary, at the Newton Highlands Library.

An Honor None Of Us Wants

Letters

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Will you please use these facts as a "Letter to the Editor" or whatever such a column merits?

Your article of Dec. 13 is misleading to the citizens of Newton, pertaining to my bill filed in the Massachusetts Legislature regarding the preferential system of voting in Newton.

Correcting your article: Under the present preferential system, if no candidate receives more than half of all votes cast, second and third choices are counted.

Proof of the fallacy and the falsity of such was proven by my recount of the recent Ward 2 ballots, directed and counted by Newton's board of registrars, including the city clerk.

For your information and your readers the two and three count under Newton's system of preferential voting are counted as a total vote.

Far be it that I should be a disappointed office seeker. Rather, in my entire sports program through a score of years I believe in fair play. It goes in Newton politics as well. May the best man win.

POSTAGE RATES

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Please may I extend my most sincere appreciation for the splendid cooperation given to the Post Office Department and to me through your news columns in the development of early Christmas mails. While we have a terrific task ahead of us, without further storms and deposits of mail not later than tomorrow, we shall see it through with success.

As you know, many postage rates and fees will be increased on January 1. These are of the utmost importance to all of the people. I am enclosing a copy of this schedule of changes for your information and for such use as you may care to put it to.

The most complicated part of these changes is that with respect to the weight and size changes of first-class and parcel post matter (surface). Air weights and sizes do not change. In order for mailers of 20 pound packages to affix postage after January 1, it is essential that they have some means of knowing whether their addresses are within first-class postal districts. This can only be obtained for use within their own office by obtaining a new booklet recently compiled by the Post Office Department for this purpose. It is to be sold only by the Superintendent of Documents at Washington at a cost of 25 cents each. They are not to be sold by the Department.

Since it is expected that there will be a big demand for them and because the time between now and January 1 is limited, we are making every effort to acquaint parcel post mailers with these changes in weights and sizes and to urge them to procure a copy of this book without delay.

Please be assured that your assistance in this matter will be helpful to all concerned.

JOSEPH P. W. FINN,

Acting Postmaster

December is a month of early darkness, poor visibility and stormy weather. Keep your windshield clean so you can see danger ahead.

—Wading? Or in for a swim?

To A Lover

You held my hand and led me through the hollow halls of life
We listened to the walls resound and echo nature's strife

You gently brought me to the door that promised of the sun
And patiently explained the light of day when night was done

You showed me then the twilight how the dusk soft shades the day
And how the purple mist of night persists and has its way

You coaxed me then to watch the days of light from moonlight pale
And taught me why the stars are part of every fairy tale

You showed me next the billows of a wild and stormy sea
Its passions driven leeward by the wind, profuse and free

You led me then across the hall to taste of sweeter things
Of tropic bowers, bees and flowers, birds with gaudy wings

You knew then I was ready for the message of the dove
And footsteps echoed to the whirling, swirling pool of love.

Newton Sextet Tied for First Place on 3-1 Win Over Medford High Six

Still in the undefeated, untied ranks of the G.B.I. League for the second week, Newton High will try for its third straight victory this Saturday against twice-beaten Rindge Tech in a third ice encounter at the Boston Garden.

The Tigers picked up their second triumph last Saturday afternoon by edging Medford High, 3 to 1, on goals authored by Joe Salvia, Don Thompson, winner of "The Player of the Week" award two weeks ago, and the final lamplighter by Don Fox.

Getting off to a fast two-point lead after six minutes of the first period, Newton tallied the last goal in the second stanza, followed by the Mustangs' lone score minutes later.

Rindge should be no problem to the Orange skaters, who are now tied for first place with Stoneham High. Losses to Belmont (6-0) and Stoneham (8-1) have placed Rindge down among the second division sextets for this season. Newton has got off to a good start with wins over Cambridge Latin two weeks ago and last week's easy decision.

With the game only two minutes old, Salvia, the Oranges' left wing, took possession of the puck off the left side and rammed a hard shot from the 25-foot mark. The disc hit the goalie's stick and was deflected into the net for Newton's initial tally.

Thompson also did a solo for the home team's second lamplighter, lifting a 30-footer from a deep right angle position to catch the back side of the cage at the 5:30 mark.

Center Don Fox entered the scoring column in the second period when he sliced a shot between the goalie's legs to make it 3-0. Fox's goal was tallied after six minutes of the middle stanza. Medford's only netter was the result of Jack Geary's screen shot from about 25 feet. Goalie Pete Rigby, getting ample protection from defensemen Thompson and Voner, could not see the puck because of the scramble in front of the cage. The summary:

Community Carol Service to Be Held Saturday

For the second successive year, a community carol service and pageant will take place on Christmas Sunday, December 23, at the West Newton Unitarian Church. Rev. John Ogden Fisher, minister of the First Unitarian Society in Newton, extends a cordial invitation to neighboring churches and the people of Newton to attend this community service at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Kenneth Mitchell, director of religious education, and Mrs. David N. Hume, are directing the pageant, "Why the Chimes Rang," to be presented by the church school at this community service.

Mrs. Charles H. Abrams, Jr. is in charge of costumes.

Three choirs will participate in the pageant and carol singing — the primary church school choir directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Sweetser; the junior choir, trained by Rev. John O. Fisher; and the regular church choir, directed by Organist William Ellis Weston.

With Robert Hill as narrator, the cast of "Why the Chimes Rang" includes William Curry as Pedro; Richard Skinner, as Little Brother; Nathan Cobb and Peter Wayne as two merchants; Susan Wayne, as a wealthy woman; David Dye as a writer; Jonathan Alexander as a king; and David Ellis as a minister.

For Sunday morning's Family Sunday, a special part of the service will be devoted to the church school, attending in a body. Mr. Fisher will tell the children an old southern "Christmas Gift" story. The Junior Choir, directed by the minister, will sing an anthem, "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head." This is a traditional carol originating in the Southern Appalachian Mountains.

There will be special Christmas music and carols by the senior choir, with William Ellis Weston at the console. "Birth of Christianity" will be Mr. Fisher's sermon topic.

Second Period — Fox, 6:00; Geary (Wall, McKinnon), 8:17.

Newton Hoopsters Bow to Medford, 52-43, in Opener

Newton High opened its 1950-51 basketball season last week and suffered its first Suburban Basketball League loss at the hands of a tall and experienced Medford High quintet, 52 to 43, at the Newton High gym.

Coach Reggie Smith has put together a team consisting of three veterans of last year's squad, but the Tigers were no match for the height that Medford sported.

The Mustangs' 6-2 forward, Ronnie Cavanaugh, tossed in a total of 22 points to lead his club to its first league victory, while top scorer for the Orange was forward Don Magaw, a first stringer last year. Other returning hoopsters are center Fred Dauten and forward John Kreider.

Newton held a 15-9 advantage after the first quarter, when the Orange rang up a scoring string of 12 points. But the sharpness and deadly accuracy of Cavanaugh caught up with the home team and in the second quarter the lead shifted to the Mustangs. At the half, Medford held a 28-24 edge.

Following the third quarter that saw Medford pull away to a fat 41-30 margin, Newton came close to closing the gap with Dauten swishing in five points while forward Charlie Kotsaftis and Magaw hit for two more.

Four minutes remained in the game with Newton trailing by only two digits. But the driving power of Magaw, Dauten and left guard Don Dunbar wilted as Cavanaugh and Lorne Thomas, second for the Mustangs with 15 points, came alive and put the game on ice.

On the same bill, the Medford Jayvees downed the Newton Jayvees, 56 to 35, to make it a complete victory day for the Mustangs. The summary:

Raytheon Takes on Additional Space

A one-story brick building, under construction on Seyon street, Waltham, has been leased by the New England Industrial Trust, Boston, to the Raytheon Manufacturing Company.

The new building, which will provide 50,000 square feet of space on a tract of 100,000 square feet, will increase Raytheon's employment rolls by approximately 400 workers. Scheduled for completion early in May, the structure will be used to accommodate sections of Raytheon's expanding research, engineering, and manufacturing divisions, supplementing other Raytheon plants in the New England area, which already total 1,500,000 square feet. Adequate parking facilities will be provided on property adjacent to the building.

Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, Inc., were agents for the Industrial Trust.

Newton YMCA Chess Club Enlarges Its Library

The Newton Y Chess Club has recently purchased a Globe Wernicke book case, fitted with glass doors and locks for its nearly sixty chess books. Thirty new chess books have just been received, from the leading publishers of chess books in the U. S. A. and written by our leading masters of the chess board both in this country and abroad. They contain the actual games of the best players with annotations by our leading masters. There are books on the Openings, the Middle Game, Endings, Chess Strategy, Chess Traps, Chess Sacrifices, Positional Play, and the History of Chess, and of its famous and best players.

D. Leighton Ordway of the Chess Club, has been chairman of a special committee to select and purchase the books. He has taken unusual interest in the library. He has had a special book label printed and attached to each book, and has classified and catalogued each book for the club. We expect that he will continue to serve as librarian. Mr. Ordway is a graduate of M. I. T.

When Mrs. Forgie, Guidance Director of Weeks Jr. High called the Y for some one to help and give instruction in chess to a group of boys, Mr. Ordway volunteered. He is assisted in this work by two young enthusiasts, Carl Canner and Thomas Gochberg. The Y has gladly furnished chess boards and chess sets for this new undertaking.

Last week in the Metropolitan Chess League, Class A, the Lynn Club forfeited to the Newton Y Intruders, and in Class B, Boston University forfeited to the Gambiteers Y.

There will be no chess matches during the holidays. On Friday, Jan. 11th in Class A, Newton Y Intruders play Harvard University at the Newton Y. In Class B, Boston College No. 2 plays the Commonwealth Y at the New-

Parcel Post and First Class Mail, Weight and Size Changes January 1

While surface parcel post rates which became effective last October first will continue in 1952, Acting Postmaster Joseph P. W. Finn advised that first class mail and parcel post size and weight limits will be reduced when mailed from first-class postoffices and addressed for delivery within first-class postal districts. The size limit will be reduced to 72 inches (length and girth combined) and weight limit to 40 pounds when mailed at first-class postoffices and addressed for delivery at postoffices within the local, first and second zones. Packages mailed from first-class offices to similar first-class offices in zones 3 to 8 will be restricted to 20 pounds in weight. The present size and weight limit (70 lbs. in weight and 100 inches in length and girth combined) will apply to all parcels mailed at or addressed to postoffices of the second, third or fourth-class. The 70 pound limit will also apply to parcels mailed on any rural or star route from a first-class office, or addressed for delivery on any such route emanating from a first-class postoffice.

Also exempt from the weight reductions are packages containing baby fowl, live plants, trees, shrubs or agricultural commodities (not including manufactured products thereof; books, permanently bound for preservation, consisting wholly of reading matter or reading matter with incidental blank spaces for students' notations and containing no advertising matter; packages mailed in the U. S. for delivery by any Army or Fleet Post Office. In order that parcel post mailers may ascertain the list of first-class postoffices, the Post Office Department has compiled a booklet entitled, "First-Class Post Offices with Named Stations and Branches." This publication will be offered for sale at a price of 25 cents each by writing to the Supt. of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. Patrons desiring copies of the book should send their remittance and order direct to that office.

Open East Boston Rapid Transit Extension Jan. 5

The Metropolitan Transit Authority area who wish to go to the East Boston, Chelsea, Revere and northern sections of metropolitan Boston.

First authorized by the Legislature in 1945 to go as far as Day square and by the succeeding Legislature to go to Orient Heights, this extension is about 2½ miles in length, of which about two-fifths of a mile is underground between Maverick station and the incline to Airport station, and about one-quarter of a mile is also underground between Prescott street and Neptune road. The balance is on the surface, using the former Narrow Gauge from Moore street to Orient Heights.

Work on this extension was started in May, 1947. Construction was by the former Transit Department of the City of Boston until August 3, 1949, when the functions of that department were transferred to the M. T. A.

The new line will have three important stations—Airport, Day Square and Orient Heights—Airport 10 minutes from Park street station, Day Square 13 minutes and Orient Heights 15 minutes.

For the rapid transit service, 40 new cars, streamlined inside and out, three inches higher and 15 inches longer than the present cars, are ready for use. The 48 existing cars are being modernized and equipped with new motors and will be able to keep pace with the new cars. Of these older cars, work on 24 will be completed in time for the opening.

The people of the northeastern area will have the benefit not only of the extended rapid transit line, but also better surface service because of the conversion of all surface car lines, which formerly fed into Maverick station, to trackless trolley or bus lines routed to Orient Heights, Day Square or Airport stations.

The commuters to and from the Logan International Airport will have a service between it and central Boston which will make the airport the most accessible in any metropolitan area throughout the nation. Adding to the 10 minutes to go from Park street station to Airport station an average of 10 minutes for transfer time and the bus trip to the Airport, most commuters to the Airport can look forward to a 20-minute trip from the center of Boston.

Two free M.T.A. parking areas will be opened, one adjacent to Day Square station with a capacity of 340 automobiles and the other adjacent to Orient Heights station with a capacity of 200 automobiles.

Announce Purpose of Legislation To Open Public Welfare Rolls

To drive chiselers, professional mendicants and the politically-favored from the relief rolls of the Commonwealth is the purpose of legislation to open welfare rolls to inspection sponsored by the Taxpayers Federation and filed for consideration by the 1952 Legislature, it was announced this week.

"Our proposal aims to end the blackout that has enveloped the secret welfare State in Massachusetts for the past decade," Norman MacDonald, Federation executive director, declared.

"This is no witch-hunt," he said. "It is a sincere attempt to strike a reasonable balance between the rights of the worthy welfare recipient who is entitled to protection from needless embarrassment, and the rights of the taxpayer who is entitled to protection from the costly abuses of the welfare program. The former has no rights and should not be protected as he is now."

At the same time, Mr. MacDonald stated that the Federation had sponsored legislation to increase the scope of home-rule, a bill calling for a June 30 deadline for annual sessions of the Legislature and one proposing the creation of a legislative research council.

He said that although the Federation's 1951 bill to open secret welfare records was defeated, recent developments across the country gave "great hope" for the passage of more far-reaching legislation next year. They are:

1. Victory of such legislation in Indiana.

2. Unanimous approval of such a move at a conference of the nation's Governors.

3. The amendment to the tax bill, passed by Congress, which permits states to open their records without loss of federal funds.

The Federation made it clear that its measure make an important distinction between "disbursement records" of welfare departments (covering only the name of the recipient and the amount and kind of aid given) and all other records and information in the possession of welfare departments (the detailed information relative to each case, of a confidential or privileged nature).

Mr. MacDonald said that under the provisions of the bill "disbursement records" would be made "public records", open to inspection at reasonable times in accordance with general laws governing inspection of public records. "Heavy penalties, however, would be imposed on any person who allowed the names of recipients to be published in any form," he emphasized.

"All other records and information in the possession of local welfare departments would be closed to the public, but would be available to federal and state courts; private charitable or social agencies on the order of the State Commissioner of Public Welfare, and any officer or agency specifically authorized by the vote of a city or town to survey or investigate welfare administration."

Mr. MacDonald predicted that immediately on passage of such legislation there would be a wholesale flight from the relief rolls of those now getting relief who know they cannot stand investigation. "They would get off before anybody could inquire into their fictitious claims," he said.

The bill was filed for the Federation by Senator George J. Evans, Republican, Wakefield.

In an effort to follow-up on the passage of its home-rule bill at this year's session of the Legislature, the Federation has sponsored for consideration in 1952 a proposal for a "legislative amendment" to the Massachusetts Constitution which would "restate the power of the Legislature to pass special, local laws affecting a particular city, town or district except with its prior approval or on its own petition."

Broadly speaking the Federation's home-rule amendment has two objectives:

1. To safeguard the interests of the individual city or town by protecting it from unwanted legislation sponsored by "third parties" without its approval and in some cases after outright rejection by the local government.

2. To reduce materially the number of bills annually considered by the Legislature by "advance screening" of special local measures. While it is impossible to forecast with exactness the extent of this reduction in the number of bills, it is likely to fall within the range of five to ten percent.

This non-partisan measure was entered by Representatives John J. Toomey, Democrat, Cambridge, and Howard Whitmore, Jr., Republican, Newton.

The third major proposal sponsored by the Federation and filed by Senator Philip G. Bowker, Republican of Brookline, calls for a constitutional amendment that would fix a June 30 deadline on annual sessions of the Legislature. Twenty-eight states now have such a limit, 21 of them for 60 days. In this group New York must finish its business by 90 days and Texas has the maximum—120 days.

To emphasize that a June 30 closing is "most reasonable," Mr. MacDonald pointed out that all but 10 states in the nation have biennial sessions of annual sessions. "Six months each year affords more than ample time for the careful disposition of all legitimate legislative business and in no way abridges the traditional right of free petition here," he declared.

"Under the Federation's proposal, the Legislature would have a 'target date' against which it would be able to schedule its work. Lack of such a schedule now is not only a major cause of our extraordinarily lengthy sessions but to a great extent opens the way for the 'grab' bills and spending schemes that are inevitably contrived as the sessions drag through the summer and fall."

"Official journals of both the House and Senate for the past three years show that every critical measure was repeatedly postponed because the Legislature had no set time for adjournment. Especially was this true in financial matters. For example, the supplementary budget for the current fiscal year was not enacted until five months after the fiscal year began."

Mr. MacDonald continued: "Nothing short of complete disorganization could extend the session beyond the June 30 deadline. Further, if members settled down to a five-day work week the actual date for prorogation would be nearer March 30 than June 30."

He disclosed that if a June 30 deadline had been in effect this year it would have saved the taxpayers upwards of $162,000!

Final Federation measure, filed by Representative Edward J. DeSaulnier, Jr., Republican, Chelmsford, proposes the creation of a legislative research council similar to those established in most other states across the country. It would be a permanent, bi-partisan organization whose purpose would be to supply technical information on legislation to members of the House and Senate.

Auburndale Woman's Club Meeting Is Ripe with Holiday Traditions

Auburndale Woman's Club meeting Wednesday, December 12 was rife with holiday traditions from greens arranging to pageantry. The gay and busy afternoon was off to a good start with a Carol Sing. Mrs. D. William Lovell, Art and Day chairman, first introduced Mrs. George S. Wattendorf who demonstrated an easy way of making fascinating animals: camels, horses, men and trees from pipe cleaners, candy and paper to be used as place cards and table decorations. Mrs. Byron H. Peirce was presented and made a colorful figure dressed in authentic Bavarian costume. She gave a detailed description of Christmas celebrated in rural Germany.

Mrs. Irving B. Kelley displayed original and beautiful greens. The lounge mantel arrangement was of driftwood which shone with soft satin light. The platform mantel was done in red carnations in brass chest. The door swag was a magnificent spray of highly polished magnolia leaves and dipped pine cones. The "piece de resistance" was a Swifts Ham converted into a wall sconce, decorated with angel and Christmas greens. Mrs. Thomas S. Booz read "The Littlest Angel" with sincere expression. The Club Chorus, directed by Mrs. Charles S. Butler and accompanied by Mrs. John R. Draper sang "Deck the Halls" and "What Child Is This?" Old English Carol and "Jingle Bells" by J. Pierpont. Biblical Nativity tableau made a fitting conclusion to the afternoon. Members taking part in tableau were Mrs. Umont S. Jones, Mrs. Carmen Santucci, Mrs. Thomas E. Crosby, Mrs. Irving B. Kelley, Mrs. Byron H. Peirce, Mrs. Robert E. Woods, Mrs. Reginald E. Smith, Mrs. Frank J. Tibert, Mrs. Edwin C. Harkins was narrator. "Partially because of the lack of such a council we have for years been muddling along—and more or less futilely—at attempting to get critical information from costly, unwieldy and temporary special commissions or committees in recess."

Newtonville Man Wins Award

Sid Cedrone, of 288 Nevada st., Newtonville, was named one of ninety local winners in this region in Crosley's big $2,000,000 "American Way of Life" contest announced last night.

Each local winner receives $300 Crosley merchandise certificate and $100 in cash donated by Crosley to be given to a church or charity designated by each winner.

In this region, $27,000 in merchandise certificates and $9000 for churches and charities were awarded.

Sid Cedrone received his $300 merchandise certificate from Howard L. Price, 27 Haymarket sq., Boston. He designated the West Somerville Congregational Church to receive the $100 cash award from Crosley.

In the national contest, whose winners will be announced Dec. 17th, there is a first prize of $10,000 and an additional $10,000 to be given to church or charity chosen by winner.

Last December 5,873 were injured in traffic accidents. Courteous driving and walking will reduce this highway slaughter.

"A Star Still Shines"

A star still shines high in the Eastern sky,
Just as it shone so many years ago;
If we but turn our heads to gaze on high,
Our hearts will feel the splendor of its glow.

Here was the symbol of a Mighty King,
Pointing the road to where in manger lay;
The Lord of all... with angels there to sing,
The Son of Man has come to earth this day.

A star still shines high in the midnight blue,
The same star that the shepherds came to see;
Bearing a message that today holds just as true,
The hope of man for all eternity.

Clouds may at times blot out its glowing ray,
And man-made hates obscure its shining light;
But faith eternal quickly tears away,
All mists of doubt, from that first Christmas night.

A star still shines and there will be rebirth,
Again all men shall come to kneel and pray;
Did He not promise here upon this earth,
His Son would come... to lead us down the way?

What Would You Do?

(Courtesy of "Your Child's World," child guidance magazine published by The Book House for Children.)

After a squabble, Ronald, age eight, has just reported that his sister, Marianne, age four, threw his plastic toy pistol on the floor and broke it. It is, indeed, irreparably cracked but Marianne maintains she dropped it accidentally. Ronald is obeying your orders not to discipline his sister himself but to bring his grievance to you. He is now expecting action and Marianne is hoping for a reprieve.

If you were the mother of Ronald and Marianne, what would YOU do?

a. Get a toy of Marianne's of equal value and let Ronald break it to punish her.

b. Let Ronald decide how she should be punished.

c. Simply promise Ronnie a new pistol if he will overlook the whole business.

d. Punish both of them with deprivation of privileges for squabbling.

e. Punish Marianne with a week's curtailment of her allowance for her destructiveness and/or carelessness.

This quiz will have made a valuable point, if it indicates the undesirability of alternative (b), which may be superficially acceptable. As parents we should and must take the responsibility for the disciplining and punishment of the children. To let Ronald decide might promote resentment in Marianne against him and possibly might give him unnecessary feelings of guilt at the severity of what he might dream up in the heat of the moment. (a) is inadvisable because it is unwise to foster such vindictiveness in children, not to mention "vanton destructiveness." (d) may be all right to handle the original squabbling but it unfairly ignores Ronald's complaint. Restitution for his loss is desirable but not under the conditions of alternative (e). Ronald would feel his sister had "got away with something," that she was being favored. (e) is probably the best alternative even allowing Marianne's tenuous claim of an accident. It is not unduly severe on Marianne and would satisfy Ronald that the wrong done him had been righted. However, it would be better presented not so much as pure punishment but rather as necessary restitution for damage done.

What Shall We Eat... For That Gay Note?

When you want a simple dessert to look and taste like a party, "whipped cream" is the by-word, as in Butterscotch Apples with Whipped Cream. And there are many other uses for whipped cream. It's one of the easiest frostings there is. A tint of food coloring is beautiful with the smooth texture of cream, and it's well known that cream is a natural food to carry flavor. Recently we had a delicious cream pie that had chocolate flavored whipped cream filling between the layers and as a topping. Whipped cream usually has enough body to hold candies or other decorations.

Cream always means more vitamin A—the good looks vitamin. Four tablespoons are usually a generous amount, and if you want to exchange these calories for some other sweets during the day, how about skipping half a candy bar, a small piece of cake, or a medium sized brownie. On with the cream!

BUTTERSCOTCH APPLES WITH WHIPPED CREAM
6 cooking apples
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup whipping cream (2 cups plus, whipped)
Wash and core apples; peel one-third of the way down from the top. Heat brown sugar, water, and butter together in saucepan to make a syrup. Place apples in a baking dish and add syrup. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 to 60 minutes, or until apples are tender, basting them with syrup occasionally. Cool apples and serve with whipped cream topped with extra butterscotch syrup. Serves 6.

Police News

Investigation of a nighttime breaking and entering of a West Newton business firm last Wednesday morning disclosed nothing of value missing. Person or persons made entrance by smashing lower sash of large window, after failing to gain admittance through small upper window. Officer Motherway investigated.

Officers Louis J. Cedrone and Eugene E. Paoletti were granted two days off for their work in the arrest of a burglar on November 6, 1951. The man apprehended for "breaking and entering in nighttime and larceny, carrying a revolver without a license and having burglarious tools in his possession."

Lt. Burke, Officer Barry and the Newton Fire Department called to assist a young baby sitter into a home on Fair Oak avenue last Thursday. She had locked herself out.

Loud Christmas music brought a complaint from a Watertown street resident who asked that a cleaning establishment on Watertown street tone down the volume of the yuletide carols. Officers Whelan and Kiley answered the call.

A Longfellow road resident reported that two rear tires on his sedan were slashed on the night of December 13. The car was parked in his driveway.

Anonymous complaint that a suspicious looking man leaving circulars at houses in the vicinity of Newtonville avenue and Harvard street brought officers to the area. A quick check by police turned up a Fuller brush man making his rounds.

Newton Corner automobile establishment reported broken into last Tuesday evening. Desk in main office was ransacked and $3, rolls of 1 cent and 3 cents stamps were discovered missing. Entrance was forced by breaking glass in large casement window and releasing the door latch. Cashier's window leading to main office was also broken. Investigation was conducted by Captain Crowley.

Three patrolmen, Officers Tredin, Nugent and Hanlon, answered complaint of "petting party" in the vicinity of Drumlum road. Car gone when police arrived.

After entering by breaking the rear bath room window of a gas station on Beacon street last Friday morning, thieves smashed a cigarette machine and took all the money, stole $25 out of the money box, and broke the soft drink machine and emptied cash box.

and four days the group were stranded amid enemy held islands.

Three nights the young commander went out into the passageway between two of the islands in an effort to intercept other PT boats that normally cut through.

The men were eventually saved and Congressman Kennedy received the Silver Star for gallantry, a Purple Heart for his wounds, and a discharge from the Navy because of the disability incurred during the trying times, from which he has never fully recovered.

A dinner will precede the meeting.

Last December 34 pedestrians were killed in traffic accidents, 31 after dark.

Spotlight on the Newtons

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

BERTA THE THIRD interrupts Mr. Vignoles' work on model of the Scugus Iron Works.

Have you ever thought of retiring at an early age to pursue your hobby? Mr. A. Hutton Vignoles, and his wife, Margaret, of Newton Upper Falls, both distinguished in the architectural field, have done just that. They now create Architectural Engineering Models.

"This is my nature, to mix mind and hands for happiness," says Mr. Vignoles, with a clipped, precise manner of speech. The models, built to scale, enable the architect to envision the actual structure in its finished form. A noted architect himself, Mr. Vignoles is master of the complexities of this artifice.

He does all the construction work. Extreme patience and dexterity are necessary qualifications for the builder of such fine models.

Delicate landscaping, painting and intricate details are Mrs. Vignoles' contribution to the project.

They have made models of the Senior Dormitory, M. I. T., National Research Corp., and the new Jordan Marsh addition. "When we worked on the Chelsea Naval Hospital Model, six men and women had plans spread all over the 11 rooms of our home; we had a perfectly delightful and hectic time," Mrs. Vignoles told us.

More recent models are of schools in Westwood, Framingham, Randolph and Weymouth Landing.

Mr. Vignoles is from a family of world travelers. His great-grandfather, who made the first map of Florida, was the sole surviving Vignoles on the Island of Guadalupe. His parents died of yellow fever. At the age of six months, he was made a colonel at half-pay, so he could be brought to England and pensioned. He was put under the guardianship of Dr. Hutton, fellow mathematician and friend of Newton.

A 1922 graduate of Tech, Mr. A. Hutton Vignoles was associated as architect with two outstanding architectural firms. While with Magnus and Walsh, he was a designer of St. Catherine's Church, in Somerville. His plans went into West Point Chapel, and the new John Hancock Building, when with the firm of Cram and Ferguson. He designed St. George's Chapel, in Newport, R. I., the Library and Science Building, at Boston College, and Grace Cathedral, San Francisco.

During the first World War, he was a member of the Royal Flying Corps, of England. When he returned to America, he headed West with his wife. He sought relief from asthma, which had plagued him during the war. Finding no hospitality for his health, homesick for New England, the Vignoles soon turned East in their Model T.

In 1945, after serving as civilian engineer during World War II, Mr. Vignoles hoped at last to take a vacation. An urgent request for a model of a home was the beginning of the new career. He never has gotten around to that vacation. The workshop, which is attached to the house, is often lighted until the wee hours, with the whole family, which consists of Mr. and Mrs., and their dog, Berta the Third, on duty.

Margaret Vignoles also graduated from M. I. T., where she met and married Mr. Vignoles. After a honeymoon in Europe, she taught Gothic Architecture, at Wellesley. When she returned from California with her husband, in 1927, she introduced round-table teaching at the School of Architecture at M. I. T., where she taught for 17 years.

Her father was Dr. Franklin T. Mall, one of the originators of modern thought in medical education. His wife was in the first class at John Hopkins.

Mrs. Vignoles is now working with her husband on their "pet project," a model of the Saugus Iron Works, the first archeological excavation and restoration of our times. The Iron Works model will be complete with the Iron-master's house, farm and workmen's cottages. A blast furnace, fiery and chafery forges, a slitting mill, charcoal, ore and finished iron storage facilities, will be included. To give one example of the detail involved, over 3,200 shingles will be placed on the Iron Works model.

As a relief from more tedious tasks, the Vignoles perfect their home. "If you can make it yourself, why work to make the money for it," is their motto.

"Lazy-suzanne" revolving shelves in closets, the hand-carved cabinet with open-work cresting (carved places for silverware in drawers), and hand-made dining room set, are evidence of Mr. Vignoles' skill. Doors and windows, a brick terrace (the Mrs. mixed the mortar) and a new fireplace are monuments to their "mixing mind and hands."

Are the Vignoles perfectionists? "We have a favorite quote in our household," they told us. It's from the book, "Crock of

MR. A. HUTTON VIGNOLES, and his wife, Margaret, enjoy an evening at home with Berta the Third, before spacious windows, Mr. Vignoles' own handi-work.

Gold," and we quote: "Perfection is finality, finality is death; nothing is perfect, there are lumps in it!"

Santa—

Santa has 82 gnomes and helpers dressed in costume. They make many kinds of toys, operate an old fashioned pottery shop, do glass blowing, leather craft, wrought iron and doll making.

Left unmolested, over 200 animals roam throughout the village. There are his reindeer, many other kinds of deer, sheep, goats, peacocks, ducks, rabbits and also ponies for children who come to visit him to ride on.

The North Pole stands in the center of the village and is always frozen over with ice and snow even on the hottest summer days.

The wish of the village is to carry out the tradition which was started back in the 4th century by St. Nick—giving toys and gifts to poor and orphaned children at Christmas time. In the village is a wishing well where visitors this year contributed $8,975.00, so that this year Santa's Workshop, contributing a percentage of income, was able to supply 10,500 toys from a total income of $26,000.00.

At the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children Friday, Santa was able to leave with the children a total of 32 toys with a total value of $280.87 before he left to visit other children in all parts of the East.

The "boss" should provide sober drivers after the Christmas party.

Give the Christmas present that can bring thanks for 20 Years!

Who is the child that you love the most?

You want that little one's Christmas to be the brightest possible, don't you? This year that will probably mean toys. But you can give him another gift too—one that will keep your thoughtfulness in his heart for many years to come; a United States Defense Bond.

A Christmas-given Bond will be a fine savings start for the youngster you love. By act of Congress it can earn interest for as long as twenty years—an ever-increasing reminder of your thoughtfulness.

Make the bank one of your Christmas shopping stops and find out more about bonds and other forms of saving as gift possibilities.

Winter Check-up of Car Should Include Tires

Oil, grease and the cooling system have become standard check points in the winterizing of the average automobile, but in recent years many motorists also have begun to include tires, Phil Bram, B. F. Goodrich dealer at 252 Walnut street, Newtonville, this week

Mr. Bram pointed out that mud-snow tires geared for winter driving conditions are one of the most important considerations for the motorist not only from a standpoint of convenience but for safety as well.

Tests showed that the new B. F. Goodrich mud-snow tire developed for winter driving stopped cars 40 percent faster on ice than conventional type tires and 30 percent faster on snow, the B. F. Goodrich dealer stated.

Registrants Still Allowed to Enlist

Colonel Chester A. Furbish, State Director of Selective Service, today announced that registrants may continue to enlist in the service of their choice even though they may have had preinduction physical examinations. Authority to allow such enlistments will expire on 31 December 1951. Thereafter, a registrant will be unable to enlist voluntarily once he has been ordered to take his preinduction physical examination.

All registrants who are affected by this provision were advised to apply immediately for enlistment if they desired to enlist at all. It was pointed out that an application for enlistment which is not fully processed by 31 December 1951, would have to be rejected at that time. In addition, it was emphasized that further extension of this authority was not anticipated. Only enlistments requiring entrance on immediate active duty are allowed by this order. As in the past, a person may not enlist in the Reserves after he has been ordered to report for preinduction physical examination.

In his announcement, Colonel Furbish called attention to a prohibition in the Law which is not generally understood. After a person has been ordered to report for induction as distinguished from the preinduction physical examination, he may not legally enlist in any service. To do so by concealing or withholding information of his true status subjects the person involved to prosecution under the Law. In addition, he effects a fraudulent enlistment and thereby becomes subject to disciplinary action by the service in which he enlisted.

Make Holiday A Safe One

While Christmas is the happiest time of the year for most people, for many it is the time of tragedy, warns Herbert L. McNary, Executive Manager of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters. The Fire Underwriters urge the greatest of caution over the holidays and offer several helpful suggestions.

Two years ago, reminds Mr. McNary, a whole town in Pennsylvania was virtually wiped out because of a Christmas tree fire. In an Oklahoma town 36 lives of children and parents were lost in a fire at a school Christmas party when the Christmas tree flashed into flames. Over the years there have been many similar disasters.

One common cause of Christmas tree fires is the use of cotton for snow. While flameproofed cotton can be purchased, common medical cotton should never be used. In any event, a small piece of cotton should be tested with a match in some safe place.

Better still, however, suggests Mr. McNary, "snow" for the trees should be made from ordinary soap powder and water. Children love to make their own snow. Whipped into a thick consistency, it can be thrown or placed on the tree and when it dries out it makes a most realistic "snow".

The following suggestions are distributed by the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters in the interest of a safe Christmas.

1. Leave your Christmas tree outdoors as long as possible.
2. Stand tree in water while in the house.
3. Use only non-flammable decorations.
4. Avoid window lighting near flammable curtains or drapes.
5. Avoid defective lights or wiring.
6. Avoid over-loading wires by multiple plugs and too much lighting.
7. Dispose of paper wrappings quickly.
8. Take extra precautions with smoking hazards.

Sky Map for December

With the approach of winter, our evening sky becomes studded with many brilliant stars, more than are visible at any other season.

Sirius, the "Dog Star," is the brightest star in the entire sky although the planet Jupiter still dominates the evening sky this December when the moon is not visible. Sirius is brilliant white in color but when near the horizon it sparkles like a diamond with flashes of many colors. At a distance of 52,000,000,000 miles, Sirius is the nearest naked-eye star visible from the latitude of Boston.

Other bright stars this month are Procyon, Rigel, Betelgeuse, Aldebaran, Capella, Castor, Pollux, Vega, Deneb, and Fomalhaut. Regulus, in Leo, is also visible but rises later at night. It is easy to locate the bright cluster of the Pleiades or "Seven Sisters" in Taurus, while another famous cluster, Praesepe or the "Beehive" in Cancer may require field glasses to be visible.

The Great Spiral Galaxy in Andromeda is still nearly overhead. This is an "Island Universe" beyond our own "Milky Way" Galaxy and is composed of billions of stars.

In Orion's sword is a very different type of object. It is the Great Nebula, a stupendous mass of gas in a state of violent agitation and illuminated by nearby stars. Its hazy appearance is easily seen with field glasses and it is an object of great beauty in a telescope.

The Hyades which form the V-shaped head of Taurus between worth viewing with field glasses. Orion and the Pleiades are also well The three faint stars forming a triangle near Capella, the "She goat" in Auriga were known to the Arabs as "The Kids."

Jupiter is prominent in the evening below the Great Square of Pegasus.

Mercury may be seen as a morning star low in the southeast before sunrise towards the end of the month.

AMUSEMENTS

MOVIE TIME, U.S.A.

Newton Highlands

Mrs. Harold Sheehan of 37 Oak terrace, Newton Highlands, entertained twelve members of the Wollaston Garden Club with kodachrome slides of Colorado and New England scenes, including many well known garden pictures. Mrs. Mortimer M. Harris spoke on lilies as grown by Jan de Graaff, the internationally known lily hybridizer. This was illustrated with slides from Mr. de Graaff. The lily, Helen Carroll, was named for Mrs. Harris several years ago. Mrs. Francis Vann was pourer at the coffee hour.

Extensive mechanization by the bituminous coal industry has greatly increased productivity.

Modern coal-preparation plants very nearly approach the ideal automatic push-button factories.

Among other popular car accessories are a lock for the gasoline tank; a wedge-shaped pillow; curb finders (stiff metal wires, to be attached to the right-hand fenders, that send out a warning ring when they hit rocks or curbing); a car fan; a utility light on a long cord that plugs into the car's cigarette lighter; a car compass; a map holder; blank keys (decorated with a St. Christopher medal or the recipient's initials), which are later made up to fit his automobile's locks and ignition switch.

Few people test the air pressure of their tires as regularly as necessary and at a time when the tires are cool. The gift of a tire gauge should help the user to discern slow leaks and prevent over- or underinflation.

Picnic equipment can be considered an automobile gift, because today, most of us reach picnic areas by car. You could give a simply or an elaborately equipped basket; a portable icebox (to be loaded in the morning with cubes or a piece of ice); an insulated jug or bottle for either hot or cold drinks. A package of matching paper or plastic plates, cups, spoons, and tablecloth makes a thoughtful Christmas gift for a family that like alfresco meals, and will start them planning their next automobile tour.

WHY BRISTOL UPHOLSTERING IS DIFFERENT

- (1) We don't tie springs just 4 or 6 ways — we tie them fully 8 ways and with special twine.
- (2) We don't just glue loose frames — we take out old dowels, replace them with larger and new ones. We add brand new corner blocks.
- (3) We don't tack seams at just the obvious spots — we hand sew seams throughout the piece.
- (4) The seams on the sides and backs aren't blind-tacked — all the seams are hand-sewn.
- (5) We don't use ordinary fibre or excelsior — we use the new, expensive moss filling.
- (6) We don't just repair your cushions — we make brand new cushions, springs and all.
- (7) We don't put the fabric on carelessly — we make sure the pattern matches perfectly.
- (8) We don't just cut from a pattern — we fit your cover as carefully as a tailor-made suit.

Flexible Steel Re-Inforcing

Word has been received recently from Donald H. Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Nash of 200 Church street, Newton, that he is on active duty aboard a U. S. destroyer operating off the east coast of Korea far above the thirty-eighth parallel.

Official reports state commandos and marines have made several landings under naval gun-fire protection behind Communist lines near the Manchurian and Russian borders.

Nash received his basic training at Newport, R. I., and was then selected to be sent to the Great Lakes Naval School to study electrical and electronic communications. Upon completing the course with a high grade, he received a diploma and a rating of ICFA, and was immediately assigned to a destroyer for active duty.

He attended the Underwood and Bigelow schools, and was graduated from Newton High School in the class of 1948. He was a student at the Massachusetts Radio School in Boston and graduated as an Electronic Technician. Previous to enlisting in the Navy, Nash was employed by the Raytheon Mfg. Co., in Waltham as a tester on magnetron electronic tubes. He was also a former member of Company K, 101st Infantry, Newton National Guard.

During World War II, Nash was an official aircraft spotter on duty at the Waltham observation post.

Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will give the main address at the exercises and will speak on "Libraries in the Service of the Community."

Judge Thomas Weston, president of the board of trustees of the library, will preside at the exercises and Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood will give remarks on the library's importance in the community.

Harold A. Wooster, librarian of the Newton Free Library, has announced that although the new addition has been completed, it will probably be a few weeks before it is thrown open for use of the public due to the fact that certain details have yet to be completed for the public's use.

The architect of the addition is W. Cornell Appleton. Tornabene Bros. Co. are the general contractors. The new building was erected and furnished for approximately $175,000 including the new approach walk, the grading and landscaping of the grounds and certain contingent repairs to the old building.

The money was appropriated on recommendation of the Mayor by the Board of Aldermen, from the Public Buildings loan account and a minor amount from current revenue. The appropriation received careful study and consideration by the Newton Planning Board, the Public Works and Public Buildings Committees of the Board of Aldermen.

The need for and requirements of the addition were studied by the librarian and Board of Library Trustees for a period of six years, with the assistance of consultations and special professional advice.

The erection of the addition was under the general supervision of Arthur Campbell, public buildings commissioner of the City of Newton.

Urges Communities Have Water Supply Fluoridated

"The best Christmas gift a Massachusetts community can give young children and their parents this year is a plan to fluoridate its public water supply," Dr. Vlado A. Getting, State Commissioner of Public Health stated today. "Such a plan is the best known method of cutting down the Bay State's alarmingly high amount of tooth decay."

"Eighty-five percent of Massachusetts children need dental care in their early years, a poor record in comparison with States which have desirable amounts of the element fluorine in their drinking water," Dr. Getting continued. "By fluoridating their water supplies, communities will do much to meet this public health problem."

Dr. Getting made these remarks following recent approval of fluoridation by the American Medical Association, American Dental Association, and National Research Council. Fluoridation is a safe and effective way of reducing tooth decay, according to the medical and scientific judgment of these three groups.

30,000 Bay Staters are already protected by fluoridation, according to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. These people are residents of Danvers, Middleton, Templeton, and Seabrook.

Athol, Cambridge, Gardner, Northampton, and Winchendon have made arrangements for fluoridation of their public drinking water supplies and will start the process in the near future. 187,000 more Massachusetts residents will then have their dental health protected by fluoridation, Dr. Getting pointed out.

According to the records of the State public health department, many more communities in Massachusetts have made inquiries about the best method of adding fluorides to their drinking water.

In addition to the Metropolitan District Commission, which is in charge of Boston's water supply, some of the municipalities which have shown an interest in fluoridation are: Agawam, Barnstable, Beverly, Bourne, Braintree, Chatham, Cohasset, Concord, Dennis, Dracut, Fall River, Falmouth, Gloucester, Harwich, Hingham, Holbrook, Lowell, Lynn, Manchester, Marshfield, Medfield, Natick, North Adams, North Andover, North Attleboro, Norwood, Pepperell, Plymouth, Provincetown, Randolph, Rockport, Salem, Sharon, Shrewsbury, Wellesley, Wrentham, West Boylston, Weston, Winchester, and Yarmouth.

The State Department of Public Health stands ready to give advice on fluoridation to local water departments through its division of Sanitary Engineering and to local boards of health or health departments through its Division of Dental Health.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gath to Observe 50th Anniversary Sun.

Christmas Day marks the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gath, Sr., one of Newtonville's well known business men and restaurant owners who established themselves some 28 years ago, when Newtonville square was a "small time" business section.

Sunday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock, their son, Harry Gath, Jr., has arranged a reception for his father and mother at 600 California street, where their friends may pay their respects and congratulations.

"Like father, like son" could well be the philosophy of the Gath family because of their mutual interest in the sports and recreational life of Newton, in baseball, football, basketball, softball, bowling and golf under the name of "Gath's Guards," while Mr. Gath, Sr., has his interest in the boxing arenas.

Back in 1905 in Lawrence, Mr. Gath, Sr., organized the West End A. C. to promote boxing in that city. It was there that the famous Sam Langford, a heavy-weight from Nova Scotia made his first appearance. Mr. Gath well remembered paying him $15 for that appearance. Sam went to greater heights under Mr. Gath's training so much so that the champion heavy-weight Jack Johnson would not step into the ring with Sam Langford as his first performance for a non-title bout.

Mr. Gath in 1908 branched out establishing fight clubs in Webster, Marlboro and Haverhill and for six years conducted a training camp at Northboro. Such notables as Newton's own Jimmy Welch, Jim Flynn, Harry Morris, Frank Meil, Ted Murphy, George Byers, Al Delmont all of Boston, together with Harlem Tommy Murphy, Sandy Ferguson and Charlie Griffin trained at Mr. Gath's camp. Mr. Gath later managed many other New England fighters.

Fifty years ago Christmas day Harry Gath, Sr. married Christine Elizabeth Nuttall. They have three children, Harry Jr., Archie, both associated with him in the Newtonville restaurant business and Mrs. Janet Rand of Marshfield. They have five grandchildren, Carol, a student at Newton high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gath Jr., Patricia and William F. Gath, children of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gath and Kenneth and Nancy Elizabeth Rand of Marshfield.

It is expected that a Lawrence delegation headed by Mayor James Meehan will attend the reception because Mr. and Mrs. Gath are well known in that city where Mrs. Gath was born. Mr. Gath conducted a grocery and provision store there for years and during World War I served as president of that retail organization.

Newton Flyer Destroys Communist Warehouse, 10 Vehicles Near Sonchon

1st Lieut. Richard A. Brennan of 103 Thurston Road in Daring Mission

First Lieutenant Richard A. Brennan, pilot of a 3rd Bomb Wing B-26, recently destroyed a Communist warehouse and ten Red vehicles while flying a night mission near Sonchon.

The navigator-bombardier, 1st Lieutenant Charles R. Wilson, 1706 Meeker avenue, Muncie, Ind., released four 500 pound incendiary bombs and four 100 pound incendiaries on the target. A brilliant red and white flash of flame and smoke billowed up from the stalled convoy.

Leaving the trapped trucks for a moment, Lieutenant Brennan made his second bombing run over the warehouses. Again four 500 pound and four 100 pound incendiaries dropped on the target. Explosions ripped into the buildings completely destroying them.

Says Time Late For Mankind To Rectify Mistakes

The time is late for mankind to rectify his many mistakes and bring himself to righteousness, Dr. Albert Buckner Coe told members of the Newton Y.M.C.A. at the second annual committee dinner of the "Y" held December 18.

"It is time to face reality with serious thinking," Dr. Coe said. "The Y.M.C.A. is an important channel through which the full message of Christ can be brought to the world."

Members of all major committees, and members of the two boards, the directors and the trustees, heard Dr. Coe, who is minister and president of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference. Dr. Coe spoke on the subject "Five Minutes to Twelve."

At the meeting President Frederick S. Bacon heard program plans from the following committee chairmen: Boys' Work, Fred T. Hackley; auditing, Gustaf E. Frye; Camp Frank A. Day, Fred A. Hawkins; Christian Emphasis, Dr. Prentiss L. Pemberton; finance, Benjamin F. Louis; general program, Walter B. Hatfield; membership, Roscoe A. Hayes; nominating, Mr. Hatfield; physical education, John N. Pauler; public relations, Stephen E. Owens; World Services, Eldred M. Peterson.

A social period followed following which the board of directors met for their December meeting.

Second Dance to Be Held Tonight

These dances have been a social event in Newton for the past three years and this particular Christmas occasion is not only anticipated by the local young set, but by the boys and girls returning from college. Music will be Marshall's orchestra, refreshments will be bountiful and there will be a plentiful variety of lucky number and novelty dances. Dress for the girls is formal and for the boys, a tuxedo or a dark suit.

Patronesses are: Mrs. Ernest G. Angevine, Mrs. Julian D. Anthony, Mrs. Elwood T. Dickinson, Mrs. Thomas H. Peterson, Mrs. Maxwell H. Robson, Mrs. Neil W. Swinton, Mrs. Albert B. Terkelsen, Mrs. Walter T. Tower, Mrs. Randall W. Weeks and Mrs. Stafford H. Witte.

Reservations should be made through Mrs. Garfield A. Drew (Bigelow 4-2110).

To Inaugurate Evening Hours For Customers

West Newton Savings Bank To Open Every Friday Night Starting Jan. 4

As a result of a survey just completed the West Newton Savings Bank will be open Friday evening from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., beginning January 4.

In the interest of providing better service to those who find it inconvenient to call at the bank during day-time business hours, the West Newton Savings Bank has decided to open the bank on Friday evenings for a trial period extending through May, 1952. If it is found that a sufficient number of citizens are benefited by this additional service, the practice will be continued.

As June, July, August and September are vacation months, it is not anticipated that evening hours will be required.

A number of interesting facts were brought out by the survey the West Newton Savings Bank has conducted. Questions were asked with regard to convenience of hours and location, quality of service, and adequacy of parking facilities. As a result of one suggestion, a postage machine has been installed in the lobby and its use indicates that customers appreciate the service provided.

ACTIVE IN THE PLANNING for the New Year's Open House of the Newton YMCA, to be held Tuesday, January 1, are the two top members of the Physical Education staff. At the right is Eugene R. Clark, Jr., associate director of the department. On the left is Richard B. Simmons, veteran director of the department. Hours for the Open House will be 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Traditional Open House To Be Held At Newton Y Tuesday

Over 1,000 Members and Friends Expected To Attend Annual Event — Public Invited To The Affair

Members and friends of the Newton YMCA will attend in large number, the traditional New Year's Open House of the Association, to be held Tuesday, January 1. Walter B. Hatfield, chairman of the General Committee, is heading the arrangements. The public is invited to attend.

Taking part in the Open House, which last year was attended by nearly a thousand persons, will be members of all divisions of the YMCA — boys', youth, men's and young adult.

Serving as "welcomers" and guides for the Open House will be members of the Board of Directors of the YMCA, headed by Frederick Sayford Bacon, president. Hours for the Open House will be 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., according to Leonard D. Garfield, secretary of the General Program Committee.

On the program will be crafts exhibits in the craft shop, motion pictures in the auditorium, a recreation swim in the pool, and miniature jet racer contests in the gym, all under the auspices of the Boys' Division. Fred T. Hackley is chairman, and John E. Danielson and Paul Wilber are secretaries of the Boy's Work Committee.

Unemployment Benefits Drop 41 Percent In First 10 Months

Unemployment benefit payments were 41 per cent less in the first ten months of this year than in a similar period in 1950. Reporting on the sharp drop, Director Antonio England of the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security said it meant that $40,000,000 had been paid to the unemployed as compared with $68,500,000 in the same ten months last year.

The chief reason for the decline was higher manufacturing employment, particularly in apparel, textile and shoes in the first quarter of the year. When this began to taper off in the spring, the slack was taken up by increased activity in construction, agriculture, resort, trade and transportation.

The decrease in benefit payments would have been greater, the state Director said, except for the very unfavorable conditions in the textile and shoe industries which worsened in September and October. Up to the end of August when these further declines took place the state-wide decrease in payments had been 49 per cent below the 1950 figure; by October 31 this had been cut to 41 per cent.

The effect of the recent employment drop is sharply pointed up by a comparison of benefit payments in September and October of the two years. Where thirty-nine of the forty-one employment office districts showed decreases in payments in the ten-month comparison period, only sixteen offices paid out less benefits during September and October.

Ban All-Nite Parking in City Areas

3-Hour Daytime Limit Also Set

New Set of Rules to Go Into Effect Jan. 1 for 30-Day Trial Period

All-night parking will be prohibited and a three-hour limit will be set on daytime parking in municipally owned off-street areas beginning January 1, according to a set of rules recommended by a meeting of city officials at Police headquarters.

At this time, the new rules will go into effect for a 30-day trial period, before being brought to the Board of Aldermen for formal enactment, it was reported.

The all-night parking ban was ordered to prevent the use of the city-owned areas as private garages and to facilitate snow removal, it was announced. The ban also will aid in the search for stolen or abandoned cars. An exception to the three-hour limit will be made at the rear of the new Richardson street area in Newton Corner, where there will be space for about 25 cars for the convenience of commuters, who take the train.

Carol Program Presented At Stone Institute

Warren Jr. High School Glee Club Makes Visit

The Girls' Glee Club of the Levi F. Warren Junior High School, under the leadership of Miss Geraldine Seaver, Teacher of Music, presented a Christmas carol program for the residents of Stone Institute, a Newton Home for Aged People.

Mrs. Hampton, Director of the Newton Junior Red Cross, who arranged for the program, and Mrs. Priscilla Daudelin, school sponsor, accompanied the group.

The program included many of the familiar hymns and carols as well as Ding-Dong, Merrily on High, a sixteenth-century carol, Master's In The Hall, an old French carol, Go Tell It on the Mountains, a Negro spiritual, and two jolly rounds. Sheila Ahern was the accompanist.

Judy Currier and Josephine Messina sang as solos "He Shall Feed His Flock" from Handel's Messiah.

Signe Norstrand performed Leona's Malaguena on the piano, and Ann Barrs played the Bach-Gounod Ave Maria on the violin.

The singers of the group were: Anne Andrews, Gail Atwood, Jean Bannister, Eleanor Bliss, Marjorie Breen, Joanna Bruce, Mary Cooney, Judith Currier, Mary Demeo, Barbara Gates, Allison Gifford, Sandra Goldston, Eunice Goodman, Carole Hamilton.

Exercises to Take Place At City Hall

Aldermen, School Committee Also To Be Sworn In

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood will be inducted as Mayor of the city Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when impressive ceremonies will be held in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall. This will mark the beginning of his third two year tenure of office.

At the same time members of the Board of Aldermen and School Committee will take the oath of office which will be administered by Mayor Lockwood. Judge Thomas Westcott will administer the oath of office to Mayor Lockwood.

Following these formalities, Mayor Lockwood will deliver his address relative to the future needs of the city.

With more and more legislation being passed, it is believed the mayor will lay particular stress of the financial aspects of the city and the increased burdens which will be imposed upon it as a result of this legislation.

With the tightening of controls on scarce materials, he will probably outline the public building program of the city, dealing particularly with what can be accomplished and what can not be done as a result of the stepping up of the defense program.

Increased taxation burdens on the individual will also play a part in the municipality because of the increased exemption law recently passed by the legislature. This increased exemption is bound to materially increase the financial burden of the city and other means of income must be found.

All in all, the coming year will create many problems for all municipalities, Newton included, and the mayor, cognizant of this fact, will possibly stress the need for caution in any large undertaking this coming year.

The public is invited to attend the inaugural services to be held Tuesday.

Reduction Sale To Start Jan. 2

Taxpayers Ask Welfare Costs Be Published

To drive chiselers, professional mendicants and the politically-favored from the relief rolls of the Commonwealth is the purpose of legislation to open welfare rolls to inspection sponsored by the Taxpayers Federation and filed for consideration by the 1952 Legislature, it was announced this week.

"Our proposal aims to end the blackout that has enveloped the secret welfare State in Massachusetts for the past decade," Norman MacDonald, Federation executive director, declared.

"This is no witch-hunt," he said. "It is a sincere attempt to strike a reasonable balance between the rights of the worthy welfare recipient who is entitled to protection from needless embarrassment, and the rights of the taxpayer who is entitled to protection from the costly abuses of the welfare program. The former has no rights and should not be protected as he is now."

At the same time, Mr. MacDonald stated that the Federation had sponsored legislation to increase the scope of home-rule, a bill calling for a June 30 deadline for annual sessions of the Legislature and one proposing the creation of a legislative research council.

He said that although the Federation's 1951 bill to open secret welfare records was defeated, recent developments across the country gave "great hope" for the passage of more far-reaching legislation next year. They are:

1. Victory of such legislation in Indiana.
2. Unanimous approval of such a move at a conference of the nation's Governors.
3. The amendment to the tax bill, passed by Congress, which permits states to open their records without loss of federal funds.

The Federation made it clear that its measure makes an important distinction between "disbursement records" of welfare departments (covering only the name of the recipient and the amount and kind of aid given) and all other records and information in the possession of welfare departments (the detailed information relative to each case, of a confidential or privileged nature).

Mr. MacDonald said that under the provisions of the bill "disbursement records" would be made "public records", open to inspection at reasonable times in accordance with general laws governing inspection of public records. "Heavy penalties, however, would be imposed on any person who allowed the names of recipients to be published in any form," he emphasized.

"All other records and information in the possession of local welfare departments would be closed to the public, but would be available to federal and state courts; private charitable or social agencies on the order of the State Commissioner of Public Welfare, and any officer or agency specifically authorized by the vote of a city or town to survey or investigate welfare administration."

Mr. MacDonald predicted that immediately on passage of such legislation there would be a wholesale flight from the relief rolls of those now getting relief who know they cannot stand investigation. "They would get off before anybody could inquire into their fictitious claims," he said.

The bill was filed for the Federation by Senator George J. Evans, Republican, Wakefield.

In an effort to follow-up on the passage of its home-rule bill at this year's session of the Legislature, the Federation has sponsored for consideration in 1952 a proposal for a "legislative amendment" to the Massachusetts Constitution which would "restrict the power of the Legislature to pass special, local laws affecting a particular city, town or district except with its prior approval or on its own petition."

Broadly speaking the Federation's home-rule amendment has two objectives:

1. To safeguard the interests of the individual city or town by protecting it from unwanted legislation sponsored by "third parties" without its approval and in some cases after outright rejection by the local government.
2. To reduce materially the number of bills annually considered by the Legislature by "advance screening" of special local measures. While it is impossible to forecast with exactness the extent of this reduction in the number of bills, it is likely to fall within the range of five to ten percent.

This non-partisan measure was entered by Rep. John J. Toomey, Democrat, Cambridge, and Howard Whitmore, Jr., Republican, Newton.

Final Federation measure, filed by Representative Edward J. DeSaulnier, Jr., Republican, Chelmsford, proposes the creation of a legislative research council similar to those established in most other states across the country. It would be a permanent, bipartisan organization whose purpose would be to supply technical information on legislation to members of the House and Senate.

At present, facts underlying legislation have to be dug out by hard-pressed legislators themselves, committee assistants or by some private interests. "As a result, many important bills with widespread social, political and economic significance are enacted into law with only a superficial understanding of their implications," Mr. MacDonald said. "Partially because of the lack of such a council we have for years been muddling along—and more or less futilely—attempts to get critical information from costly, unwieldy and temporary special commissions or committees in recess."

Laureate's Lines

The Newton Graphic invites its readers to submit to this column, original, unpublished, verse, sonnet, or prose. Name of poet must be included.

—To his grandson
To Keith Sayles Shaw, Jr.

A baby for a Christmas gift
Who ever heard of that?
A boy who coo's, smiles, cries,
And brings joy tears to the eyes

Hang up the baby's stocking
Fill it to the brim;
The over flow will do no harm
'Twill show your love for him

As years go on he will understand Why Christmas joy is here,
And do his part to bring about
This season of good cheer

I dedicate these lines to him,
This boy, at Yuletide,
And trust with confidence and hope
He will be his parents' pride.

—William R. Ferry

—Doesn't your parlor seem bare, after Christmas

The Christmas Tree

The Christmas Tree has a sacred place
It captures every one's heart
When New Year comes, it has to go Because it has played its part

The sparkling lights and ornaments too
Give cheer to all who see,
It brings a message of goodwill on earth
And of Christ's Nativity

The corner where we put the tree
Is warm and cheerful, it seems,

And we love to sit beside it
At eventide with dreams

The spirit of Christ should dwell in the home

After the Tree has gone
It should cast its spell on those inside

When the Christmas season is done

When it is time to take it away
We dismantle it all with care
And carry the tree to our garden
And place it there with a prayer

We find a cozy corner
Away from the winds and harm
Tnd hang on it food for the birdsies
To make them strong and warm.

After your Tree has given you joy
Don't carelessly toss it away
But give it a place outside to adorn Until it no longer can stay.

Taft and Eisenhower Backers Optimistic

One of the impressions this writer has after talking at length with the Massachusetts leaders of the Taft and Eisenhower campaigns is the high degree of optimism held by both groups.

Congressman Christian A. Herter, who is sparking the Bay State drive for Eisenhower predicts that the General will get about three-fourths of the Massachusetts votes at next July's Republican national convention in Chicago.

Basil Brewer, the New Bedford publisher who has been designated as the Taft spokesman here, is ready to put his political reputation behind the forecast that Senator Taft will poll a majority of the Massachusetts convention votes.

Both Herter and Brewer ordinarily come pretty close to knowing what they're talking about when they're discussing politics. Neither is prone to using rose-colored glasses in surveying the political scene, but one of them is going to be proved wrong in this instance.

It will be interesting to see whether Brewer accepts the counter proposition advanced by Herter for avoiding a fight over the election of the 10 delegates-at-large from this State.

Brewer has suggested to National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks that five Taft supporters and five Eisenhower backers be named to the 10-man slate, splitting the votes evenly between the two major Presidential candidates.

Herter responded with the proposal that several of the men named as delegates-at-large be bound by the sentiment expressed by the Republican voters when they write their Presidential preferences onto the ballot in the April presidential primary.

It already seems certain that a terrific fight will be waged between the Eisenhower and Taft groups in the 14 congressional districts over the election of 28 of the Massachusetts delegates.

Whether that battle will also extend to a State-wide level and cover the 10 delegates-at-large, will depend on the outcome of the negotiations between Herter and Brewer. If they can't reach a satisfactory agreement, the matter probably will be fought out at the polls.

Former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes and Republican House Leader Charles Gibbons are ready to head up a slate formally pledged to Taft if there is to be a contest for the posts as delegates-at-large. Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Leverett Saltonstall and Congressmen Herter and Heseltine are committed to Eisenhower and presumably would form the nucleus for an Eisenhower-at-large slate, if there is to be one.

Former Governor Robert F. Bradford is understood to be friendly disposed to Eisenhower, but Bradford's friends intimate that he isn't likely to declare for the General until the latter announces his candidacy.

National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks is seemingly caught between the fire of the two factions. He probably leans toward Taft but wants the right to go uncommitted to the Republican convention and to exercise his own discretion in deciding how his vote will be cast. He may not be able to do that this year.

Weeks presumably will select the 10 delegates-at-large, if an agreement is made that there will be only one slate, and his task won't exactly be an easy one. To some extent Weeks is on the spot in this campaign.

Great dissatisfaction with his management of Republican affairs was expressed by persons high in the party councils earlier this year, and at one time there was a powerful move to oust him as the party head. There is no certainty that he will be reelected national committeeman next summer.

Some confusion has been manifested as to just who is running the Eisenhower campaign in Massachusetts. A great many people are under the impression that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is the General's top man here.

The fact is that Lodge is the national manager of the Eisenhower campaign, but the direction of the drive for the General in this State is being left to Congressman Herter and former Ambassador William C. Phillips of Beverly, whose son is a Republican member of the State Senate.

Herter is willing to step aside if a truce can be achieved over the selection of the delegates-at-large and run as a district delegate in his own 10th congressional sector.

In such an event the Taft forces would make a tremendous drive against him.

One outgrowth of this situation may be the generation of far greater interest on the part of Republican voters in the election of G.O.P. delegates next April than has been expressed here for many years.

The Taft supporters will be formally pledged to the Ohio Senator, and his name will be listed below theirs on the ballot so that in their case there will be no possible misunderstanding on the part of the voters.

As matters now stand, the Eisenhower advocates are not planning to be officially pledged, though it's conceivable that this strategy might be altered if Ike announced his candidacy in time, but they will make known publicly that they intend to vote for the General at the convention.

Reports from the State House indicate that Governor Dever will name State Senator Charles I. Taylor to the Roxbury district court to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge Frankland W. L. Miles who will be one of the few pensioners in history to draw more money in retirement than he did for working.

Taylor is an able attorney and undoubtedly will make a good judge.

But, according to the latest information, it is the Governor's intention to delay the appointment until after the close of the next legislative session so that Taylor may serve out his term in the Senate.

The unusual aspect to that situation is that the Legislature this year created a second full-time judgeship at the Roxbury court, and the Governor approved the action.

The argument advanced was that there is too much work at the Roxbury court for one judge. However, if the court can get along until next July or August with only one judge, it is going to show pretty clearly that there wasn't much real need for the establishment of the second judgeship.

Reporter Harry Schaudt of the South Bend, Ind., Tribune apologized to his city editor for his scanty coverage of a Shrine dinner, explaining that he had volunteered as a subject for hypnosis and had slept soundly through most of the affair. Unless the city editor had absorbed more than a usual amount of Christmas spirit, we doubt that he was very sympathetic.

Mayor Lewis Friend of Pahokee, Fla., explained in red-faced fashion how it happened that he shot his fellow hunter, Councilor D. W. Cunningham who had climbed up in a tree to use it as an observation post. "I mistook his polka-dot shirt for a turkey gobbler," declared His Honor. Maybe the Councilor ought to wear a tuxedo next time.

After a trusty at the State prison farm in Carson, Nev., made off with one of the institution's red trucks, sold its load of farm equipment and treated himself to several drinks before abandoning the vehicle, Warden Arthur Bernard ordered that the prison trucks be repainted with large white and black stripes.

Tavern Owner Julius Barnes of Pekin, Ill., invited the jury to drinks on the house after it acquitted him of drunkenness, despite the fact that five police officers testified that he had at least one drink too many before he took a hammer, chisel and tongs and tried to steal the old City Hall's 800-pound cornerstone which was rumored to contain a quart of 1884 whiskey.

When 11-year-old Duane Hunter of Detroit revealed that he had taken a $30 stake and run it up to $2805 at a horse race, the judge ordered him to put all his winnings in defense bonds.

Attaches at the U. S. Army's Christmas shopping service in Yokohama are still talking about an order they received from an infantry private in Korea to send eight identical evening bags to eight different girls in the U. S., with the message, "I will love you always."

State Senator Victor Zednick of Seattle, who missed delivering the valedictorian address at the graduation of the Broadway High School 48 years ago because he was stricken with scarlet fever, finally gave the talk at a reunion of the class of '03. It must have been just a little out of date.

After being arrested in East Hartford for driving through a red light, Mrs. Doris Tatro candidly explained to police that the reason she had never taken a test for an automobile driver's license "was because I didn't have enough confidence in my driving ability." The cops undoubtedly dropped the entire matter after that explanation.

Two hoodlums held up the Southern United Ice and Coal Co. in Memphis, Tenn., at gunpoint and walked off with 12½ pounds of ice. Maybe they were only practising.

The Scranton, Pa., Times reported to its readers that "Edgar Clarkson and Anna Mae Thomas will be wounded in Lexington Methodist Church at 3 p.m."

Police in Excelsior Springs, Md., arrested Edward Cotteleer, a magician entertainer at the Elms Hotel, charging him with making off from the hotel with silverware, dishes, two ice buckets, a crystal water pitcher, a card table, table mats, bath rings, tablecloths, napkins, hand and bath towels, wash cloths, blankets, sheets, pillows and pillow slips.

A thief broke into the study of the Rev. W. Landon Miller in Brookhaven, Miss., and stole 710 typewritten sermons and a tape recorder. He should be reformed by now.

Paul Simpson of Burlington, N. C., celebrated his 47th birthday on his day off by running 52 miles across country.

The 38th regiment of the 2nd division in Korea put in for a portable generator and two typewriters, was later sent a candle and two pencils.

The Free Man's Manifesto

When in the course of human events, inhuman hordes arise to threaten freedom, we who still are free arise to defend it. We have met the challenge before and beaten it down. We have learned the need for unending vigilance. We are vigilant now. We are united, determined and strong. This is not alone because of our material strength. Our real power flows from our moral and spiritual resources. We are strong because we are free, and we have been bred to value freedom far above our lives. We pride ourselves on certain traditions, certain values. As free men we believe in the tradition of individualism . . . in the integrity of the individual, his personal worth, his independence, his dignity. We believe in the widest personal opportunity; narrowed down as little as possible by public interference. We believe in the competitive spirit . . . competition among ourselves, but not between the governed and those who govern. We believe in free private enterprise . . . in what a man can achieve by his own hands and brain; by his energy, industry and inspiration, by his determination and self-reliance. As free men we believe in the other fellow's freedom—in his merit, his integrity and his independence. We believe in the tradition of mutual self-help. And we endorse the practice—as well as the theory—of the Golden Rule. We believe in the tradition of decentralized power—politically and economically. As free men we believe in a rule of law—and in a government of laws rather than of men. That is because where laws rule, impartial justice is probable—where men rule, partial justice is possible. As free men, we believe in the right of democratic criticism of authority. We reject thought control as well as speech control. We seek the truth but reserve the right to be honestly mistaken. These traditions, these values, these freedoms form the great and unshakable foundation of our system. We have learned to recognize the enemy within or without. We can peer through his smokescreen . . . We know all his tricks of camouflage. He may appear in a different uniform. He may run up different colors. He may sound a new battle cry of hate. But he can never change his true identity. This enemy is always tyranny—whether imperialism in 1914, Nazism in 1940, or Communism today. In earlier trials the cause of freedom emerged triumphant over the soul-destroying forces that blocked the human path. We who were rescued from tyranny then do not forget the rescuers who fought and the rescuers who died. We who still are free will conquer again—in their name—and in the name of freedom.

ROBERT MONTGOMERY.

AT THESE PRICES HOW MANY electric plants WOULD YOU LIKE ?

Nowadays, electric plant construction comes higher than ever. Everybody knows how building costs have gone up. But modern, mass-production plants are the big guns in the battle to hold down electric rates. And you can judge how the battle is going from the fact that electricity is still New England's biggest bargain. Small investors finance electric plants—and as more building is needed in the future they will be ready to help again—providing always that the electric companies are permitted to earn fair returns and pay fair dividends.

Bruce Nasher Wins Contest

Bruce Nasher, Den 5, Angler Cub Pack 10, Waban, was named top winner in the recent Cub Gum Drive by Chester Singer, head of the Annual Gum Drive committee. The drive prizes which included football helmets, baseball bats and many other awards were distributed at the Christmas party held this week at the Angler School. Other winners were Carl Uenlein, Stephen Postar, Stephen Beebe, Mark Leschetsky, Richard Geist, Peter Stephan, and Stephen Landy. Top feature of the Christmas party program was the arrival of Santa Claus, Jim Harrington, who with the help of members of the pack, distributed presents made by the Cubs, to their parents. Refreshments were served the boys and their families in the school gym.

Edward C. Uehlein, chairman of the Cub committee announced that 30 per cent more gum was sold this year than last, and extended his thanks to the many parents and Newton citizens who made the drive such an outstanding success.

Hungarian-born Boy Scout Tells of Native Christmas

A Hungarian-born Norumbega Council Scout told about Christmas in his native land, and a former Scout Commissioner conducted an impressive candlelight ceremony to highlight the traditional Christmas Campfire, held last Saturday evening in Legion Cabin at Nobscot Reservation. Attending were over 150 Explorer Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and their families and friends.

Zoltan Voross, who is 18 years old and a member of Explorer Post 11, was born in Kispes, Hungary, and arrived in this country June, 1950, after spending five years in a DP camp in the Austrian Alps. There are only minor differences, he said, between the way Christmas was celebrated there and the way it is celebrated here. In Hungary the day was commemorated with greater religious emphasis, and it was the angels instead of Santa Claus who brought the tree and gifts. All this is no more, he added, for with the advent of Communism Christmas was banned. He ended his talk in a somber tone which underscored the cleavage between the atheism of Communism and the religious freedom of this country which Scouts have learned to practice and respect.

Presiding at the candlelight ceremony was Dr. Neil W. Swinton, a member of the Executive Board of Norumbega Council. He was assisted by twelve Scouts, each representing one of the twelve points of the Scout Law. With just one candle as the sole light in the hall, Dr. Swinton gave a brief talk on good citizenship. It is a common goal, he said, and assumes particular significance at Christmas time. To the boys it means giving a helping hand, being a good neighbor, and having consideration for those less fortunate than ourselves. To the adults it means building a good home life and participating in local affairs, the real bastions of democracy. At the conclusion of these remarks, each of the participating Scouts in turn recited one of the points of the Scout Law, at which time his candle was lighted from Dr. Swinton's candle which symbolized the spirit of Scouting. From these lights were ignited the candles of all those present. Amid the shadows cast by the flickering flames of scores of candles, the Scouts rededicated themselves to the cause of Scouting by joining in the Scout Oath.

Other features of the program included the appearance of Santa Claus, who vainly tried to convince those present that he was not Ralph Darian, Assistant Scout Executive. Stunts and contests under the leadership of Don Fifield, Field Scout Executive, and Parker Williams, Advisor of Explorer Post 51, further enlivened the festivities. Leigh Nisbet, Scout Executive, introduced an element of Scouting lore by extending Christmas greetings to all in the Indian sign language. Interspersed throughout the Campfire were Christmas carols and Scouting songs led by George M. Shannon, Scout Commissioner and song leader extraordinary.

The entire program was sponsored by the Norumbega Council Explorer Scouting Committee, under the chairmanship of J. Clifford French. Parker Williams was Master of Ceremonies. Great credit for the success of the evening is due W. Bradford Gove and his Explorers from Post 80, who solved the parking problems under trying weather conditions.

F. A. Day Junior High School Notes

Mr. Alden Read, faculty director of Civilian Defense preparation within our school, has spotted each home room in its location. The first all-school drill for the current year was most satisfactory.

A new "3 lunch" schedule was inaugurated on Monday, December 10. Pupils now go to the cafeteria by grades. The purpose of our new plan is to avoid present congestion in the cafeteria and to prepare for the feeding of an evergrowing school population.

Room 17 won the championship for the eighth grade Girls home room volleyball ball by winning all games except one.

Results of the 8th grade Girls home room tournaments: Room 13 is the champion; Rooms 14 and 17 tied for second place. Room 27, although defeated, displayed superior sportsmanship and team play.

Boys' sports—8th Grade, Room 13 defeated 14 in basketball by a score of 19-11. 9th Grade—Room 11 defeated 21 by a score of 32-28 in a lively contest; Room 23 defeated 22 by a score of 11-8.

The main bulletin board exhibit featuring original drawings portraying winter sports was executed by Richard DiGregorio, assisted by Amy Morrison and Richard Proia.

The Christmas issue of the Day-tonian promises to be "superior" with 16 extra pages of pictures in addition to the regular Daytonian features, a double page of puzzles, special Christmas stories and poems.

The theme of our assembly program on Friday was the safety of the pedestrian. Inspector Joseph Murphy from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Officer Charles Feeley from the Newton Police Department, former Day pupil, and Mr. Warren Huston, assistant director of physical education and safety education at Newton High School and another former Day pupil, were the speakers. Officer Murphy showed an excellent moving picture, entitled "Safety Island." Robert Reeves was student chairman of the assembly.

The Junior Red Cross representatives have distributed Red Cross Gift boxes to the home rooms. They will be filled for overseas shipment directly after Christmas vacation.

Newton Junior College Notes

The executive committee of the Students Association at Newton Junior College is finding more than enough to do in this season of the year, according to the chairman, Tom Fahey. The committee is now laying plans for its second dance of the year. The informal dance will be held January 15 and will honor the college basketball team in timing and motif. On that evening, the basketball team will play Emerson College in the Newton gymnasium at 6 p.m., and the dance will begin when the game ends, at about 8 o'clock. Sam Turner is in charge of the various dance committees, and Bill Aldrich is working on publicity.

The executive committee is a body of nine students elected each year by the Students Association to administer the extracurricular life of students and to represent the students to the college administration in affairs of policy and procedure. The committee meets regularly each week.

Recently, the decision was made to have the Students Association sponsor special convocations which would engage well-known speakers and be open to the general public. The convocations will begin in January and further details will be announced soon.

"In addition to coordinating extracurricular affairs," said Mr. Fahey, "the committee should take an interest in all aspects of college which affect students intimately, including class activities." It was announced that recently members of the Junior College Advertising Class were guests of Mr. Walter Murphy at the Libbie Press in Allston. Mr. George Neilson is the class instructor. The class had an opportunity to see first hand the operation of five-color presses and the methods of reproducing labels and wrappings of many nationally known products from such concerns as the First National Stores, Huebner's, Lever Bros., National Biscuit Company, and Educator Biscuit Company.

On December 13, the members of the class in Textiles had as a guest Dr. Simon Williams, consultant for the Fabric Research Laboratories of Boston and lecturer on general education at Harvard University. Miss Turner, the instructor, had requested Dr. Williams to discuss consumer education in the field of the natural textile fibers.

If you are solicited by mail on your views about United States foreign policy, it will be the work of the class in American Social Problems at Newton Junior College, HTe class, under the guidance of Mr. Pelties, is working on a sample of Newton citizens.

"It appears," said the committee chairman, "to be a very busy year for us on all fronts."

What Shall We Eat... For Winter Health

Every time we see the children pulling on those overshoes and ski-jackets, we marvel at the energy of youth... and it is happy evidence of the nourishment we provide for them every day. At this time of year, a glass of milk before a session of coasting can be a mainstay for the snow-play set. A milk drink with a little flavoring and trimming becomes a party after coasting or skating.

Here is a Maple Punch that you can serve simply, as you mix it. Or... having the time and the ice cream... make ice cream faces ahead of time, store them in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator; and serve atop Maple Punch in mugs. We heard one youngster call the drink with the bobbing features on the ice cream face, "Peek-a-Poo Punch." Here are the ingredients for making the faces... and it's good at lunch too.

PEEK-A-BOO PUNCH

¾ cup maple sirup
1½ teaspoons cinnamon

¼ teaspoon salt
6 cups cold milk
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Chocolate bits
Maraschino cherries Whole cloves
Blend maple sirup, cinnamon, salt and cold milk, using rotary beater. Turn into chilled glasses or mugs. Dip 6 round ice cream balls. Make a face on each using chocolate bits for eyes, maraschino cherry slices for mouths and whole cloves for noses. Spoon remaining ice cream into glasses and top each with one of the ice cream faces. Serve 6. Graham crackers spread with cream cheese and nuts make a good accompaniment.

Orange Sextet Blanks Rindge, 6-0, for Third

The Newton High hockey team had its easiest touch last week in the G. B. I. League circuit, whipping a hapless Rindge Tech, 6 to 0, at the Boston Garden and remaining undefeated in its three starts.

Coach Jack Hall had put together one of his best sextets of all time. It has been some time since an Orange club has jumped off to such a fine start.

While subduing easily the league's so-so aggregations, Newton will be up against a strong Arlington sextet on January 5 at the Boston Arena. The Hallmen have registered victories against Cambridge Latin (3-2), and Medford (3-1). Arlington, winner of two and with one tie, will present the stiffest test in the path of top honors for the Orange.

Leading the scoring parade were defenseman Don Thompson and wing Paul Fitzgerald, both lighting the lamp twice. Fitzgerald, one of the Newton first stringers, opened the way toward the Rindge net in the first period with his duo of goals within three minutes of each other.

After almost six minutes of the opening stanza, Fitzgerald gathered in a pass from the side from center Don Fox and rifled the disc into the left corner from about the 30-foot mark. At 9:45, the Rindge goalie warded off a try from in front of his net by Joe Salvia, but Fitzgerald took the rebound and smacked it off the net-tender's skate for the second Newton tally.

The middle chapter produced nothing for either team, and Thompson opened the final period by slamming home a 35-foot-er after taking the puck down on a solo jaunt. The fine Orange defenseman circled the Rindge cage and skated out before making his bid, shooting cleanly through the screen of defenders in front of goalie Bob Maccini.

Thompson's first contribution to the rout came at 4:10, and Fox quickly followed up with another counter at 5:55. The sharp Newton center knocked in his own rebound from the left side of the net from about six feet, giving the Orange a healthy 4-0 edge.

A short pass from Fox to Thompson just past the blue line set up the next goal. Thompson fired from the 15-foot mark after sailing down the left side and crossing over in front of the cage. Left wing Salvia came in for his share of the scoring honors at 8:47 of the last period, taking a deflected shot made by

Thompson from 15-feet out and whipping the disc netward for the final marker. The summary: NEWTON 6 RINDGE 0 NEWTON — g. Rigby, rw. Fitzgerald; lw. Salvia; c. Fox; rd. Thompson; ld. Voner. Spares — O'Hayre, Langdon, McCarthy, Lynch.

RINDGE — g. Maccini; rw. Crocker; lw. Souza; c. Cluan; ld. Goss; rd. Hamilton. Spares — Hanlon, Balcolmin, Verrier, McKinley, Sheehan, Agneta.

Score by Periods:
First Period — Fitzgerald (Fox), 6:40; Fitzgerald (Salvia), 9:43.

Third Period — Thompson (unassisted), 4:10; Fox (unassisted), 5:55; Thompson (Fox), 6:10; Salvia (Thompson), 8:47.

Unemployment

A further analysis of the 41 per cent payment decline in the ten-month period shows that all areas of the state didn't share equally. Decreases ranged from an average of 54 per cent for ten Metropolitan Boston communities to an average 13 per cent for seven cities and towns in northeastern Massachusetts. Central and western portions of the state showed average drops of 51 per cent and 43 per cent respectively, while southeastern Massachusetts' payment decline was only 39 per cent.

Lawrence and North Adams are the only two cities in the state where unemployment payments were higher than in 1950. While North Adams' benefits dropped during September and October, Lawrence unemployed were still collecting $200,000 a week as against $40,000 in the same period of 1950. The total paid in the Lawrence area for ten months this year is in excess of $5,000,000.

England said the drop in benefits was reflected in the size of the unemployment fund at the close of the ten-month period. With $80,000,000 collected in unemployment taxes and $40,000,000 paid out in benefits, the fund rose from $92,000,000 on January 1st to $132,000,000 on October 31st. In the same period last year benefit expense was $70,000,000 and income $48,000,000. The difference in income in the two periods was the automatic increase in unemployment taxes which boosted all employers to 2.7 per cent on January 1st of this year.

Name Finance Committee for Fund Campaign

A finance committee to coordinate the fund-raising activities of the Boston University Hill House Corporation has been appointed by Edward E. Cohen, Brookline, president of the group, it was announced this week.

Joseph Kaylan of Newton was named chairman of the committee, which will expand the fund-raising campaign for the projected $350,000 Hill House to be erected at Boston University next year. This house will serve as headquarters for the more than 2,500 Jewish students and their friends at the University.

One of the main functions of the committee will be to designate rooms at the modern, three-story Hill House building in honor of contributors or persons indicated by donors.

Other members of Mr. Kaplan's finance committee include: Abraham Zimble, Newton; Morris Borkum, Newton; Abraham S. Burg, Lynn; Henry Berlin, Brookline; Frank S. Shapiro, Newton; Joseph Ford, Brookline; Samuel Goldstein, Chestnut Hill.

Fire Causes
Portland, Ore. (SF) — Eight out of every ten forest fires are man-made — six through carelessness and two intentionally.

Pipeline Project
Dallas (SF) — The nation's natural gas industry will construct a total of 7,618 miles of new pipelines in 1951 at a cost of more than $630 million.

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT... The Town of Brookline had a net immigration of 6,734 residents between 1940 and 1950, the largest of any city or town in the Commonwealth. Newton came second with 6,574 and Natick third with 4,267. The ten important industrial centers where weekly earnings per factory wage earner averaged highest in November were Lynn $79.86, Beverly $79.32, Pittsfield $76.45, Everett $74.12, West Springfield $73.81, Quincy $69.53, Worcester $69.54, Chicopee $68.67, Gardner $68.00 and Peabody $66.29 as reported by Dept. of Labor and Industries. Bank checks paid in ten leading Massachusetts cities during November amounted to $3,944,690,000, an increase of 0.4 per cent over those a year ago. Important population movements occurred within the City of Boston between 1940 and 1950. The Back Bay area showed a net immigration equal to 22.3 per cent of its 1950 population; South End had 11.8 per cent and Charlestown 10.8 per cent due partly to new housing projects; West Roxbury had 10 per cent and Hyde Park 2.9 per cent. Areas that showed net out-migration were East Boston 22.7 per cent, North End 12 per cent, North Dorchester 16 per cent, South Boston 7.5 per cent, South Dorchester 7.4 per cent, Roslindale 4.4 per cent, West End 4.2 per cent, Jamaica Plain 3.7 per cent, Brighton 2.8 per cent and Roxbury 2.3 per cent. All the areas except South End reported more births than deaths and Boston as a whole had 54 per cent more births than deaths in the 1940-1950 decade. The Town of Southbridge has prepared a zoning bylaw to be submitted at the next annual Town Meeting.

Pictures of Mexico Shown to Members

The last meeting in 1951 of the Newton Art Association was held at the Newtonville Women's Club and attended by about 100 members and their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris and Dr. and Mrs. James Janney, members of the Art Association furnished the major portion of the entertainment with the showing of colored pictures made during their recent trips into Mexico. Interesting scenes showing churches, rugged mountains, agricultural activities, and family life were made more enjoyable by supplementary remarks by both Mr. Morris and Dr. Janney.

An exhibition of excellent paintings in water color and oils, painted on their travels into the Republic of Mexico, hung on the walls and created extra interest.

The host and hostess for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis who provided the refreshments. They were assisted by the members of the hospitality committee in charge of its chairman, Mrs. Alan Goodwin.

The members were overjoyed at the presence of Mrs. Clara Hudson, former secretary of the Association, who appears to be well on the road to recovery after a serious automobile accident last summer.

At the next meeting on Thursday, Jan. 3, 1952, the guest artist will be James K. Bonnar, former president of the Club who will demonstrate the painting of a picture in oil.

IF YOU'RE THE HOST at a party during the current holiday season, you may not be forced to label your guests' driving abilities as is the chap in this cartoon creation by Artist Jim Mackey. But Liberty Mutual Insurance Company reminds you that, as a host, you must remember that many of your friends will be driving home after the party.

It's your responsibility to look out for the guest who doesn't know when to stop drinking. If he's not fit to drive, help him find another driver or call a taxi for him.

Whether you're a host or a guest at a holiday party, remember that alcohol and gasoline don't mix. If you must celebrate, make sensible driving plans in advance. Arrange to have the trip home handled by a reliable driver or use a taxi. Use a little common sense so that neither you nor your friends will have an accident and become the "death" of the party.

Spotlight on the Newtons

By RALPH and TUNNI COOLIDGE

Have you ever moved to a strange city, only to find yourself lonesome and friendless? Did you then want to meet folks who would inform you of "what's what" in the community, or—who would just talk to you? Ten years ago, Mrs. Miriam Hudson Clark, of Waban, tackled this problem. Today, she is known as the founder of a prominent organization in the Newtons, known appropriately as the Newton Newcomers' Club.

When Mrs. Clark first entertained newcomers to her home for a dessert bridge, she set the pace for future meetings. The Club usually meets every first and third Friday of each month, in the Newton Highlands' Workshop. After Mrs. Walter E. McCue, Club President, adjourns the business meeting, the ladies turn to bridge. Husbands are invited to a dinner bridge, once a year.

"The purpose of our Club is to develop fellowship and acquaintance among new residents and their assimilation into the citizenship and social activities of their new community," says Mrs. McCue, Club President. A vibrant personality, Mrs. McCue is an able leader. She led Christmas Carols during the Anniversary meeting, and directed the making up of Christmas baskets for charity. Daughter of Joseph Allen, retired actor, she was born in Boston and travelled all over this country with him on tours. She attended Regis College, in Weston. When her father was called to Hollywood for an acting contract, she transferred to Immaculate College, in Los Angeles, California, where she majored in Merchandising and Retailing. She returned East to the family homestead and was associated with Lord and Taylor, and Saks 5th Avenue, New York.

In 1949, she was Service Executive for Jordan Marsh Co. Mr. Walter E. McCue claimed her as his bride, in 1949. She is now the mother of two daughters, Ellen Marie and Michele. She is also leader of Girl Scouts, in Waban, and is a member of the St. Phillip Neri Guild.

The Newton Newcomers' Club holds one guest day a year, each Fall. In the Spring, the Club holds a luncheon for its members, usually at the Workshop.

Twice a year, the Executive Board entertains about eight new members at a Board member's home. The Executive Board is voted in by a nominating committee, then approved by all club members.

Although bridge is the usual diversion of the organization, a Bowling group meets weekly in the morning, during winter months. Golf enthusiasts get together at each other's clubs, for a round on the green.

The Club now has about 100 members. Besides its President, Mrs. Walter E. McCue, other officers are: Mrs. James Thompson, vice president; Mrs. John L. McAvoy, secretary; Mrs. Edmund Sweeney, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Corkum, social chairman; Mrs. W. A. Swallow, membership chairman; Mrs. Philip Roy, telephone chairman; Mrs. John Hitt, publicity chairman; Mrs. Bates Macgowan, nominating chairman. The living past presidents, who were present for the "cake cutting" at the Tenth Anniversary meeting, are: Jane Winestock, Virginia Maloney, Miriam Robinson, Neva Brister, Ernestine Blaisdell, Ruth Flaherty, Jean Rothwell, and Hope Bordon. Charter members who cut the Anniversary Cake, were Hazel Corkum, and Margaret Ham.

As the name implies, only those living in this area under two years, are invited to join. Many continue their friendship with members, and continue to attend meetings, when they have left the community. Here, many life-long friendships are formed. Most members are married; through solving their mutual acquaintance problem, have much in common.

An organization that familiarizes friendly faces to what would be a sea of strangers to a newcomer, the Newton Newcomers' Club is a boon to those who come into our midst; it is an asset to our community.

Hobby Class Will Meet Friday

Friday the Hobby Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Carter, 65 Harding st., West Newton. Mrs. Chester MacDowell will be co-hostess. The hostess will serve dessert at 1 p. m. The Leader, Mrs. Percival Waters will conduct the business meeting following the dessert hour.

During the afternoon the members and guests will work on projects for the Veterans Hospital. During November, the class made and filled Christmas bags for the Veterans in Cushing Hospital. These were put with the bags made by the mother club, West Newton Women's Educational Club. Mrs. Donald Moody, President, and Mrs. Patrick Duncan, Chairman of the Peace Service Committee delivered about fifty bags to the Cushing Hospital last week.

Annual Guest Nite To Be Held Jan. 9

MRS. WALTER E. McCUE, President of the Newton Newcomers' Club, stands between two charter members, as they cut the Club's Tenth Anniversary cake. Also at the table, are eight Past Presidents of the Club.

The story deals with the Anderson's trip through 30 States and 3 Canadian Provinces, carrying their own canvas home, cooking their own meals and in general, roughing it for 15,000 miles.

Hostess for the evening is Mrs. John H. Barrett.

Sunday, December 16, the combined music groups of The Fessenden School presented the annual Carol Service before an appreciative audience of parents and friends of the school. The choir under the direction of Mr. William Cook, and accompanied by organ and piano, sang special Christmas music, as well as the familiar carols. The Scripture lessons were read by Mr. Hart Fessenden, the readmaster.

As a further observance of the Christmas season, a play entitled "Santa Take a Nap" was given Tuesday morning, December 18, Mrs. Robert Goodhue, of Belmont, Santa dreams about some of his little friends far and near, and solves some of his Christmas problems. Carols were sung by the Glee Clubs. ## Winter's Coldest Week

Do you have a week's winter vacation and want to go south for the coldest week? If so, Paul Dalrymple, of Syracuse University Graduate School of Geography, offers the following from the 67-year record of the Blue Hill Meteorological Observatory which he has been analyzing in detail. The seven-day period, January 30 to February 5, is distinctly the heart of Old Man Winter. This week, centered on February 2, Ground Hog Day, has a mean temperature of 22.6 degrees F on the summit of Blue Hill, in Milton. Thus, the Boston ground hog comes out in winter's coldest week. Whether or not he sees his shadow the records show that there will be six weeks more of winter on the average, for as late as March 17, Saint Patrick's Day, the mean daily temperature is no more than a chilly 31.7 degrees F.

Employers, Please Note

The Massachusetts Fair Employment Practice Law has been amended to prohibit discrimination in employment against qualified persons between the ages of 45 and 65.

The Commission Against Discrimination has determined that age may be asked or specified in Help Wanted advertising only when it is a bona fide job qualification.

The law does not apply to Domestic Help nor to persons or businesses employing less than six people.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mass. Commission Against Discrimination at CA 7-3111, or by writing the Commission at 41 Tremont street, Boston.

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Library Addition Dedication

At the dedication of the new addition to the Main Library building of the Newton Free Library held last Thursday evening, approximately 300 were present at the exercises.

Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology gave the principal address at the dedication exercises after which inspection of the library and an informal reception was held.

"Libraries in the Service of the Community" was the subject of Dr. Killian's talk in which he stressed the important part the library plays in the cultural, intellectual, and recreational life of the community.

President of the Board of Trustees of the Newton Free Library, Judge Thomas Weston, presided at the exercises. Rev. Ray A. Eusden of The Eliot Church in Newton gave the invocation, followed by remarks from Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood.

Head Librarian Harold A. Wooster and Architect W. Cornell Appleton, also spoke briefly.

A musical interlude was provided by the Teachers' String Quartette from the All Newton Music School composed of the following: Irene Forte, first violin; Ruth Bridges, second violin; Mary Scipione, viola, and Edna Tuckerman, cello. The benediction was given by Rt. Rev. Michael E. Doherty, pastor of the Church of Our Lady, Newton.

Chairman of the reception, sponsored by the Newton Improvement Association was Mrs. Henry H. Balos, assisted by sub-chairman, Mrs. Stepan Currier and Miss Margaret Magoley.

Increase Number Of Ballet Students

Carolyn Wells, formerly of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, has announced that because of a successful fall season at her Wellesley Hills' studio, she will increase the number of openings available to prospective ballet students. Inaugurated this year in response to the increasing interest in ballet, Miss Wells' school has attracted not only those interested in classical dancing as a career but also many beginners who want mainly to gain poise.

Miss Wells ended her own stage career last spring after touring the United States and Canada with the Ballet Russe. Before becoming associated in that company with Alexandra Danilova and Frederic Franklin, she studied with Anthony Tugor of Ballet Theatre, and at the American School of Ballet in New York, under George Balanchine, Anatole Obukhov, and Pierre Vladimirov, the last partner of Pa'lova. Previous to joining the Ballet Russe, Miss Wells danced in Broadway shows, and taught ballet in Boston for several seasons.
